BATTLE HORNER OVER BEER AND GAS TAX BILLS

School Plan Fails; Vetoes Bars.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner and the general assembly found themselves at odds today on two important pieces of legislation—the beer bar bill and the proposed gasoline tax for schools measure.

The governor vetoed the Devine bill which would permit the sale of beer over bars and legislative leaders immediately made a start on a campaign to override the veto. Definite action toward this end was delayed, however, because the house of representatives, in which the motion to quash the veto must first be made, lacked a quorum.

In the state senate the gas tax school bill, for which there has been intense campaigning for a week, came to a vote. Only 24 members could be found to vote for it and 14 were against. With its emergency clause, the measure must have 34 votes to pass.

Strong Move for Repassage.

News of the veto of the beer bill reached the senators while they were debating the school matter. Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], declared that if the veto came before the senate he would use all his influence to quash it.

The people of his district, he asserted, wanted to drink beer without having to buy a meal with every glass. There was a strong sentiment for repassage among Chicago senators and representatives.

Representative John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon], who with Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] was sponsor for the "free and unrestricted" sale of beer in the state, arrived here late today to learn that his bill had been disapproved.

"There's no use moving to pass it over the veto with only twenty votes present," said Devine.

Consequently he did not object when Representative R. V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago] raised the point of a quorum.

Requires 102 Votes.

"We'll wait and see what happens," Devine said.

"What happens" will depend upon the senate action on the school bills. If the governor's gas tax diversion bill passes it will be thrown into the house hopper and the members will flock to Springfield to vote upon it. Consequently there will probably be enough present to risk a vote on repassage of the beer bill over the veto.

Passage over the veto would require 102 votes in the house and 34 votes in the senate. Since the bill received 116 votes in the house and 35 in the senate, if all those members hold to their original stand the veto can be overridden.

Gov. Horner vetoed the Devine bill because he felt it would be encouraging the so-called "evils" of the old-time saloon. He does not believe that bar drinking, without the sale of food with each drink, should be tolerated, and his message to the house today was quite positive.

For Regulatory Character.

"Illinois," said the governor, "has adopted liberal legislation on the subject of beer and other alcoholic liquors by individual drink with such restrictions as will tend to prevent excessives and abusives of its use. Whether or not the absence of bars and the drinking at tables will accomplish this purpose, time and experience can only tell.

"I cannot approve at this time any legislation which strikes at one of the most important of these regulatory provisions and experiments. It is my belief that if the present act is properly enforced it will succeed in regulating the character of the place where liquor is retailed by individual drink.

"It is not important to the consumer whether he drinks standing at a bar or seated at a table. Surely, the bar is no advantage to the consumer, although it may be to the seller, whose interest and advantage is to encourage speedier and excessive drinking. Laws should be enacted in the interest of the public, not alone for the benefit of the liquor dispensers. Laws should serve the needs and will of the public.

"Affects All Liquor."

"It is, however, important, that those things which characterize the old time saloon be changed if our promise to the people is to be kept and the bar was definitly one of the symbols of the old time saloon.

"It is urged that the provisions of house bill 26 [the Devine bill] relates to the sale of beer only. This is true so far as the language itself is concerned. But in operation, it will affect the sale of all liquor. It will af-

Some Vets Fight Bill

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Charles M. Kinselving, national commander of the American Veterans' Association, sent telegrams tonight to members of the senate urging them to uphold President Roosevelt's veto of the independent offices bill.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today vetoed restoration of compensation to war veterans and government employés aggregating 200 million dollars a year. The house promptly repassed the bill over the veto. The vote in the house was 310 to 72, 55 more than the required two-thirds.

The house overrode the veto in an unruly session in which administration leaders seeking to defend the action of the President were booed down. Respectful attention was accorded the reading of a letter from the American Legion which, though somewhat vague, suggested that the bill be passed over the veto.

The house informed the senate by message that it had repassed the bill over the veto, but because of the absence of many senators a vote was postponed until tomorrow. Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] suggested the postponement, precipitating a heated discussion. Senators Bennett Champ Clark [Dem., Mo.] and Huey Long [Dem., La.] demanded an immediate vote.

In the midst of the wrangling Senator Robinson moved adjournment, which was carried 48 to 34. The Democratic leader asserted the senate tomorrow will sustain the veto, thus killing the legislation.

Recalls Cleveland Vetoes.

In a vigorously worded message recalling Grover Cleveland's famous vetoes of civil war pension bills Mr. Roosevelt reaffirmed in unmistakable terms the principle that veterans whose ailments were not actually incurred in war service are not entitled to government compensation.

Acting on this principle, he refused to sign the bill restoring compensation to 29,000 world war veterans whose disabilities are nonservice connected, and providing service pensions for Spanish-American war veterans.

The President declared that "those who were injured in or as a result of their service are entitled to receive adequate and generous compensation for their disabilities," but denied "that because a person served in the defense of his country, performed a basic act of citizenship, he should receive a pension from his government because of the disability incurred after his service had terminated and not connected with that service."

General Pensions Out.

As to the Spanish-American war veterans the President said: "I am wholly and irrevocably opposed to the principle of the general service pension, but I do seek to provide with liberality for all those who suffered because of their service in that war."

The President pronounced the independent offices appropriation bill containing the restoration of pensions and government pay wholly inconsistent with his 1933 economy program under which the regular cost of the government was reduced more than 600 million dollars, bringing the "recurring annual expenses for the maintenance of the government . . . within the current revenues."

By eliminating compensation for nonservice connected disabilities and other purging of the pension rolls the cost of veterans' benefits was reduced from 900 millions to 486 millions. Since the enactment of the economy measure the President, by executive order, has restored 117 millions of veterans' compension, bringing the total current cost up to 603 millions.

Adds 125 Millions to Pay.

The independent offices bill would have restored a part of the 15 per cent cut in government employés' pay amounting to 85 millions a year and by virtue of retroactive provisions to 125 millions this year. The President pointed out that while boosting current expenditures 228 millions over his budget, congress had failed "to provide a similar sum by additional taxation." To increase expenditures with-

TOO BUSY WATCHING THE PRESENT

A youthful romance and elopement which began Saturday night in Buchanan, Mich., ended last night with a tearfully repentant girl in Chicago and her college boy sweetheart in jail at St. Joseph, Mich., charged with abduction.

The girl is Miss Ruth Strunk, 17 years old, daughter of Frank Strunk, well to do oil company supervisor, of Buchanan. After a party Saturday night the elopement was planned, and the college youth, Vincent De Nardo, drove to Chicago with the girl. They were accompanied by a friend of De Nardo, whom he introduced as Anthony Gancer.

In Chicago De Nardo left Ruth in charge of Gancer, and returned to South Bend, where he is a freshman at Notre Dame university. In the meantime the girl was reported missing in Buchanan, and Strunk swore out a warrant against young De Nardo, who was arrested at South Bend. August Roti of Three Oaks, Mich., also was arrested as an accomplice of De Nardo.

Gancer and the girl were found in Chicago through a telegram the former sent to South Bend, and taken into custody at the request of Police Chief Edward Mitchell of Buchanan. Strunk was informed by telephone that his daughter had been found and he came to Chicago to take her back home.

President Goes South to Fish, Sail on Yacht

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—In a swirl of activity President Roosevelt today cleared his desk temporarily of pressing matters of state. He left at 5 o'clock this afternoon for a week of fishing and cruising along the coast of Florida.

Before he drove away from the White House this afternoon he had prepared for prompt return of the air mail to private aviation companies on a plan to be announced tomorrow, had postponed any crisis in the threatening railroad labor situation, had signed the bill starting a 750 million dollar naval building program, and had vetoed the bill increasing veterans' benefits and federal salaries.

Before catching his special train, the President visited his son, John, who is convalescing from an appendectomy at the Naval hospital. The President's train is bound for Jacksonville. There he will board Vincent Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal. Keeping in touch with a temporary headquarters at Miami by radio, the President expects to spend his full week deep sea fishing and cruising.

EAGER FOR VACATION.

En Route with President Roosevelt to Jacksonville, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt traveled southward tonight eager for a fishing vacation after one of the most eventful days of his year in the White House.

Weary but smiling, Mr. Roosevelt heaved a sigh as he sat down in his private car and started southward from the capital late this afternoon. He had no comment on the action of the house in overriding his veto.

With the President was another tired executive—Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

Tomorrow morning the President boards the yacht Nourmahal, owned by Vincent Astor, at Jacksonville, Fla., and heads immediately to the open sea and a week of complete relaxation.

No one in official or political life will be with the President in his week at sea, and he is counting upon a real rest.

Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary, rode with the President and will proceed to Miami to establish a contact base with the Nourmahal.

Yacht Ready for President.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—All is in readiness aboard the yacht Nourmahal, moored in the St. Johns river here, for President Roosevelt's vacation jaunt in southern waters.

The friends with whom the President will make his fishing voyage are George St. George, Frederick J. Kernochan, and Kermit Roosevelt of New York; Dr. Leslie Heither, Mobile, Ala., and Vincent Astor, the host.

POET LONGFELLOW'S DAUGHTER LEAVES ESTATE OF $1,500,000

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—[Special.]—Edmund N. Parker, who has been named executor in the will of the late Mrs. Annie Allegra Longfellow Thorp, today filed a bond in the Middlesex Probate court. Parker estimated the estate at $1,500,000. Mrs. Thorp, youngest daughter of the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, died Feb. 28. She is survived by five daughters.

'STUNT' HOSTESS TAKES GUESTS IN RAID ON HUSBAND

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Although Cobina Wright's "stunt parties" and society circuses are noted for originality, the invited guests at her most recent soirée are ready to testify—in court—that none was as novel or diverting as the raiding party on her husband's Greenwich Village apartment.

This event was described today in Mme. Cobina's divorce papers against William May Wright, head of the former stock exchange firm of Wright, Slade & Co.

It was an impromptu affair. Mme. Cobina was entertaining at her home, when private detectives telephoned.

"Come on, folks," she called to her friends. "I've got a brand new thrill for you."

Mme. Cobina burst right in, her guests at her heels.

Kansas City's Tammany Far Ahead in Poll

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—[Special.]—Kansas City's "Little Tammany" tonight had an overwhelming lead in the ballots cast today in a municipal election marked by two killings, numerous sluggings and charges that the voters had been intimidated by gunmen.

Mayor Bryce B. Smith, incumbent Democrat and candidate of the organization forces for reëlection, polled 136,317 votes, against 79,450 for Dr. A. Ross Hill, fusionist, with 451 of the 460 city precincts counted.

Indications were that six Democratic councilmen were elected. In the two southern districts of the city Fusionist candidates for the council led.

War on Pendergast.

The Fusionists, composed of independent Democrats and Republicans, had waged a stern war on the power of Tom Pendergast, long regarded as the "boss" of Kansas City politics. "Little Tammany" was accused of grafting millions of dollars, with municipal bookkeeping designed to cover up deficits, and with maintaining a police force composed in part of former convicts.

Answering the charges, a battery of Democratic speakers, headed by former Senator James A. Reed, declared the Republican organization was striving to ride into office on the Fusion bandwagon, and urged the voters to resist the attempt. A primary election had eliminated the regular Republican slate.

Deputy Sherif Slain.

Those killed during the balloting were Lee Flacey, a deputy sherif, and William Finley, a Negro Democratic precinct captain. Flacey fell during a factional Democratic fight in the southeast section of the city. A bystander, P. W. Oldham, was seriously wounded, as was Larry Cappo, alleged to have been one of Flacey's assailants. Finley was shot to death when he interfered in a quarrel between a Democratic judge of election and an unidentified man in a north side polling place.

Among those slugged were Dr. Arthur H. Wells, Fusionist candidate for councilman, who had charged political management made the General hospital inefficient, and Justin D. Bowersock, a reporter for the Kansas City Star. They were together and Bowersock asserted gunmen had pursued them to the entrance of the Star building. The newspaper has offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the sluggers.

Woman Is Blackjacked.

Mrs. Violet Sprague, a Fusionist worker, alleged that she was called from her home and beaten with blackjacks. Fusion workers also declared that roaming bands of terrorists, carrying baseball bats, invaded polling places in the section in which the Flacey killing took place, and beat challengers and clerks.

During the day Charles P. Woodbury, chairman of the Jackson county Republican committee, appealed to Gov. Guy P. Park for assistance in maintaining order, asserting that "murder and bloodshed must be stopped." The governor, after talking to election officials, said he believed the situation was in hand and declined to intervene.

Charges that men carrying machine guns in automobiles were touring the streets and frightening voters were under investigation. Eleven men under arrest were described as members of the National Youth movement.

TRIP BACK HERE CHECKED; FIND HE IS AN ALIEN

Samuel on New Ship?

Samuel Insull was reported early this morning by his lawyer in Athens to have transferred from the Greek freighter Maiotis, on which he fled from Greece more than a week ago, to an unnamed vessel and to be now headed for a secret destination. The Maiotis early today passed through the Dardanelles into the Sea of Marmora without stopping, an Istabul, Turkey, Associated Press dispatch said. The ship signaled it was bound for Rumania.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 28 (3:30 a. m. Wednesday). — [Special] — Martin Insull's return to Chicago for trial under the guard of a messenger assigned by President Roosevelt and on an order signed by the earl of Bessborough, governor general and personal representative in Canada of King George V., was abruptly halted here this morning by a U. S. immigration inspector whose book of rules told him Insull couldn't legally be admitted to the United States.

After 17 months of effort to bring back the fugitive from justice the attempt was on the eve of success when the immigration people put a block in the way. It had been expected that Insull, a prisoner, would reach Chicago at 8:15 this morning. Now the delay—which probably will not be of long duration.

Waked from Slumber.

Insull was asleep when his train rolled over the border, but the inspector, Joseph Als, demanded that he be awakened to answer questions. In the questioning the former utilities corporation head admitted that he was born in Reading, England, and had never been naturalized, although a resident of the United States for forty years. Also, he admitted, he had been in Orillia, Ont., for some seventeen months.

"Well," said Inspector Als, "the immigration law states that when an alien goes out of the United States for as much as six months he can't come in without a visa from a consul. He can't come in."

Inspector Is Adamant.

Lieut. Frank Johnson of the Chicago police, the presidential messenger, protested. Als was adamant. The party could not proceed. The inspector summarily shut off Johnson's protests and his voluble claims of the importance of his mission.

"I will arrest you if necessary," said Als, "on a charge of interfering with a government official in performance of his duty. The penalty is five years in the penitentiary."

So Insull, Lieut. Johnson, Maj. William Rafferty, son-in-law of the ex-utility head, and accompanying newspaper reporters left the train. All went to the Book-Cadillac hotel. At 9 a. m. a hearing before a board of three inspectors and one stenographer is to be held. The rules of Secretary Perkins' department, it is believed, will then permit the entry of Insull under parole to Lieut. Johnson.

"This is the silliest thing I ever heard of," said Insull, as he was being taken from the train to the hotel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 27.—Pale and gaunt after his eleven days of confinement in Toronto's Don jail, Martin J. Insull at 9:45 o'clock tonight left on a Canadian Pacific train for Chicago, where he is expected to stand trial on charges of stealing $364,720 from the treasury of the Middle West Utilities company.

Insull is in custody of Lieut. Frank Johnson of the Cook county state's attorney's office. The fugitive was turned over to Lieut. Johnson by the Canadian authorities this afternoon.

Insull's sunken eyes blinked behind tortoise shell glasses in the glare of the bright sunlight as he stepped out of the gloom back of the great oaken doors of the jail.

Toronto newspaper men who saw Insull at Orillia 17 months ago, when he was first arrested on a fugitive warant, said he appeared to have aged 20 years. He is 65 and looks older. His face is sallow, with hollowed cheeks and shadows under the eyes, and his hair is snow white. He wore a heavy blue overcoat that hung loosely on his spare frame. He kept the collar up and his hands thrust deep in his pockets.

To newspaper men who awaited his

Lieut. Johnson, accompanied by Lawrence Ryan, secretary to State's Attorney Courtney of Chicago, took his prisoner to the Royal York hotel, "largest in the British empire," where Insull put up when the Supreme court of Ontario was hearing arguments on his extradition appeal. There Insull was met by Maj. William Rafferty, his son-in-law, who accompanied Mrs. Insull from Orillia to Chicago after her husband's incarceration on March 17.

Insull availed himself of a bath and then ordered up some food, the first decent meal he had had since he went to jail.

In the automobile en route to the hotel Insull was apprised of his brother Samuel's shenanigans in the Mediterranean, of which he had no knowledge because newspapers are banned in the jail. He manifested much interest in these developments, but made little comment, according to the son-in-law.

On the train, just before departure, Insull was smiling constantly and occasionally managing to laugh, but he confined himself to small talk about the pleasures of fishing at Couchiching lake.

Won't Talk About Jail.

As to his feeling about the public clamor raised in Chicago since the collapse of the two billion dollar utilities enterprise Mr. Insull had nothing to say. Neither did he care to discuss his plans for the future in the event of an acquittal on the larceny charges.

"How did they treat you in the Toronto jail?" he was asked. Insull responded with another question: "Were you in the war? Well, men who were in the war don't like to talk about it. I have been in jail and I don't want to talk about that."

Lieut. Johnson arrived this morning with a presidential warant for Insull's extradition. This he presented to C. R. Magone of the provincial attorney general's office and received the royal warant of surrender signed by the earl of Bessborough, governor general and representative of the king.

"Leftenant" Flinches.

Toronto newspaper men called the Chicago policeman "Leftenant Johnson," which made him flinch. He thought they were kidding him, but later, when the officials used the same pronunciation, the police lieutenant came to the conclusion that "these Canadians just didn't know any better" and let it go at that.

It was the plan to reach Chicago at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow. When he gets there it is expected he will receive an immediate arraignment in the Felony court, where, it is reported, he will be able to post bond of $50,000 on two indictments sustained by the Canadian courts. These two indictments charge thefts of $20,000 and $344,720.

On a third indictment Insull cannot be tried. The application for his extradition had accused him of larceny and embezzlement of about $500,000 from the Middle West Utilities company and the Mississippi Valley company. The Canadian court, however, in its extradition order specified that only in the $20,000 and $344,720 indictments had the state of Illinois established prima facie cases of theft and limited his trial to those two charges.

INSULL ON NEW SHIP?

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 28.—[Wednesday.]—Whether Samuel Insull is still aboard the small Greek freighter Maiotis, on which he fled from Greece a week ago Sunday, became problematical early today. George Pop, one of Insull's attorneys here, said his information indicates that the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter is now aboard another vessel bound for an unknown destination.

Pop said he had not been in direct communication with his client for two days, but, he said, he is led to believe that Insull quit the Maiotis last Sunday while it was lying off the Italian iland of Rhodes, taking on water and fresh provisions. He said he did not know what flag the new Insull ship flies. Pop added that he refused to be responsible for the information.

Meanwhile Mrs. Insull, beset by worries over her inability to obtain permission to enter other European countries, appealed once more for American aid. Despite the fact that Lincoln MacVeagh, American minister here, has interceded in her behalf with both the French and British ministers, she is still without travel permits except for a transit visa allowing her a minimum time to change trains in Paris.

STREETS DARK AS CLEVELAND TRIES ECONOMY

Mayor to Let Out Half of Police and Firemen.

Cleveland, O., March 27.—[Special.]—Citizens in residential districts groped through dark streets tonight when Mayor Harry L. Davis inaugurated his economy campaign to save the city from bankruptcy.

Few lights were burning in any section of the city, except at intersections and crossings. Only one light in every series of five was turned on in the residential areas, while downtown streets were illuminated on only one side. The decision to leave the streets dark was reported at a meeting of the city council.

Mayor Davis told the council that the next step would be to reduce the personnel of the police and fire departments 50 per cent. He said that 500 employés of the service department had been discharged, and that hundreds of men in other departments would be let out in the next few days.

Fear Thieves' Invasion.

Garbage and ash collections will be practically at a standstill, parks will be kept closed and other city functions will cease.

Councilman Leroy N. Bundy objected to such drastic measures as cutting the police and fire departments in two and reducing by more than half the street lights.

"That will throw the city wide open to thieves and crooks of all kinds," he protested. "Fire insurance rates will soar, and pretty soon the United States government will be stepping in to take over operation of our city."

Mayor Davis said he agreed with the councilman, but added that it was necessary to take drastic action to make the people realize the seriousness of our financial condition.

Garbage Every 60 Days.

"We should have forced the legislature to realize that we needed immediate relief long before this," Councilman George Pillersdorf said. "The farmers who control the legislature are cutting our throats. Our representatives ought to hold out on them.

Service Director William Eirick reported that Clevelanders will be lucky to get their garbage collected once every two months and that ashes would be collected semi-annually under the new arrangements.

Five bridges over the Cuyahoga river will be closed to trafic at the opening of the navigation season, as the city will have no money to operate them. The bridges will be swung to permit the passage of boats and then chained in that position.

Plan Deficiency Bonds.

There is now little hope that the bond refunder bill will pass the legislature, but both the house and senate today approved the deficiency bill.

This bill provides that a municipality shall estimate its operating needs for the year; estimate the revenue it is to receive. If the revenue will not meet the operating needs, the city council shall determine the deficit and that the issuance of deficiency bonds is necessary.

Issuance of the bonds must then be approved by the state tax commission and a majority of the voters at an election.

Plans to keep Martin J. Insull out of the county jail were under way yesterday, as the state's attorney's office was requested to evaluate property at 6900 Euclid avenue, with a view to scheduling it on Insull's bond.

Insull was expected to arrive at 9:15 o'clock this morning, but was stopped at the United States-Canadian border by immigration officers. The property mentioned yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney William Carroll of the bond department is described as a $50,000 twelve room house, owned by John Irwin, official of the Irwin Brothers, Inc., at 197 South Water Market.

Irwin's attorney requested the investigation, and Irwin himself is expected to visit the Criminal Court building to schedule it on Insull's bond. The indication was that others would schedule additional property today to cover the $75,000 bond fixed for the former utilities official.

32,509,000 LIVING ON FARMS; NEW RECORD IS SET

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—The number of individuals living on farms reached a record peak of 32,509,000 on Jan. 1.

The bureau of agricultural economics, in a new study of farm population, today attributed the increase principally to an excess of births over deaths, since more people left farms for cities, in 1933 in a continuation of the farm exodus of the past decade, than went from cities to farms. Persons who moved to farms last year was 951,000, while 1,178,000 moved away.

The farm-bound movement involved 1,544,000 persons in 1932 while those moving away numbered 1,011,000.

The bureau based its estimates on data gathered on 146,817 farms in all parts of the country.

RETURN VERDICT ON ALLEGED VICE RESORT KEEPER

A jury in the court of Judge J. William Brooks last night returned a sealed verdict in the case of Tony Gustes, 40 years old, 1740 West 47th street, on trial on charges of pandering. The verdict will be read when court convenes today. Gustes was accused of employing Miss Estelle Gaidauskas, 19 years old, paroled inmate of the Geneva Home for Wayward Girls, in his flat, an alleged disorderly house. Judge Brooks ordered the arrest of Miss Helen Tillanis, 20 years old, alleged inmate of the flat, on a charge of perjury after Gustes refuted her testimony that Miss Gaidauskas had not stayed in the flat over night. She was released in bond of $200 and will be arraigned today on a contempt of court citation.

56 MILLION PAID OUT IN WAGES BY CWA OF ILLINOIS

State to Take Over Work Program Saturday.

By Saturday when the civil works administration goes out of existence in Illinois a total of 56 million dollars will have been spent by the federal government in CWA wages paid to more than a quarter of a million persons in the state.

Of this total expenditure nearly 33 million dollars has been spent in Cook county on wages to 127,000 persons. The remainder has ben expended in wages paid to 100,000 persons down state.

These facts were disclosed yesterday in a report made by Frank D. Chase, CWA administrator for Illinois. Mr. Chase also reported that the CWA rolls will be reduced to 115,000 for the state by Saturday when his job is ended. These persons, all of them formerly on the state emergency relief rolls, will continue to work under the state work relief program which is to supplant the CWA.

Relief Commission Ready.

Officials of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission reported that they are ready to begin administration of the relief program. Under this plan destitute persons will be given work on projects which were commenced under the CWA and have been approved by the relief officials as suitable for completion.

The quota of 115,000 persons who will be transferred from the CWA to the relief work program, it has been explained, was fixed only because this number of persons was taken from the state relief rolls when the CWA began operating last fall. Any person who is destitute and is dropped from the CWA payrolls may get a work relief job by applying to the commission, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, has said.

So far only a few work relief projects have been approved but others will be certified before the week is ended, it was said. The quota of work relief jobs for Cook county has been set at 65,000.

CWA Rolls Cut Down.

Part of the preparations made by CWA officials for the transfer to the work relief program has been the gradual discharge of almost half the CWA employés. Since last Jan. 18, when the CWA rolls reached a peak of 227,000 persons, the reduction has been carried on until last Monday only 126,500 were employed. Of these, 75,000 were in Cook county and 51,500 downstate. The reduction cut the weekly pay roll from its peak of $4,258,074 for the week of Jan. 18, to $2,275,372 for last week.

Another phase of the preparation for the change from CWA to work relief was brought to notice yesterday with the appointment of Dr. Martin H. Bickham, director of work relief in Cook county, to the post of state director.

Arthur R. Lord will take over the direction of the program in Cook county in addition to duties as assistant to Col. Edward J. Blair, state administrator of the work relief program. Col. Blair will control administrative policies of the program while Dr. Bickham will direct actual operations.

WOMAN CHOSEN TO RUN FOR JOB ON COUNTY BOARD

Won't Try to Boss Men, She Asserts.

Mrs. Lucy Mary Palermo, 10406 South Leavitt street, was selected by the Cook county Democratic central committee yesterday to fill the vacancy on the regular slate for county commissioner, caused by the death of Joseph M. Fitzgerald last Thursday.

Mrs. Palermo in an interview in the office of Michael L. Rosinia, city prosecutor, made it clear that she was not a woman given to much talking. With a glance at Rosinia and another politician she had summoned to her aid in the interview, she said at one point that she had no intention of trying to boss men, and that she always got along very well with men, anyway.

The committee indorsement of Mrs. Palermo came after women's clubs and others had complained that the committee's slate contained the names of only two women out of ten candidates, Miss Mary McInerny, who is on the present board, and Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey.

Mrs. Grace Fleming, Mrs. Marie Plumb, and Miss Amelia Sears, members of the present board, are not running in the primary. These three women Democrats often enlivened meetings of the board with their witticisms, questions, and opinions, and what the men termed their feminine bullying ways. On one occasion they insisted on having the time honored cuspidors removed from the meeting room, and it was only after a valiant fight that the men won the reinstatement of the cuspidors.

On the Republican slate for county commissioner only one woman's name appears; that of Mrs. Rena Elrod, former member of the legislature.

Mrs. Palermo is 49 years old, the mother of five children, the youngest 17 years old, and is the grandmother of two children. Her husband, Eugene E. Palermo, has a livery business which supplies automobiles for funerals.

"I was born in the 20th ward, the Italian district," Mrs. Palermo said, smilingly. "The first club I was in was the Little Woman's club, organized by Jane Addams for the children around Hull house. I was 6 or 7 years old then.

"During the war I sewed on pajamas and things at the Ogden Park Red Cross auxiliary. I remember, my youngest was a nursing baby then, and I used to take him along with me."

BLUE EAGLE RUTH DECLARES SHE'LL GIVE UP THE BIRD

Miss Ruth Brannon, 28 years old, of Manhattan, one of five candidates for the Democratic nomination for congress in the 11th Illinois district [Will, Du Page, Kane, and McHenry counties], conferred yesterday in Joliet with her campaign manager as to what to do about all the Blue Eagles she has scattered about the district.

Illinois NRA authorities have requested that she cease violation of a section of the NRA act which forbids the use of any NRA insignia on political posters. Miss Brannon, who has been calling herself "Blue Eagle Ruth," said she is willing to take the Blue Eagles down if the authorities insist.

NEGRO SUSPECT IN HANNA PLOT SLAIN IN FLIGHT

Shot Dead as He Tries to Escape Jail.

Thomasville, Ga., March 27.—[Special.]—Hansell Wilson, Negro, arrested as a suspect in a plot to extort $10,000 under a kidnaping threat from Howard M. Hanna, was shot to death today as he attempted to escape from jail here.

Mr. Hanna, a Cleveland, O., financier, is a nephew of the late Mark Hanna. He is chairman of the board of the M. A. Hanna company and a director of the Union Trust company of Cleveland, the National Biscuit company, and a number of other corporations. He has an elaborate estate, Melrose plantation, near Thomasville.

Two notes demanding money had been received by him, the first on March 20 and the second last Saturday. The second named a rendezvous where the $10,000 was to be tossed from an automobile. Mr. Hanna took the police into his confidence and after guards had been concentrated in the vicinity the Hanna chauffeur dropped a dummy package at the appointed place.

Seize Packet and Flees.

Shortly afterward a Negro seized the packet and fled into the bushes with it. He was pursued, but escaped. Early today Wilson, suspected of complicity in the plot, was arrested and questioned closely. He told several stories, none of which was satisfactory to the investigators.

He denied he had picked up the dummy package, but later admitted, it was said, that he had been implicated in the plot. A white man, he said, was the leader of the extortionists. He refused to give any names of his supposed conspirators and went into silence, finally asserting he had not taken any part in the plot.

Halting the questioning for the time being, Sherif G. E. Davis turned the prisoner over to Jailer W. I. Carter for safekeeping.

Wrenches Loose From Jailer.

He was being taken to a cell on the second floor of the jail when he wrenched loose from Carter and fled down stairs.

Carter fired five times, wounding Wilson in one leg and both arms. The fugitive continued his flight, however, running into the jail yard. Carter followed to the open and fired several times more, one of the bullets passing through the Negro's chest and killing him.

According to Sherif Davis, Wilson had been conclusively identified as the man who picked up the dummy package. He added that he was sure the extortionists were all local men.

CHINA SENDS FIVE OFFICERS TO U. S. TO STUDY FLYING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 27.—Five Chinese aviation officers sailed today for the United States to inspect military and civilian aviation developments there. The airmen are all Cantonese, but their expenses will be defrayed by the Nationalist government at Nanking as the first definite step in the amalgamation of the Nanking and Canton air forces. The union would give the Chinese government a combined air strength of more than 500 planes.

The Chinese also announced the beginning of construction of a $2,500,000 airplane factory at Hangchow under the supervision of Curtiss-Wright interests. The factory, scheduled to start operations in June, will be equipped to turn out a minimum of 60 planes annually, all of which the Chinese government has contracted to purchase.

The arrangement also provides that the Chinese government shall take over the entire plant at the end of five years. The new plant will employ 12 American technical experts and 500 Chinese mechanics. All material will be purchased in the United States.

Urges Seadromes

The building of seadromes by the government as a weather reporting aid to trans-oceanic flying was advocated last night by Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, America's most famous aviatrix, in an address in Orchestra hall sponsored by the Geographic Society of Chicago.

"Seadromes are a type of aviation experimentation, impossible for private interests, that the government could well carry on," Mrs. Putnam said. "If only one was built for weather reporting only, it would be worth the cost. Seadromes could be developed later as points for landing planes."

Mrs. Putnam predicted many in the audience would live to fly the Atlantic on regularly scheduled air lines, while those who now fear travel by air, will find themselves liking it in a couple of years.

Although she does not contemplate another trans-Atlantic flight "just for the ride," Mrs. Putnam said she would fly the ocean again if it would demonstrate new equipment aimed to further the progress of aviation.

FERRIES COLLIDE; LINERS HELD UP BY FOG IN N. Y.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—A dense fog which came down over the harbor early today and blanketed the surface of the water from the Ambrose lightship to the battery, caused two ferryboat collisions, in which one man was injured, and held up seven foreign going steamships with 931 passengers on board.

At a late hour tonight the White Star liner Olympic with 280 passengers on board and the French liner Champlain with 286 passengers were still anchored off the lightship. The five other steamships anchored with them were the Oriente of the Ward line, the Coamo from Porto Rico, the American Merchant from London, the Santa Rita with 45 and the President Harrison with 77.

Two train floats conveying wild animals of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus from Jersey City to the Mott Haven yards in New York, were delayed six hours.

2,000 AIRPLANE WORKERS STRIKE AT BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—The ranks of striking workmen in Buffalo were swelled today to nearly 4,000 as close to 2,000 employés of the Curtiss Airplane and Motor corporation and the Consolidated Aircraft corporation struck for higher wages.

The Consolidated Aircraft corporation was one of the companies named as making large profits from government contracts in the investigation into aircraft contracts.

Industrial Strife in Ohio.

Cleveland, O., March 27.—(AP)—Disagreements between employés and employers at northern Ohio industrial plants simmered uneventfully today in contrast to Monday's disorders at the Cleveland Worsted Mills company, while labor trouble in one instance found its way into court.

A concurrent strike at the Ravenna, O., plant of the Cleveland Worsted mills began as 300 of the 500 employés appeared at the gates as pickets this morning. Company officials immediately shut down operations for an indefinite period.

A deadlock between strikers and employers in the Akron district continued in the absence of Arthur L. Faulkner, federal labor conciliator, who is ill. He had been scheduled to intervene at the Diamond Match company in Barberton, where 700 men are on strike.

At Ashtabula, O., a temporary injunction was granted to restrain striking employés of the Aetna Rubber company from interfering with operation of the plant. It did not forbid picketing.

U. S. WILL CALL FOR PRIVATE AIR MAIL BIDS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The first step toward returning the air mail to private aviation companies will be taken tomorrow when the postoffice department will call for bids for the temporary flying of the mails.

Postmaster General James A. Farley made this announcement today after conferring with President Roosevelt. Plans formulated at the White House were being whipped into shape tonight for announcement tomorrow.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who also attended the conference, indicated that a legal detour had been discovered around the old 1872 law which prohibits mail carriers having their contracts canceled from bidding on new contracts for five years.

Farley's Statement Today.

Although the attorney general's hint was taken as indicating important concessions to the old companies which had their contracts canceled, Mr. Cummings refused to say whether the postoffice department will let these old companies bid on new contracts as long as the officers implicated in previous investigations remain in charge.

Mr. Farley in a statement tomorrow will clear up who can bid on the new contracts and how they can bid, Harllee Branch, assistant postmaster general, said today. Routes on which private companies are to fly the mails again also will be announced.

President Roosevelt himself at his press conference this morning explained that the new contracts are to be temporary, running only until some permanent air mail legislation is enacted in congress. Secretary of War Dern later said that the war department had no intention of flying the mails as a permanent policy.

Until the new bids are tendered and awarded, the army will continue flying the mails over its present routes.

Silent On Fate of Old Lines.

All those attending the White House conference guarded with particular secrecy the treatment which is to be meted out to companies having old canceled contracts.

Meanwhile the war and navy departments were opposing before congress a bill to vote a million and a half dollars a year for the financing of private aviation training and equipment development. The commerce department countered with a statement indorsing the aims of the bill. The war and navy departments held that the money could better be used by their own air corps.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 27.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous veteran airship commander, tonight forecast the early operation of three trans-Atlantic airship services, the first from Washington, D. C., to a base near the Pyrenees and thence to the Dutch East Indies; the second from central Europe to Rio de Janeiro, and the third from Rio de Janeiro to Washington, thus completing a triangular course.

Four airships are to be used, each carrying fifty passengers, a half ton of mail and from fifteen to twenty tons of high-grade freight. The airships are to be about the size of the Macon, or half again as large as the Graf Zeppelin.

Dr. Eckener made this prophecy in speaking at a meeting of the All Peoples' association, under the chairmanship of Lord Lothian. Dr. Eckener is president of a group of the association's branches in Germany.

CO-ED SNUBBED BY A SORORITY; SHE'S MISSING

Madison, Wis., March 27.—(AP)—Search for 20 year olds Eunice Pollock, junior co-ed at the University of Wisconsin who vanished after her sorority snubbed her, tonight extended to New York City.

The girl has been gone eight days, but not until today were Madison police asked to take a hand. Chief William H. McCormick learned from student friends that Miss Pollock often spoke of New York, and that she found pleasure in reading gossip and news of the city.

Suspecting she went there with $85 believed to have been in her possession, Chief McCormick sent a description of the girl to New York police.

Leaves Note to Parents.

A note left by the girl in a rooming house where she took quarters after the Alpha Chi Omega sorority asked her to move stated she had $84. In it there also was an inference that she may have contemplated suicide. A line addressed to her parents read: "We wil meet in heaven where we can be happy."

Girls at the sorority kept a closely guarded secret the reason for Miss Pollock's temporary expulsion from the house. Other students said "it was only a girls' spat."

Says She Broke No Rules.

"She was well behaved at the sorority house, and broke no rules either of the chapter or the university," Mrs. Ormsby said.

"Miss Pollock was warned about something by the other girls about Christmas time. I cannot tell what it was about.

"She did not heed the warning, and as a result was asked to leave the house."

The girl's father, John Pollock of Manitowoc, has employed detectives to trace her.

FIREMEN SLEEP AS FIREHOUSE BURNS TO EARTH

Suffern, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—The volunteer firemen of Suffern slept while their firehouse burned early today.

The blaze, which attacked the two story home of volunteer hose company number 1, was discovered by a policeman, but he was unable to sound the siren because the flames already had put the alarm system out of commission.

He did rouse two volunteers who lived nearby and while one of them frantically rang a hand bell the other persuaded a locomotive engineer to tie back his whistle cord.

Eventually, ten sleepy volunteers appeared but by that time the fire had virtually demolished the building.

There will be no more snow today but tomorrow another cold wave may bring snow with it from the northwest Forecaster C. A. Donnel said yesterday. Today will be generally fair with temperatures between 35 and 40 degrees which should remove most of the present ice and slush from the streets.

Because of one of the driest winters in years La Salle county farmers are faced with a serious water shortage it was shown by a Civil Works administration survey of available water supplies. Already some communities are practically without water and farmers are making hauls from springs for both live stock and household use. In one township 80 per cent of the wells are dry.

G. O. P. TO FORCE BRAIN TRUST TO DISCLOSE AIMS

Leaders Plan Follow-Up on Wirt Expose.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Republican leaders in congress, it was learned by THE TRIBUNE today, plan to force a full inquiry into all the machinations, influences, and political viewpoints of the Roosevelt brain trust.

Unable to muster alone a support strong enough to initiate such an investigation, the Republicans are playing a strategical game, permitting Democrats to start the inquiry by the summoning of Dr. William A. Wirt, Indiana educator.

Once Dr. Wirt's testimony is received, the plan of the minority leaders is to insist that not only those members of the brain trust accused by the schoolmaster must be called but all others as well.

Various Republican house members insisted today that every important member of the professoriat which has been advising the President, and has been entrenched in important key posts of the administration, should be examined by the congress.

Would Give New Insight.

Each professor should be required, in the view of the Republicans, to state his political views, and whether he favors the support or the tearing down of the American form of government.

It was thought that such an inquiry would open the eyes of congressmen and of the public as well to many of the weird economic and social views held by some of the professoriat.

Immediate developments in the new onslaught against the brain trust were these:

1. Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.] named 12 officials of the government, some of them leading members of the brain trust, as members of the Civil Liberties union and as such, in Mr. Fish's opinion, "a Socialist at heart."

2. Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.] forced consideration of his resolution for an investigation of the Wirt charges at a special meeting of the house rules committee tomorrow morning.

"Practical Joke" Propaganda.

3. Administration leaders continued their efforts to belittle the significance of the Wirt charges. Speaker Rainey, who had started out on Saturday by agreeing to support the Bulwinkle resolution, then changed his mind on Sunday and said the department of justice should investigate, did a third flip-flop today and termed the Wirt charges "wild" and unworthy of investigation at all.

4. The propaganda mill of Washington began to put out a rumor that Dr. Wirt had been the victim of practical jokers among certain brain trusters, whose names were withheld. According to these rumors, Dr. Wirt was told many wild tales, all in sport. It was indicated that if Dr. Wirt is brought to Washington and names the officials or professors who told him of revolutionary plans they will then come in and tell a story that it was "all a joke." Some advisers of the administration are counseling against such a move, on the ground that the American public would not have the right sort of sense of humor to appreciate such a joke.

5. Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the house immigration committee, announced that the Wirt charges should be investigated by a subcommittee of his committee which has already been charged to investigate charges of Nazi propaganda and all subversive movements against the government. Mr. Dickstein said he would ask the appropriations committee tomorrow for funds to prosecute the inquiry, and that if money was forthcoming, he would ask Dr. Wirt to appear on Monday.

Before naming the 12 administration officials and advisers who are members of the American Civil Liberties union Representative Fish called attention to a report to the house on communism, made in 1931, which indicates the union is closely affiliated with the communist movement in the United States, and fully 90 per cent of its efforts are on behalf of communists who have come into conflict with the law.

Follows Red Flag.

"It claims to stand for free speech, press, and free assembly, but it is quite apparent that the main function of the A. C. L. U. is to attempt to protect the communists in their advocacy of force and violence, to overthrow the government, replacing the American flag by a red flag and erecting a soviet government in the place of the republican form of government guaranteed to each state by the federal constitution."

The 12 named by Representative Fish are:

Prof. Paul H. Douglas, NRA.

Prof. Albert E. Taussig, NRA.

Jerome N. Frank, AAA and FSRC.

James M. Landis, federal trade commission.

Dr. Frederic C. Howe, NRA.

Clarence Darrow, NRA.

Henry T. Hunt, PWA.

Nathan R. Margold, interior department.

Robert Marshall, bureau of Indian affairs.

Prof. William E. Dodd, ambassador to Germany.

Rose Schneiderman, NRA.

"In addition to these," Representative Fish declared, "it is estimated that there are about a score or more of young radicals, so-called economic experts and lawyers of the Felix Frankfurter school of thought, most of whom are disciples of Karl Marx."

Among the administration spokesmen who belittled the Wirt charges was a member of the cabinet, Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Mr. Ickes said the charges were "silly on their very face."

"We need not pay much attention to the Dr. Wirt interviews or statements. They have neither the beautiful imagination of Baron Munchausen nor the delightful literary qualities of Lewis Carroll's masterpiece, 'Alice in Wonderland.'"

GOVERNMENT BLAMES ROW OVER CHURCH IN KILLING ON HIGH SEAS

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—The blunt refusal of William Sessoms, a thirty-second degree Mason, to consent to attend church services with Andrew Donaldson Kirwan, a Roman Catholic, after they had consumed two bottles of gin together on the afternoon of Feb. 10, resulted in the scuffle aboard the Dollar liner President Garfield, which ended, it is charged, in Sessoms' receiving a mortal wound from an antique hunting knife held by Kirwan.

This is the prosecution's case against the 23 year old semi-paralytic son of the former Jean Nash, as described to the jury in the federal court here this afternoon by United States Attorney Martin Conboy.

The proof of the case will rest primarily on the testimony of W. S. Frost, assistant purser on the liner, who was the drinking companion of the pair that afternoon in the staterooms of Sessoms and Kirwan, and who will swear, it was announced, that he made an ineffectual effort to thwart Kirwan in his attack on Sessoms. Frost suffered cuts on the face.

SABATH URGES U.S. TO PURCHASE SANITARY CANAL

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Congressman A. J. Sabath of Illinois introduced in the house of representatives today a resolution authorizing the secretary of war, secretary of commerce, and secretary of the interior to negotiate for the purchase of the sanitary canal from the sanitary district of Chicago.

"The people of Chicago and adjoining territory through the sanitary district have expended close to 100 million dollars for the construction of a canal that made possible a waterway from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico," the resolution read. "The federal government has assumed jurisdiction and the canal is now recognized and is being utilized for navigation purposes. The needs and benefits of the canal will continually increase to the people of the entire middle west. It is proper that the government, having assumed jurisdiction, should acquire title and ownership to it."

As revealed yesterday, the opposition of Secretary of the Interior Ickes to such a purchase is said to stand in the way of the transaction, although passage by the house and senate of the resolution is believed to be probable.

who had been organized to support the fusion ticket.

The Pendergast machine functioned to perfection in many districts. It was reported that in one north side precinct the vote was 1,034 for Smith, against only 8 for Dr. Hill, former president of the University of Missouri. Fusionists attributed such results to intimidation. Tonight they advised their workers, both men and women, to remain indoors.

A total of about 225,000 of the registered 240,000 voters, it was estimated, went to the polls.

The victory of the Pendergast faction was conceded before the halfway mark in the count was reached, the Star issuing an extra with the headline: "The Machine Sweeps In."

Observers pointed out that the Democratic organization was one of the few long intrenched municipal organizations which survived the elections of 1933 and 1934 with no loss of power.

DR. WIRT APPEALS FOR AID IN WAR ON "BRAIN TRUST"

Asks an Open Inquiry by Congress.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Dr. William A. Wirt from his Gary home yesterday issued a call to all civic and public leaders throughout the country who have information concerning the "machinations of the brain trust" to support him in the open. He said he could not wage a "one man battle" on his charges that President Roosevelt is being duped by the intellectual radicals.

"There are many men in Washington and throughout the country who know that the brain trust is working toward a revolution in the social and economic order," Dr. Wirt declared, "and these men have facts to back up their contentions. They know of conversations in which members of the brain trust told of the influence they could wield over the President in his decisions.

Appeals to Others for Aid.

"They may be afraid to come forward because they have been told they will have to pay the piper for their fearlessness. But they must do it for the welfare of the people, for I cannot fight alone. I know the names of some of these men but I cannot reveal them because I will not violate confidences. If they give me permission to make their names public, I will do so."

Dr. Wirt said that he preferred investigation into the motives of the brain trust by a congressional committee rather than an inquiry by the department of justice. He urged that a committee hold public hearings.

"I will be glad to appear before a committee and welcome the opportunity to tell all I know," Dr. Wirt stated, "and while I would also be ready to coöperate with the department of justice that would not be what I wanted. My desire is to acquaint the public with the facts."

Opposes Roosevelt Proposal.

Dr. Wirt said that he was opposed to the drastic measures President Roosevelt wants enacted for government control of the country's stock and commodity exchanges.

"This is not the time to scrap our important market machinery and experiment with new implements," he asserted, "for it is of just this sort of thing I talked when I said that legislation might be passed within the next two months which would make future elections to congress unimportant. The present session of congress should not be compelled to accept permanent legislation beyond the hope of change in the future. Give the American people a chance to think and talk over this stock exchange matter before binding their hands forever."

Dr. Wirt stated that he refused to be drawn into any controversy with congressmen and others who have attacked his stand. Some of these have described him as the butt of a joke, accused him of being a lobbyist for Indiana farmers and inflation of the currency, and of being a member of a group which is advocating some form of Fascism for this country. The latter charge was made yesterday by Representative George Foulkes [Dem., Mich.] at Washington.

Sees Fear of Criticism.

"Speaker Henry T. Rainey, who suggested an investigation of my charges by the department of justice, is apparently afraid of criticism of the government being made in public," was Dr. Wirt's only comment on the verbal attacks against him.

With criticism and commendation pouring in on him yesterday, Dr. Wirt went quietly about his work as superintendent of the Gary schools.

T. V. A. CHIEF ASKS U. S. INQUIRY INTO POWER COMPANY

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(UP)—David E. Lilienthal, power director of the Tennessee Valley authority, announced today that at his request the federal trade commission had ordered two accountants to Knoxville, Tenn., to inquire into books and records of the Tennessee Public Service company.

Lilienthal has sought unsuccessfully for several weeks to purchase for Knoxville the municipal power distribution system, owned by the Tennessee Public Service company, a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share.

C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the board of Electric Bond and Share, has made no actual offer to sell the Knoxville system, the power director said.

The study by the federal trade commission accountants was explained by Lilienthal as necessary to obtain basic facts and figures upon which to arrive at a fair price for the properties. All available reports and figures, he said, were sketchy and confused by mergers.

The public works administration has allotted $2,600,000 to Knoxville for the purchase or building of an electrical distribution system.

GOV. OLSON FIRES OPENING BLAST FOR NEW ORDER

Calls Himself Radical, but Hits Brain Trust.

St. Paul, March 27.—(AP)—Led by Floyd B. Olson, self styled "radical," the Farmer-Labor party today ignited the fuse of what presaged a red hot contest for United States senator in Minnesota, stronghold of the third party.

"I'm not a Liberal," declared Gov. Olson, party leader, "I am what I want to be—a Radical. I want a definite change in the system."

Though Gov. Olson swung further to the left than any previous time in the history of his career in the opinion of political observers, it remained for Congressman Francis H. Shoemaker, red wing, virtually to throw the two day convention into a turmoil with his vigorouos attack upon United States Senator Henrik Shipstead, with whom he will contest for that office this year.

Challenges to Debate.

"I will offer $100," challenged Shoemaker, "to any one who can get Senatar Shipstead on the same platform with me to answer my arguments," as he launched into a bitter attack on Shipstead's congressional record and his record as a Farmer-Laborite.

After a blanket indictment of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the "brain trust," Shoemaker ended his speech with:

"I'll be the next senator from Minnesota."

"If ever there was a time when Democratic institutions and the liberties of the individual were in grave danger, it is today," he said.

Seeks a New Order.

"In America," he continued, "the forces of Fascism are increasing in numbers; they are working along very definite lines and the chief obstacle in their path is the powerful figure of our President and his program for national recovery."

Explaining he wanted a new order, "a sane constructive thing," the governor visualized a coöperative commonwealth, urged an unemployed insurance law, advocated state contributions toward the old age and mothers' pensions, and pleaded for a unified relief system.

"I think the state should build up a system of health and accident insurance to protect the poor from privation," he said, "We must go forward in this matter of protection for the citizens of the state."

FOUNDRY PRESIDENT SEES NEW DEAL AS PERIL TO FREEDOM

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—"The Roosevelt revolution is an attempt to give the government the dictation of all business; to place burocracy in a position to control all human actions; to make again the individual the creature of the state and to turn the control of the state over to a relatively few officeholders who thereby become a governing caste," said Stuart Wells Utley, president of the Detroit Steel Castings company, who spoke here today before the Metal Trades association on the subject "On the Road to Moscow."

"America was settled by those who fled from the dictation of the state," Utley said. "The American revolution was a protest against government in business, against the interference of the king in the private affairs of the people to obtain a fuller and larger liberty."

SURVEY FINDS CRIMINAL COURTS WORK FULL TIME

CRIMINAL COURT.

Gerald Johnson, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Robert Jackson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Everett Pope, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Wilbert Sloan, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Jeff Henry, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Jones Nesbet, rape, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Edward Wheaton, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

A survey of the criminal courts yesterday by observers of the Chicago Crime commission showed that practically all of the judges worked full time. In fact, several of them, including Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, Judge Benjamin Epstein, Judge Harry B. Miller, Judge James F. Fardy, and Judge Thomas J. Lynch, were working after 4:30 o'clock, the usual adjournment time.

The only judge to adjourn before the usual time was Judge Francis Allegretti, who is finishing up a murder case. However, he took an early adjournment to work in chambers to prepare the special jury instructions.

The judges are scheduled to have a special meeting today to discuss the idea advanced by a special committee to have two court calls daily, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. This system, it is pointed out, will prevent some of the judges from running out of work during the morning session of court and adjourning before they have put in the five hours daily required by the rules.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB INDUCTS M'KINLAY AGAIN

John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co., was inducted into his second term as president of the Union League club at the 54th annual meeting of the club last night. Mr. McKinlay was unanimously reëlected for the coming year Monday and is the fifth man to have held the office for more than one term.

Other officers installed are E. L. Hartig, first vice president; Marshall Kieg, second vice president; E. J. Bullock, treasurer, and Charles Z. Henkle, secretary. The annual meeting opened the newly decorated dining room and inaugurated a loud speaker system in the room.

Thirty Diners Periled as Bandits Rob Cafe Owner

Thirty diners in the Adams café, 823 West Adams street, were threatened last night by three gunmen who entered the place during the dinner hour and robbed the owner, John Penoff, of $85. Penoff saved about $600, in a safe, when he said he was unable to open it and the "boss had just left with all the money." As the bandits drove away Penoff fired two shots at them and they answered with blasts from a shotgun. Apparently no one was injured.

ATTACK COTTON SURPLUS TAX AS PERIL TO FARMS

G. O. P. and Some Other Senators Fight It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Debate of the Bankhead cotton bill, admittedly the most revolutionary piece of legislation to come out of the New Deal, povoked the senate today to a degree of excitement unusual even in that excitable body. A few Democratic senators roared their defiance of the administration which is sponsoring the act and Republicans joined with glee in the chorus of denunciation.

A vote upon the act had been expected, but it was delayed until tomorrow. However, in a series of amendments adopted by sizable majorities, the senate modified the bill considerably. One amendment stripped the President of authority to extend the provisions of the bill as the original measure passed by the house had permitted. Another confined the life of the bill to a period of one year instead of two years or longer.

Said to Affect West.

The bill, which primarily affects only the cotton growing states of the south, was assailed as the forerunner of similar legislation affecting all agricultural products and as such was said intimately to concern the farmers of the west. Already passed by the house, the act sets the maximum cotton crop for this year at 10,000,000 bales and directs the secretary of agriculture to allocate that figure among the various cotton producing states.

All cotton ginned in excess of the allocation figure will be taxed 50 per cent of its market value, but not less than 5 cents a pound.

Democratic Senator Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, a lanky bespectacled, hoarse-voiced orator, led the attack upon the bill, declaring that similar laws would follow controling wheat, cattle, and other commodities. He termed it the "beginning of the national plan."

Called Unlawful Plan.

"There is no doubt that it is unconstitutional," he asserted, and quoted Supreme court decisions to prove his contention. "As to its economic aspects I am informed that England is holding in reserve twelve million acres in the Nile valley and fifteen million acres in India ready for cotton prduction. if this program goes through. The United States will be chained to a ten million bale figure while world production speeds up."

Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, impatient at his colleague's holding of the floor, jumped up and remarked naïvely:

"My judgment tells me its unconstitutional also, but I'm going to vote for it. Let's give it a try."

This prompted Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] to remark gravely:

"It is undoubtedly the most dangerous piece of legislation of all the dangerous legislation passed by this congress in the last year. It is another part of the plot to eventually work all industries from Washington."

Senator Puts on Show.

Sensing too serious a complexion being put upon the discussions, Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] here put on a humorous exhibition, striding around the chamber, waving his arms, and uttering wise-cracks which convulsed the galleries.

The peppery Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] was perturbed at his colleague's conduct.

"Who's going to pay for all this kind of legislation?" he demanded. "The consumer eventually. The money all will come from the millions who are forced to use cotton. No one ever stands up here and says a word for the consumer."

Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] then proposed his amendment to change the period of the effectiveness of the bill from two years to one and to deprive the President of the right to extend this period if he deemed an emergency existed.

Might Disband Congress.

"Why make the life of the bill so long?" Senator Dickinson inquired. "Congress will be meeting again next year. If the bill has worked out we can renew it. But, of course, that hardly fits in with the ideas of the administration. Maybe we should go home for a few years and dispense with the legislative end of the government."

Legislation of the nature of the Bankhead bill could only be justified in case of war, Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] interposed.

"If this bill should pass, I see no limitation that may be imposed on the activities of the government, whether it be in science, or education, industry or agriculture," he declared. "I suppose it will pass. The necessary votes seem to have been garnered, but it is a disastrous experiment. Government interference with any pursuit to which the human mind or hands may be turned will inevitably follow.

Predicts Use of Force.

"If I am any prophet, this law will arouse such resentment that it will take the whole American army to enforce it," added Senator David Reed [Rep., Pa.]. "And, of course, it is unconstitutional. But there's no use talking about the legislation any more. It, like the dollar, has been rubberized.

45 ARMED MEN TAKE 3 DILLINGER KILLERS TO PRISON; 2 TO DIE

Columbus, O., March 27.—[Special.]—A heavily armed convoy of 45 national guardsmen, police, and deputy sherifs brought three Dillinger killers from Lima today to the Ohio penitentiary here, where two of them are to be electrocuted Friday, July 13, for the murder of Sherif Jess L. Sarber of Lima.

Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley are to die. Russell Clark, sleepy-eyed, was glad, he said, to reach the prison, where he is to spend the rest of his life. He expects more freedom than he had in jail.

The curious cavalcade started through a sleet storm, but crowds gathered in towns en route to see the notorious trio. As the three automobiles bearing the prisoners entered the penitentiary walls, two national guard trucks halted and trained machine guns on the spectators.

NATIONAL VOTE CHANGES OBTAIN ROOSEVELT O. K.

He Favors Presidential Election Revision.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—The approval of President Roosevelt was given today to a new method of electing a chief executive. Had it been in effect in earlier years it might have changed radically the history of the nation.

The occasion today was the presentation to the house rules committee of a constitutional amendment proposed by Representative Lea [Dem., Cal.] and Senator Norris [Rad. Rep., Neb.].

Tells Roosevelt Approval.

After explaining why the house committee on the election of the President, Vice President, and members of congress had approved the Lea-Norris resolution, Representative Jeffers [Dem., Ala.], acting chairman of the election committee, said he had discussed the question with Mr. Roosevelt.

"I was authorized to say," he told the rules committee, "that he [President Roosevelt] thought the principle of the proposition was sound and good and that he would be glad to see this proposition put through at this session of congress."

Under present law, for purposes of a presidential election, the nation has 531 electoral votes divided among the states. For example, New York state has 47 and Nevada 3.

After a general election the presidential candidate who receives a plurality of the votes cast in one state is credited with all the electoral votes of that state.

Electors to Follow Votes.

Under the Lea-Norris amendment, a presidential candidate who received 75 per cent of the popular ballots in a state with four electoral votes would get only 3 electoral votes, while the fourth would be credited to the other candidate.

The amendment would provide for a division of electoral votes even into one-hundredths. Computations would extend beyond that if "a more detailed calculation would change the result of the election."

Under that method, Lea told the rules committee, three of America's past Presidents would have been only unsuccessful candidates.

The only specific case he had time to mention was that of the 1888 contest between Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison. Had the state unit voting system been in effect, Lea asserted, Cleveland would have been reëlected after his first term. Cleveland's second term followed Harrison's first.

Recalls 1928 Election.

Bringing his comparisons more nearly up to date, Lea said in 1928 Herbert Hoover received only 49 per cent of the popular vote in New York state and yet got all its 47 electoral votes. In 1928 Alfred E. Smith got 87 electoral votes from states which gave him only 1,700,000 popular ballots. Yet in New York state, where Smith got 2,100,000 votes, he received no electoral ballots whatever.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK ASKS ACCOUNTING OF MARIE HEINK ESTATE

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink filed a petition in Surrogate's court today asking that John A. Weeks, executor of the estate of Marie M. Heink, be compelled to file an accounting.

Mrs. Heink, who died on Feb. 28, 1933, left an estate formally valued at "more than $10,000." Her will named her sister-in-law, the singer, residuary legatee. The testament also contained bequests of $500 each to three brothers and a sister, all residents of Germany.

Mme. Shumann-Heink said that although letters testamentary were granted to Mr. Weekes seven months ago, he had not yet filed an accounting.

PRESIDENT SIGNS NAVAL BILL, BUT TALKS REDUCTION

Seek 34 Million at Once for Ships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—While President Roosevelt today signed the Vinson bill calling for a full treaty-strength navy, the navy department was preparing to ask the budget bureau immediately for 34 million dollars to start ship building.

President Roosevelt in signing the Vinson bill, however, threw a sop to pacifists by pointing out that the bill is merely a statement of policy which does not actually appropriate funds for construction. He added that he intends to push for further reduction in naval armaments at the conference to be held next year.

The navy department, nevertheless, was prepared to force an immediate showdown on the question of building the fleet up to treaty strength. Officials there said that they will seek at once the budget bureau's permission to ask congress for 34 million dollars.

Program Costs 750 Millions.

This money, the navy department explains, would be used to start work on 14 destroyers and six submarines. The program laid out in the Vinson bill, which calls for as much as 750 million dollars, contemplates 100 new destroyers and submarines, a new aircraft carrier, and 1,000 new airplanes.

President Roosevelt's statement expressing hope for further armament reduction or a continuation of existing limitations was taken as a blow at Japan's desire for naval parity with the United States and Great Britain. The statement issued by the President when he signed the Vinson bill follows:

"Because there is some public misapprehension of fact in relation to the Vinson bill, it is only right that its main provisions should be made wholly clear.

"This is not a law for the construction of a single additional United States warship.

Statement of Policy.

"The general purpose of the bill is solely a statement by the congress that it approves the building of our navy up to and not beyond the strength in various types of ships authorized, first by the Washington naval limitation treaty of 1922 and, secondly, by the London naval limitation treaty of 1930.

"As has been done on several previous occasions in our history, the bill authorizes certain future construction over a period of years. But the bill appropriates no money for such construction and the word "authorization" is, therefore, merely a statement of the policy of the present congress. Whether it will be carried out depends on the action of future congresses.

"It has been and will be the policy of the administration to favor continued limitation of naval armaments. It is my personal hope that the naval conference to be held in 1935 will extend all existing limitations and agree to further reductions."

WOMAN ROUTS STORE BANDITS; WOUNDS ONE

Three burly young gunmen were put to rout and one of them was wounded last night in a revolver battle with a woman who valiantly went to the aid of her husband during the holdup of his drug store at 1824 East 79th street. The bandits fled under fire, taking with them less than $5 of the $40 they had snatched from a cash register.

Mrs. Mabel Curtis usually stays in the drug store with her husband, Fred, during the late hours just before closing time when robberies so frequently occur. Last night she was behind the prescription counter out of sight of the bandits when they entered with drawn revolvers. They forced her husband to raise his hands and stand aside while one of the man went to the cash register.

The bandit had just opened the cash drawer and was taking out the day's receipts when Mrs. Curtis opened fire from behind the back counter. The man at the cash register dropped most of his loot and staggered. His companions returned the fire as they fled with the wounded man.

TIDE WAITS FOR NO MAN—NOT EVEN NRA, CONTRACTOR DECLARES

East Rockaway, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—Time and tide wait, says Ernest H. Cooper, for no M-A-N or N-R-A.

Cooper, a contractor, was moved to comment on time and tide today by reason of regulations born of the NRA under which he isn't supposed to work his men on Saturday. He is repairing the bulkhead in the Grand canal.

Replying to a warning that he must conform to NRA work hours, Cooper says he is in something of a dilemna as between NRA and T-I-D-E. The work can only be done at ebb tide, which at most is six hours a day. Complicating matters is the circumstance that his contract requires the work to be completed in a specified time. If the men don't work Saturdays he can't complete the job on time, thereby failing to make good on his contract.

He is going ahead, as before, working Saturdays.

CUDAHY'S WIFE DENIES HAVING "NAGGED" HIM

Milwaukee, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Alice Dixon Cudahy today denied charges of nagging and fault finding on which her husband, Michael Cudahy, wealthy packer, is seeking to divorce her. Shortly before court adjournment late today Mrs. Cudahy averred she had tried to help her husband in every way she could, "physically, mentally, and any way."

In response to questions by her attorney, Raymond McCann, the packer's wife denied ever having planned suicide as intimated in her husband's testimony; having nagged him; having criticized his posture or having corrected him for "buttering his bread in the air" instead of on the plate. She denied having discredited Milwaukee people and their manners or having slurred her husband's religion. She conceded having changed her mood and having had difficulties occasionally with the servants. She added these servant problems were brought on by her husband.

Referring to the "suicide story," Mrs. Cudahy declared she did not know about a razor her husband claimed to have found under her pillow until she read of it in his complaint. She learned from her husband, Mrs. Cudahy said, the use of a sleep producing drug of which she was purported to have taken an overdose one time. There was no intention of suicide, she insisted.

Mrs. Cudahy's denials were prefaced by an autobiographic sketch, beginning with the disclosure of her age as 40; detailing incidents of the years preceding her marriage to the packer; of the marriage itself, and leading up to the August day in 1929 when her husband walked out of their Terrace avenue home "never to make a permanent home there again."

Slaying Suspect Shot to Death in Beer Parlor

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Glenn Harmon, 34, tonight was shot to death in a pistol duel with Detective Lieutenant A. C. Stromwell in a crowded beer parlor. The detective had sought to arrest Harmon for Carthage, Mo., authorities, who want the man in connection with the slaying of B. L. Van Hoose, aged capitalist of that city.

NAB BELCASTRO FOR QUESTIONING ON MILK BOMBS

James Belcastro, 1011 Polk street, long known as Chicago's "king of the bombers," and James Catuara, 2540 Emerald avenue were arrested by a detective bureau squad last night as they drove past the county morgue at Polk and Wood streets. They were taken to the detective bureau over their protests to be questioned about recent bombings of independent milk stores.

The automobile occupied by the two men bore a license issued to Louis Rossi, 2117 West Madison street. Belcastro declared that Rossi had loaned him the car. Both Belcastro and Catuara were recently convicted of illegally possessing dynamite, but are at liberty while a decision on an appeal is pending.

VETS' BILL VETO OVERRIDDEN BY UNRULY HOUSE

Senate Expected to Kill Measure Today.

out providing additonal revenue, he said, would compel "a decrease in the funds available for essential relief work."

Playing to the support of the ex-soldiers in the approaching congressional elections, the senate and house voted to restore to the rolls those veterans whose disabilities are only "presumptively" service connected. The President reminded congress that the economy act made service connected disability a question of fact, not of law.

"Each individual case," he said, "should and must be considered on its merits and there is no justification for legislative dicta which, contrary to fact, provide that thousands of individual cases of sickness which commenced four, five, or six years after the termination of the war are caused by war service."

Sustained 94 Per Cent.

Local boards sustained the elimination from the rolls of 94 per cent of the 29,000 veterans whose disabilities were presumptively service connected. An appeals board is now passing on appeals from the local boards. The President said that by executive order he will direct an appeals review in the case of every veteran stricken from the rolls, and the payment to him of 75 per cent of his compensation pending final decision.

Foreseeing that if service pensions were allowed Spanish-American war veterans it would not be long before world war veterans would demand the same concession, the President said that such pensions by 1949 would increase the cost of all veterans' benefits 803 millions.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, said he is directing the restoration to rolls of Spanish war veterans who in 1920 were receiving pensions for service connected disabilities. Spanish war veterans with presumptively service connected disabilities are to be placed on the same footing as world war veterans, receiving 75 per cent compensation pending determination of appeals.

Sees Millions Jobless.

In rejecting the restoration of government employés play the President said:

"I have great sympathy for the employés, but I cannot forget that millions of American citizens are today still without employment, and reduction in the compensation of federal employés has been and still is less on the average than the reduction in compensation that has been patiently endured by those citizens not in the employ of the United States government."

The President's budget recommendation was to restore 5 per cent of the pay cut July 1. The bill would have restored 5 per cent as of Feb. 1 and another 5 per cent July 1 with authority to the President to restore the remaining 5 per cent Jan. 1 next.

In the house when the clerk had finished reading the message, Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.], chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the bill, took the floor to explain the attitude of the President regarding veterans.

He was interrupted repeatedly by impatient shouts of "Vote, vote," and the series of questions put to him by various members of the house indicated that the President was due for a rebuff. Mr. Woodrum pointed out that the President had shown his desire to do justice to the ex-service men when he drastically revised the original regulations issued under the economy act—regulations which Mr. Woodrum admitted were "too severe."

Congresswoman Isabella Greenway [Dem., Arizona] arose suddenly to ask Mr. Woodrum whether congress shouldn't help the President correct injustices for which congress was partially responsible.

"I don't think it would be helping to override this veto," Woodrum responded.

"Well, I'd like to ask just one more question," Mrs. Greenway persisted. "Isn't this congress to be considered at least an advisory part of the so-called brain trust?"

The house burst into wild applause. Members cheered and yelled as the Arizona congresswoman, a close personal friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, resumed her seat. Representative Woodrum gave up trying to speak.

ROOSEVELT EXPLAINS AND DEFENDS VETERANS' BILL VETO

"I return herewith without my approval H. R. 6663 entitled 'An act making appropriations for the executive office and sundry independent executive bureaus, boards, commissions, and offices, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, and for other purposes.' I am impelled to do this on a number of grounds, any one of them sufficient to require disapproval of the bill.

"In March, 1933, the congress passed and I signed 'An act to maintain the credit of the United States government.' This law became one of the principal pillars of national recovery for the clear reason that for the first time in many years the recurring annual expenses for the maintenance of the government were brought within the current revenues of the government.

Discusses Emergency Funds.

"It is true that very large but wholly distinct funds are being dispensed daily for emergency purposes, but these funds are going directly to the purpose of saving farms, saving homes, and giving relief and employment to millions of our fellow citizens. They are nonrecurring in nature, while the increases contemplated in this bill are continuous and permanent.

"Furthermore, the budget submitted by me to the congress on Jan. 4, 1934, laid down a definite program of expenditures and a degnite estimate of receipts. Because of the emergency expenditures for relief and unemployment, the expected total deficits this year and in 1935 are necessarily large; but at the same time a program for a completely balanced budget by June 30, 1936, was determined upon as a definite objective.

Exceeds His Estimates.

"This bill exceeds the estimates submitted by me in the sum of 228,000,000. I am compelled to take note of the fact that in creating this excess the congress has failed at the same time to provide a similar sum by additional taxation.

"Moreover, to the extent that the amount of money appropriated by the congress is in excess of my budget estimates, and in the absence of provision for additional revenues, there must be a decrease in the funds available for essential relief work.

"This bill increases the compensation for employés of the United States government $125,000,000 over my budget estimates for this purpose. I have great sympathy for the employés, but I cannot forget that millions of American citizens are today still without employment, and reduction in the compensation of federal employés has been and still is on the average less than the reduction in compensation that has been patiently endured by those citizens not in the employ of the United States government.

Opposes Retroactive Pay Lift.

"Let me be specific. This bill makes a portion of the restored compensation retroactive to Feb. 1, 1934. I believe it unwise to establish this precedent, and I cannot overlook the serious administrative difficulties involved in paying back pay to individuals many of whom are no longer in the employ of the government.

"The bill also contains several discriminatory provisions, such as paying employés in some departments of the government 48 hours' pay for 40 hours' work.

"In submitting the budget estimates last December I recommended compensation restoration of 5 per cent for the next fiscal year. The cost of living seems to be rising slowly. The present authority is not responsive enough to changing conditions.

"I therefore shall be glad to confer with the congress on improving the methods of restoring federal pay so that in actual practice the pay will keep ahead of the cost of living increases instead of lagging behind. Adjustments can well be made immediately on the passage of appropriate legislation followed by more frequent adjustments in the future.

Status of War Veterans.

"I come now to the provisions in this act relating to world war veterans. First let me speak of principles. Last October I said this to the American Legion convention:

"'The first principle, following inevitably from the obligation of citizens to bear arms, is that the government has a responsibility for and towards those who suffered injury or contracted disease while serving in its defense.

"'The second principle is that no person, because he wore a uniform, must thereafter be placed in a special class of beneficiaries over and above all other citizens.

"'The fact of wearing a uniform does not mean that he can demand and receive from his government a benefit which no other citizen receives. It does not mean that because a person served in the defense of his country, performed a basic obligation of citizenship, he should receive a pension from his government because of a disability incurred after his service had terminated, and not connected with that service.

War Injuries Different.

"'It does mean, however, that those who were injured in or as a result of their service are entitled to receive adequate and generous compensation for their disabilities. It does mean that generous care shall be extended to the dependents of those who died in or as a result of service to their country.'

"I am very confident that the American people, including the overwhelming majority of veterans themselves, approve these principles and in the last analysis will support them.

"Applying them to the provisions of this bill I cannot give it my approval.

"Last year it was determined—and I had hoped permanently—that a service connected disability is a question of fact rather than a question of law. In other words, each individual case should and must be considered on its merits and there is no justification for legislative dicta which, contrary to fact, provide that thousands of individual cases of sickness which commenced four, five or six years after the termination of the war are caused by war service.

Local Boards Hear Cases.

"Therefore local boards were established—boards on which three out of the five members were in no way connected with the veterans administration and on which two-thirds of those serving were ex-service men. These local boards approved disallowances in the case of 29,000 veterans and these decisions were unanimous in 94 per cent of the cases. Not content with that, I created a board of appeals the majority of which again are in no way connected with the veterans administration and a majority of which are ex-service men. This board is now engaged in hearing appeals of those cases disallowed by the local boards.

"A few weeks ago I gave approval to an amendment the purpose of which was, pending the determination of their appeals, to restore to the rolls at 75 per cent of their compensation those veterans in whose cases the presumption of service connection was disallowed by the local boards. This, however, was rejected in the congress.

"I intend now by regulation forthwith to direct an appeal by the administrator of veterans' affairs in each and every one of these disallowed 29,000 cases with the further direction that in the final determination of these cases every reasonable doubt be resolved in favor of the veteran, and every assistance be rendered in the preparation and presentation of these cases.

"While these cases are pending the veterans will be paid 75 per cent of the compensation they received prior to the time they were removed from the rolls. If the appeal is allowed they will receive back compensation. Only in cases disallowed by the board of appeals will the veteran thereafter be permanently removed from the rolls. The regulation will be put into effect at once.

Strictest Rules Modified.

"By reason of the fact that many totally and permanently disabled veterans have been the recipients of benefits from their government for a long period of time, it is difficult in the event of a disallowance of service connection by the final board of appeals to remove them completely from the rolls.

"Existing regulations therefore provide that if their cases are disallowed and if they are found to be totally and permanently disabled they shall, notwithstanding fundamental principles enunciated, if in need, receive $30 a month and domiciliary care and hospitalization.

"It is a simple and undeniable fact that the United States, in terms of compensation and in terms of hospitalization, has done and is doing infinitly more for our veterans and their dependents than any other government.

Spanish War Veterans.

"I come now to the provisions of the bill relating to Spanish-American war veterans. To this group of ex-service men I have devoted much thought. Because of their age they command sympathy. Nevertheless, we must recognize also that many abuses have crept into the laws granting them benefits.

"However, I am today directing the restoration to the rolls of those Spanish-American war veterans who in 1920 were receiving pensions as a result of having sustained an injury or incurred a disease arising out of their war service.

"By regulation 12 a presumption of service origin was extended to Spanish-American war veterans on the rolls on March 19, 1933. In order to take the same action which I am taking in regard to world war veterans, I am directing the restoration to the rolls, as of this date, at 75 per cent of the amount they were receiving on March 19, 1933, all Spanish-American war veterans pending a final determination of their cases before the board of appeals.

"Without going further into all of the details relating to the treatment—past, present and future—of Spanish-American war veterans, it seems sufficient to repeat that I am wholly and irrevocably opposed to the principle of the general service pension, but I do seek to provide with liberality for all those who suffered because of their service in that war.

"As in the case of world war veterans, I shall not hesitate to further alter or modify the regulations in order that substantial justice may be done in every individual case.

"What you and I are seeking is justice and fairness in the individual case. I call your specific attention to the fact that since the original regulations were established a year ago actual experience has shown many cases where these regulations required modification.

Adds $117,000,000 Benefits.

"I have not hesitated to take the necessary action and have issued regulations which have made many changes. These changes, based on principles of justice to the individual veteran, involve additional expenditures of approximately $117,000,000. It goes without saying that I shall not hesitate to make further changes if the principles of justice demand them.

"On the basis of the original regulations following the economy act, the annual cost to the United States of veterans' relief was $486,000,000. Since that time by executive order the addition of $117,000,000 increases to $603,000,000 the total cost for veterans' relief for the fiscal year 1935.

"My disapproval of this bill is not based solely on the consideration of dollars and cents. There is a deeper consideration. You and I are concerned with the principles herein enunciated. I trust that the congress will continue to coöperate with me in our common effort, to restore general prosperity and relieve distress."

LA GUARDIA ENDS KID GLOVE POLICY IN TAXICAB RIOTS

Restores Nightsticks to His Strike Police.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—With grand jury action under way, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia tonight rescinded previous orders to the police to handle taxicab strikers "with kid gloves." New orders restored night sticks to police on strike duty.

District Attorney William C. Dodge, lone Tammany officeholder, took personal charge of the grand jury investigation. Six witnesses were heard during the day in an effort to bring out the facts of the riots and fix responsibility for failure to protect life and property and to preserve peace on the streets. If the jury finds Mayor La Guardia guilty of failure to act, it is possible under the law to arraign him on a misdemeanor charge.

Strikers Want Recognition.

Meanwhile a special aldermanic committee continued its own inquiry and prepared to hold special hearings on the strike riots.

Mayor La Guardia persisted in his effort to bring the strike to a termination, but confessed that there appeared little hope of an early settlement.

The strikers remained adamant in their determination to obtain recognition of their union. Partial recognition was implied in the proposal of the cab companies, but on a basis which would involve also recognition of the two alleged company unions.

The proposal of the companies was presented to Bernard Deutsch, president of the board of aldermen, by the Terminal Transportation System, the Parmelee System, Inc., and the United Taxicab Board of Trade, representing other cab operators.

Plan Further Negotiations.

This proposal called for the setting up by the mayor of a board of nine members, consisting of three representatives of the employers and three for the drivers and three neutral members.

The proposal of the cab companies was submitted after consultation with Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, which controls some of the big cab companies.

The strikers promptly rejected the proposal on the grounds that the company would dominate the board. Ben Golden, regional labor board representative, thereupon amended the setup to safeguard the interests of the drivers and further negotiations were decided upon.

Central States' Vote on Veto

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—More than two hundred of the President's own party in the house deserted his leadership today on the roll call which overrode the executive veto on the independent offices bill.

The party breakdown showed 210 Democrats, 96 Republicans, and 4 Farmer-Laborites voting to override Mr. Roosevelt's objections; and 70 Democrats and 2 Republicans voting to sustain him. The two Republicans were Representatives Robert Luce and George Holden Tinkham, both of Massachusetts.

MICHIGAN FATHER FINDS OUT ABOUT THE STONEWALL

In a letter to his father, Lenn Fordyce, at Buchanan, Mich., Clifford Fordyce wrote recently: "Dear dad, I won't be home for a short time because I am detained on business at the Stonewall hotel, 2600 South California avenue, Chicago."

The elder Fordyce became worried when he received no further word and he wrote to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker for further information.

The chief's reply was: "Dear Mr. Fordyce, I am very sorry to tell you that the Stonewall hotel your son mentions is none other than the Cook county jail. His business is government business, since he is accused of transporting a stolen automobile from one state to another."

RACKETEERS WHO PREY ON ALIENS HIT IN REPORT

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Exploitation of aliens by racketeers and unscrupulous lawyers is condemned and their prosecution recommended by the special committee appointed last June by Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, to study immigration and naturalization problems.

Reduction to $10 of the present naturalization fee, which was raised by congress in 1929 from $5 to $20, also is recommended by the committee.

Carleton H. Patmer is chairman of the committee, which includes Thomas D. Thacher, former solicitor general; James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany; John E. Otterson, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Daniel O'Day, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Henry Goddard Leach, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, and Angelo Patri.

Enactment of more stringent laws to reach and punish those who prey on the aliens, whose interests they pretend to serve, is urged by the committee, which emphasizes the fact that such exploiters can now be prosecuted only for impersonation of a federal officer or forging of federal papers.

It is further recommended that the department of labor license attorneys and others appearing before the immigration and naturalization service.

WEDDING WILL BE HAPPY ENDING TO 1931 ANNULMENT

Legal Ties Dissolved, but Not Romance.

The engagement of Miss Dorothy Trude, 5419 Hyde Park boulevard, to William H. Sills, 4920 Kimbark avenue, both members of well known south side families, which was announced Friday, follows a romance of several years' standing which was punctuated by an elopement and ensuing annulment in September, 1931, it was revealed yesterday. The annulment was obtained when their parents persuaded them they were too young to wed.

Miss Trude is the daughter of Walter S. Trude, wealthy south side real estate man, and Mrs. Trude and a niece of Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Criminal court. Sills is the son of Clarence W. Sills, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Mrs. Sills, and a nephew of the late Milton Sills, motion picture actor.

Wed in Crown Point.

The young couple's first marriage took place in Crown Point, Ind., Sept. 25, 1931, the day each registered for classes as freshmen at the University of Chicago. They returned to their homes and it was not until the following day that their secret became known. The bride then declared they had meant to keep the marriage secret for the four years they were in the university, so that it wouldn't interfere with their college work. She was then 19 years old, and Sills was 18 years old.

The following Oct. 14 the marriage was annulled by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers after former Judge George A. Trude, great-uncle of the bride, and Attorney Edward D. Pomeroy, representing the Sills family, told Judge Brothers the young persons agreed with their parents that it would be wise to dissolve the marriage until they were older.

"I think it is a beautiful romance," said Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Trude, last night. "Dorothy's father and Bill's father went to school together in the old Greenwood avenue school in the eighth grade and have been friends ever since. Neither family had any objection to the marriage except for their youth.

Love Conquers All.

"They have been inseparable ever since, together every minute they could be. Neither has dated any one else. It is one case in which love triumphed over everything. In so many of these youthful affairs an annulment means that the romance is over. But their love weathered the storm. We're very happy over it."

Miss Trude and her fiancé departed last week with his parents for a spring vacation in Palm Beach. They will return April 9. The wedding will take place in St. Paul's church on June 20.

BATTLE HORNER OVER BEER AND GAS TAX BILLS

School Plan Fails; Bar Measure Vetoed.

ford an easy method to evade the anti-bar provision of section 21 A [of the state liquor law]. If bars are permitted for dispensing one kind of liquor, there will be a great temptation to the seller to use it for other kinds.

"As a matter of administration, it will be most difficult in the larger cities to prevent the sale of the stronger liquors over bars if customers are permitted to stand before them and buy and consume beer. Laws which cannot be enforced are not only ineffective but they defeat fundamental purposes."

Kills Exemption Measure.

The governor also vetoed the bill which would have exempted from the 50 cents per gallon tax all alcohol used in the manufacture of flavoring extracts, concentrates, sirups, medicinal, scientific, culinary, and toilet preparations, and food products. In addition to the fact that the state needs the revenue from this alcohol, the governor felt that alcohol "designated" for such use might easily become diverted to beverage purposes and the tax avoided. There seemed no move on foot to re-pass this bill.

GAS TAX FAILS

Gov. Horner's gas tax for schools measure, which failed of passage in the senate today, provides for the diversion of a third, or $10,000,000, of the motor fuel tax receipts to the state school fund.

Gov. Horner has actively supported the bill and made a personal appeal to the radio audience last night for it. Democratic leaders refused to admit defeat, however, while Republican senators were shouting that the gas tax diversion was "dead horse." Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tem., moved that the roll call be suspended and the fight resumed tomorrow morning.

Graham's motion carried and the bill will be on the special order of business, taking precedence over all others, at the morning session.

To Vote on Sales Tax Aid.

A second bill, which had been introduced by seven Republican senators calling for a diversion of all over $2,500,000 of the monthly receipts of the sales tax into the school fund, will also be voted upon.

Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago], who had voted neither way on the gas tax bill, demanded a roll call on the other measure before adjournment.

The motion to adjourn had been put by Senator Graham, who was being recognized by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], acting as speaker.

"You're on the spot with the teachers if you let the adjournment go through," shouted Woods, turning to the rostrum, "there are teachers waiting in the galleries to hear the outcome of the vote."

"Yes and you're just waiting to make a speech to them," retorted Senator Peter P. Kielminski [Dem., Chicago].

Graham Motion Is Adopted.

Graham then moved that the sales tax diversion bill be sent back to second reading, amended by tacking on the emergency clause and then brought back to third reading for a vote tomorrow. After considerable bickering the Graham motion prevailed by a vote of 19 to 11.

When the roll call on the Horner bill was in progress, Graham charged some of the Republicans with bad faith. He declared that last week it had been agreed to pass the gas tax and sales tax diversion bills and also the Schnackenberg-Swanson measure to place the state liquor revenues in the school fund.

"I believe if the senators understood the gas tax bill, it would pass," said Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], minority leader. "It is the only legislation that will give cash to the schools immediately."

Senator Barbour for Bill.

Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston], supported the gas tax bill, and rapped Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], for voting against the measure. Mason is president of the Illinois State Teachers' association and it is said is in variance with part of his organization for his opposition to the Horner program.

While the senate wrangled the lower house spent the day awaiting some action on school legislation. The house was adjourned after it became certain that none of the senate bills would be passed and sent over to the other body for consideration.

SERGEANT AND FIFTEEN NEW YORK POLICEMEN ARE FOUND EPILEPTIC

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—A survey of police surgeons has revealed that a sergeant and fifteen policemen are epileptics, Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan announced today.

His announcement came after Mayor F. H. La Guardia had said at city call he had been informed epileptics had been deprived of the privilege of carrying revolvers.

The survey was ordered after Commissioner O'Ryan, encountering an ill policeman in Brooklyn, was informed the policeman was "one of our epileptics."

The sergeant and seven policemen, it was stated, are to be retained on conditional duty. Recommendations for the retirement of the others were being considered.

Mayor La Guardia also said today rooms and suites in city hospitals were turned over to persons with political connections "to sleep of: jags." He indicated a shakeup was due in the department of hospitals. He prophesied revelations in the fire department.

Charge Golconda Constable with Taking Eggs Off Train

Carbondale, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—Constable Earl Flick of Golconda was under bond today on a charge of robbing an Illinois Central freight car containing eggs.

ISSUES THREAT TO CLOSE BARS IF VETO STANDS

Liquor Chairman of State Warns Dealers.

If the Devine bill permitting beer to be sold over bars is not passed by the legislature over the governor's veto every saloon, tavern or cafe making retail sales over a bar in Illinois will be closed and remain closed for a year, Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the state liquor control commission, warned manufacturers and wholesalers last night in the Sherman hotel.

"I will not discuss whether the bar is right or wrong," Mr. Smith said at the meeting, the initial gathering of the beverage industry division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men. "But I wish to heaven the lawmakers would decide one way or the other.

Takes "Liberal Attitude."

"The liquor law outlawed the bar. Then the Devine bill was passed making beer bars legal. It is of course impossible to prevent other sales over a bar when beer sales are permitted. As a result the liquor commission took a liberal attitude and the state ran wide open. But I am warning you that if the bar is finally ruled out, then the commission is going to close every place with a bar, and you gentlemen have lost a customer for a year."

Whether Illinois remains wet or is voted dry is directly up to the liquor dealers, said the Bloomington dictator of the Illinois liquor trade.

"I have one thought in mind," he said, "and that is to keep you men in the liquor business. Prohibition was a farce, the state needs the revenue, and you gentlemen want to protect your business. If you obey the law we will all be satisfied, but if you don't we will work just as hard to put you out of business as we are now working to keep you in business.

"Dry laws are passed not on account of the way wholesalers and manufacturers sell, but on account of the manner in which retail sales are made. The wholesaler is not through when he sells to the retailer. It is up to him to see that the retailer obeys the law. If the retailer fails, he is closed, the wholesaler loses a customer, and eventually we have another dry law. Once the law is decided the commission is going to tighten up."

Demands "Good" Liquor.

Mr. Smith issued a warning to manufacturers that they must supply "good" liquor. "Makers of inferior liquor will be brought to task and their licenses revoked," he declared. "The commission will not tolerate some of the liquors that are already on the market and is serving notice on the makers of this liquor that the quality must be improved immediately or drastic action will be taken."

Organization plans for a credit bureau, with a central clearing house for information and a state-wide standardized program of credit extension, were laid at last night's meeting.

HEARS MISSION SERMON, ADMITS MURDER IN 1925

George Simon, a middle aged sandwich man, sat in a West 42d street mission in New York listening to an evangelist exhort an audience of casuals to repent. He had been listening to it for three nights and had finally felt the urge to cleanse his conscience. Down the "sawdust trail" he went.

"I'm a sinner and I repent," he said. "I shot and killed a man in a drinking place on West Madison nine years ago. I'm going to give myself up."

Yesterday New York police, whom Simon called to the mission, placed him to Tombs prison and communicated with Chicago police to learn if such a murder as he described had occurred here. Records at the detective bureau revealed Simon had been sought since Jan. 16, 1925, for the murder of Peter Tarese, 1230 West Madison street, during a fight in a restaurant at 1132 West Madison street.

FLOATING PARLEY OF PAN-AMERICAN DOCTORS ENDS

Elected vice presidents were Drs. Charles Mayo, Lewellys Barker, Harlow Brooks, Hugh Cumming, Hugh Young, George Crile, Bernard Sachs, Charles Mathe, Elliot Joseline and Boliver Lloyd, all Americans. Dr. Jose Silvero of Cuba was chosen executive secretary and Dr. Julius J. Valentine of New York was elected treasurer.

One hundred and seventy-five scientific papers were presented during this year's sessions of the floating congress attended by 600 doctors from America and Latin-American countries, including Mexico, Chile, Brazil, Equador, Colombia, Argentina, Cuba, Panama and Venezuela. Having visited Havana, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela and Porto Rico, the congress will arrive back in New York Friday.

TWO CHURCHES ARE BURNED BY SPANISH RADICALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 27.—Torches were applied to two Spanish churches today just three years after the wave of destruction of church property which followed the birth of the republic.

Extremists adopted this way to demonstrate their objection to the first celebration of holy week since the monarchy was overthrown. More arson is feared and vigorous measures are expected to be taken Thursday or Friday, when the holy week procession for which Spain was famous takes place in Seville and other cities.

One church at Larinaga, near Bilbao, was burned down and another at Madridanos, near Zamora, was burned almost irreparably. In both buildings gasoline cans were found later. The incendiaries at Madridanos took the precaution of cutting all nearby telephone wires to delay the arrival of help.

COUNTY BOARD SPLITS ON BEER SELLING ISSUE

With the men commissioners in favor of permitting the sale of beer in the forest preserves, and the women commissioners embattled against it, the county board finished the day in a deadlock over the issue yesterday.

Commissioner Frank J. Kasper favored the sale of beer at the forty refreshment stands in the preserves, and added: "If we don't permit it, the people will bring beer anyway."

Mrs. Edward J. Fleming championed the bone-dry cause.

"We have a moral obligation to protect our young people," she said. "I know that if you drink enough beer you can get drunk. Besides, if we permit the sale of beer, we would have trouble prohibiting the bootlegging of hard liquor."

The upshot was that the matter was referred to the committee on roadhouses. Nothing could be done, however, since Homer J. Byrd, chairman of that group, is at home, suffering from cuts received when a cock pheasant flew through the windshield of his car.

U. S. Group Approves Site for Glen Ellyn Postoffice

Selection of the site at the northwest corner of Main street and Pennsylvania avenue for the new Glen Ellyn postoffice has been recommended by the joint interdepartmental committee, according to dispatches from Washington yesterday. The property was submitted by W. A. Niles at a price of $17,500, but neither Mr. Niles nor Postmaster Roy O. Benson of Glen Ellyn had received official notification yesterday.

Waives Alimony, Insists on Keeping Wedding Gifts

Mrs. Bernice Plotnick was willing to waive alimony when she got her divorce yesterday but she wasn't willing to relinquish her share of the wedding presents—particularly when one present was a keg of old whisky. Judge Rudolph Desort granted her request, with the acquiescence of the husband, Martin H. Plotnick, 1039 Hollywood avenue, an insurance broker.

The board of education yesterday adopted its 1934 budget of $71,356,028, a reduction of $193,673 from the appropriations for 1933. The saving was made despite the inclusion of funds for three junior colleges to be added to the school system and a $4,773,500 increase in building appropriations.

James B. McCahey, president of the board, in introducing the budget declared that further savings would be made during the year. He credited the school economy program initiated last year by Mayor Kelly with effecting present reductions and said that the policy would be continued.

Largest Cut Is $5,194,690.

The largest single cut in 1934 expenses was made in the educational fund where $5,194,690 was pared from the 1933 figure. A continuation of the 15 per cent basic pay reduction already in effect, and of a nine month school year instead of a ten month year accounted for the major part of this saving. Further economics were possible through the transfer of textbook cost items from the overburdened educational fund to the textbook fund.

The major increase in the 1934 budget came when the board voted to expand the school building fund by $4,773,500 to complete five high schools now being constructed. Of this amount $1,320,000 is being paid by the federal government. The textbook fund was increased by $395,692 to carry out the board's announced policy of supplying all school children with needed books.

Two Years Are Compared.

Educational	$51,905,403	$46,710,713
Free text book	626,246	1,021,938
Playgrounds	676,000	687,728
Building	8,923,000	13,696,500
Bond redemption	7,962,222	7,880,849
Teachers' pension	1,315,600	1,238,400
Totals	$71,549,701	$71,356,028

Charges fixed by law precluded further reductions in the budget as a whole, Mr. McCahey said in his statement to the board, but he expressed hope that the members would work for reductions in actual expenditures during the year.

"I earnestly believe that in the course of the year a further considerable saving may be made which will be reflected in the next budget," Mr. McCahey said.

Eight Vote for Budget.

Eight trustees voted for the budget and three, Mrs. Helen Hefferan, Andrew O. Jackson, and Joseph J. Salat, were absent. In moving the adoption of the budget Trustee Irwin N. Walker praised the work of the budget committee.

"I think that you, Mr. President, and your committee have sincerely acted for the best interests of the school children, the employés, and the taxpayers in drafting this budget," he said. "I am wholheartedly in support of it."

After approving the budget the board adopted resolutions asking the city council to levy taxes for each of the school funds. The total levy will be $57,726,000. The disparity between the levy and the appropriations is made up by funds from other sources, including the state distributive fund, rentals, and reappropriations.

BABY CHICKS ARRIVE WITH SPRING

California's famous redwood empire claims to be the largest chicken and egg producing center in the country and Petaluma, center of the industry, is known as the "world's egg basket." But around Easter time the hatching and shipping of 5,500,000 chicks is the chief interest. Virginia Donham and Vinnie Brown are shown packing young chickens for shipment. [Acme Photo.]

CITY AND PARKS GET 6½ MILLION IN TAX FUNDS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collection yesterday, including those for 1932, were $885,684, making a total of $123,368,723 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skardia act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 27	$ 11,799	$ 35,380
Uncollected	14,826,106	39,878,181
	1930.	1931.
March 27	$ 56,484	$ 129,752
Uncollected	63,233,385	59,309,569

The day's collections of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $652,269; 1931 personal property tax collections were $548 and of 1932 personal property taxes, $142,223.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday announced the distribution of $6,875,503 in delinquent and 1932 tax collections to various local governments and park districts. Collections in 1932 taxes amounted to $4,300,000 with the remainder made up of delinquent tax collections.

The distribution of the money to the major park district and local governments follow: City, $4,652,390; state, $469,507; forest preserve, $117,032; sanitary district, $634,092; South park, $408,453; West park, $137,136; Lincoln park, $96,268; Lincoln park registered bonds, $102,761.

Officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday paid in full their 1932 real estate and personal property taxes amounting to $4,809,844. The company paid $2,669,157 worth of tax anticipation warrants and gave a check for the remainder.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki was expected to render a decision today whether or not the 438,000 owners of homes and small buildings in the city are entitled to a 15 per cent reduction in their 1931 real estate assessment. Final arguments were begun yesterday and will be ended today.

DIET DEVELOPS GERMICIDES TO PROTECT BODY

Mayo Clinic Finds What to Eat to Aid Process.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Discovery at the Mayo clinic of a diet which the human body uses to manufacture its own germ killing chemicals was reported to the American Chemical society today by A. E. Osterberg, M. D.

These "homemade" germicides act the same as healing drugs, but are more effective because they originate within the body in regions difficult to reach with medicines.

These particular diet germicides limit their healing action so far as now known to one tract of the body. They begin work in the system which starts with the kidneys and extends down through the bladder.

The human germicides which work there are known chemically as ketones. They are acids, all of them produced normally from the fat in food during digestion. These acids gather in the "sag" of the kidneys.

Cuts Meats and Starches.

The Mayo discovery is a balanced diet which will produce them in large quantities for patients suffering with infection in this body tract. The diet proportions are 140 grams of fat, 25 of protein, and 15 of sugar.

The fat may come from butter, cream, lard, and oils. The protein part of a meal is so low that almost no meat should be eaten, nor leguminous vegetables like peas. The sugar, or carbohydrate fraction, is still lower, and means cutting out all starchy foods.

This regimen results in an overproduction of the three ketonic substances, known as acetone, diacetic acid, and beta-oxybutyric acid. The last named, Dr. Osterberg said, is the germicide which kills the bacteria.

Make Heavy Water in Cold.

Dr. Hugh S. Taylor, head of Princeton university's chemistry department, told of mixing the ingredients of heavy water at hundreds of degrees below zero. The water is heavy because its hydrogen is of double weight. In the intense cold the Princeton chemists brought together both the heavy hydrogen, and the lightweight kind which forms ordinary water.

In spite of the cold the heavy and the light hydrogen atoms "reacted" freely with each other. They mixed together to form various kinds of hydrogen.

This proved, Dr. Taylor said, that in industrial synthesis, where high heat is used, it is not the hydrogen which needs the expensive temperatures, but some of the other chemical substances.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Miss Patricia Fabry, who was questioned by police on Sunday concerning a fight in a rooming house at 1632 Humboldt boulevard, in which one man was killed, says that although she lived in the house she did not know the victim and did not discover the body, as stated in THE TRIBUNE.

After complaining of a pain in his chest, Peter Peterson, 57 years old, 2151 West Adams street, a salesman, collapsed and died in his home Monday night, supposedly of a heart attack.

HORNER ON STAND IN STEEL SUIT TO HALT PICKETING

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Gov. Horner today took the witness stand in Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle's court to testify in the La Clede Steel company's suit for a permanent injunction to restrain employés from picketing its Alton plant.

The governor testified that no request was made for troops to maintain order at the Alton plant when picketing occurred in December and 600 workmen were alleged to have been held prisoners in the La Clede plant.

The disturbance resulted in the issuance of a temporary injunction last month by Judge Briggle, said to be the first granted under the Norris "yellow dog contract" law passed at the last session of congress.

SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR BIG RISE IN ARGENTINE TRADE

Reason Given Is That We Have Reduced Imports.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 27.—Continuing his investigations of American-Argentine trade possibilities, THE TRIBUNE correspondent sought the opinion of Alejandro Bunge, well known Argentine economist, former chief of the Argentine Statistical bureau and who in recent years has frequently lectured on economic themes in the United States.

"Frankly," Bunge said, "I do not see any likelihood of an American demand worthy of mention for Argentine meat or cereals. Until a few years ago, such a demand appeared likely to develop in the near future, but sundry things have since happened to make that development improbable.

Reasons Are Listed.

"Among these things are:

"2. The increased production of home-grown meat.

"3. The lower consumption of bread per capita of the American population due to the adoption of a better and more varied diet.

"4. Scientific and technical progress, which has made profitable cultivation of the poor lands of North and South Dakota a possibility.

"Nevertheless, I think the Argentine republic might reasonably aspire, in return for appropriate concessions, to provide a certain zone of the United States with good and cheap meat up to a maximum of 100,000 tons a year—less than two per cent of American production.

Marketing Problem Wanes.

"In this connection, it should be remembered that the marketing of its meat is fast ceasing to be a serious problem in Argentina. The big home consumption [290 pounds per capita, per annum] already accounts for 76 per cent of the production, and within eight or nine years is likely to absorb it entirely.

"But with regard to other exports to the United States which might well be expected to increase considerably with better all-round business conditions, such as flax seed, hides, wool, yerba maté, casein, quebracho extract, and certain classes of poultry, there is one which should have a bright future in store. I refer to fresh fruit, particularly grapes, pears, peaches and melons, all of which are available during the American winter.

"With respect to the Argentine demand for American manufactures, that for automobiles and trucks may well resume its former dimensions. In 1929 Argentina imported 67,000 units from the United States, thereby placing itself at the head of the list of purchasing nations.

Pessimistic Over Future.

"I have not so much faith in the future for agricultural machinery, owing to the keener competition of other countries and to the expanding home production.

"In regard to Argentine purchases from abroad in general, I see small probability of their resuming their former importance so long as the low world prices for Argentine raw products persists. Moreover, the present tendency in Argentina is to seek a balance of international payments by the drastic curtailment of importation. This action is spontaneous and not the result of governmental action.

"Argentina requires a favorable trade balance of $200,000,000 annually in order to provide for service on its foreign debt and the dividends earned by foreign capital invested in the country. And in order to continue its punctual payment of the foreign debt service, the Argentine republic must, under existing circumstances, persist in the policy of restriction of imports.

"Another factor which will tend more and more against a return to the former lavish importation is Argentina's rapid progress in the industrial field."

Day-By-Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Steer Has "Mumps"

March 27, 1934.

DR. F. G. LOOMIS, the veterinarian, had to make a visit to the farm yesterday to look at one of the steers. Of course, steers don't have mumps, but if ever a Hereford looked as if he had mumps this one did. He developed a big lump on his jaw which would remind any one of us of our kid days when our chops were swollen because of a case of mumps. Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, was instructed how to treat the sick steer and apparently it will come along all right. Clarence recently cured another animal which had a slight infection. Outside of these two the Herefords have been getting along in excellent shape. They certainly get enough to eat. About 2,800 pounds of hay and 550 pounds of corn were fed to them yesterday.

The egg business is showing quite a spurt these days due to a change in feed being given the hens and also because spring is at hand. Mrs. Louis Thurow (mother of the manager of the experimental farm) is kept quite busy with the Barred Rocks. Yesterday she gathered 37 eggs from the nests. The chickens are being fed a mixture of corn, wheat, and barley in addition to a mash which stimulates egg laying. The experimental farm does not go in for chickens or eggs on a large commercial scale. Just enough poultry is raised to insure a "home supply" of both.

The newest batch of Chester White pigs (five in all) are giving quite a demonstration of how pigs learn their way around in this world very quickly. For the first few days after they arrived they didn't know there was anything on earth except their mother. Now you ought to see them waddle over to their own drinking cups and take notice when somebody comes in their pen. More new arrivals in the pigpen are expected any day now.

Rawlings has launched a sort of real estate boom among the poultry. His first offer was a completely furnished little house to any hen turkey that will sign a lease for the spring and raise a family. So far he has five of these little turkey houses completed. They are made of wood and will be located in one corner of the poultry yard. The young "king" of the turkey flock led his gang to the woods yesterday for the second time this spring. He strutted in front of the twenty members of the flock with such a fanfare of gobbling and spread wings that he looked like a drum major.

The pet lambs have proved too much for some of visitors who have been coming from Chicago, Geneva, Evanston, and other places in Chicagoland. Two of the visitors were unable to resist these cute little pets, so before they left for home they dug into their purses and each bought one of the baby "muttons." These bottle raised lambs are, of course, the most appealing of all the 180-odd lambs born to date because they are so tame. Just go near them and they pile on you looking for a bottle of milk. Rawlings has only a couple left now.

All of the older lambs in the sheepfold are learning the taste of salt. And how they love it! To these animals it must be comparable to what candy is to a child. Rawlings has placed a small trough in the sheepfold so close to the ground that all the little fellows can step up and lick all the salt they want.

PLOTTER OF JAIL BREAK CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Charges of conspiracy and aiding an attempted jail break were placed yesterday against Sam Gervase, said to be the owner of the revolver which was smuggled to Mickey O'Gara, a former convict held in the county jail pending his trial for robbery. Bonds for Gervase were fixed at a total of $50,000 by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court and he was taken back to the jail.

Meanwhile, the authorities were searching for a man who was the third link in the plot. His identity is known, but it was not revealed. Gervase and Roy Brady, who were seized together, allegedly delivered the weapon to this man, who in turn gave it to Attorney Harold Jirka, brother of Dr. Frank Jirka, state health commissioner and son-in-law of the late Mayor Cermak.

Attorney Jirka smuggled the gun into O'Gara, according to the confession of Carl De Salvo, another prisoner in the jail. He was to have received $6,000 for his part in the plot, the state charges. Jirka is being held in the jail pending a sanity hearing on April 2.

De Salvo said the escape was to have taken place Saturday morning at 6 o'clock when the prisoners were taken to the detention room. At that time O'Gara was to call a jail guard on a pretext, then to knock him unconscious with the revolver butt.

ESCAPE PLOT PRISONER FOUND GUILTY AS BANDIT

Maurice Barad, 28 years old, one of five prisoners whose plot to escape from the county jail was frustrated last Saturday, was found guilty of robbery with a gun last night by a jury in the criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch. His punishment is fixed by statute at one year to life in prison.

He was accused of the robbery last Nov. 22, of the Auto-Cars Sales and Service company, 1716 West Perishing road, in which $587 was taken, and during the trial was identified by Magnus B. Wilsberg, company manager, and Lauretta Cullina, switchboard operator.

Barad was named as a conspirator in the unsuccessful jail break plot in the confession of Carl De Salvo, under sentence of a life term as an habitual criminal, who turned informer after the scheme had been foiled by the finding of a revolver in the cell of Francis [Mickey] O'Gara, robber and parole violator.

MILK PRICE CUT TO EIGHT CENTS BY BIG DAIRIES

Act to Meet Competition of Cut Rate Stores.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The delivered price of milk is to be reduced from 9 to 8 cents a quart beginning Sunday morning, according to announcements made by several leading dairies last night. Pints of milk will still sell for 6 cents.

The cut in price brings the delivered cost of a bottle of milk to just one-half what it cost in 1920 and effects a reduction of 18 per cent from the prices prevailing three months ago. It is the lowest price for delivered milk here since 1916.

The first announcement of the price cut was made by the Wieland Dairy company, a subsidiary of the Borden's Farm Products company of Illinois. The move was said to be an effort to regain customers who have been shopping at the cut rate stores for their milk, and to retain the present system of retail doorstep deliveries.

Cut Surprises Industry.

The Wieland announcement came as a surprise to most of the industry, although THE TRIBUNE reported on Feb. 27 that such a low price was to be expected as a result of various forces operating to force a price war. Other dairies soon reported they would meet the price, while the cut rate stores, who have been selling milk at 7 cents and requiring a 4 cent bottle deposit, were faced with a narrowed margin between the delivery and store prices.

The new 8 cent price is considered likely to remain in force for at least 2 months, it was said yesterday. The organized diary companies say they can make no profit at 8 cents a quart while paying farmers the 3.7 cents a quart minimum required by the government's milk license.

Small dealers, of which there are some 375 in the Chicago region, are reported to be finding it difficult to meet their payments to farmers, and should the local milk administrator, Frank C. Baker, carry out the license provisions, he would be obliged to cite the dealers in arrears to farmers for a revocation of their licenses to continue in business.

Small Dealers to Fight.

The small dealers are preparing for a fight for their existence, said one of the officers of the Chicago Milk Dealers association last night. They are to meet tonight at the Morrison hotel to determine whether they will meet the lowered prices being set by both the big dealers and the cutraters and whether they will defy the AAA and start purchasing their milk direct from farmers at agreed prices without the checkoffs and red tape demanded by the AAA.

Another outcome of the new price war move is said to be that at least 200 milk wagon drivers belonging to the wagon drivers' union will be out of jobs by May 1. Already nearly that many men have been given notice and are serving out their vacations before being laid off.

On three occasions in the last six months the union has refused to accept a pay cut from the scale of $40 per week.

TROUBLES GROW FOR DAIRYMAN UNDER AAA CODE

Forced to Cut Prices He Pays to Farmers.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The troubles which Charley, the farmer milk dealer, has suffered from the action of agricultural adjustment administration brain trusters in Washington in building up a maze of dairy industry statistics, have already been told.

But the necessity of hiring a trained accountant at a salary equal to more than 5 per cent of the gross receipts of his modest business, to satisfy the brain trusters' passion for statistics is not the only penalty which Charley has suffered in the AAA's latest variation of the old "save the farmer" game. Charley's relations with his ten fellow farmers from whom he buys milk have been vastly complicated, with resultant losses both to him and the farmers.

Always Settles Promptly.

Charley's credit has always been excellent. He paid his farmer producers for their milk on the second of the month following that of delivery. Even the big milk companies, in their sound financial condition, are unable to pay before the 15th or 20th of the month following delivery, principally because of the volume of business they handle. Many other dealers today owe farmers for four or five months' milk.

As a result of his prompt and sure payment, Charley was able to pick his producers, selecting herds giving milk richer than the average in the Chicago milkshed. Charging the same prices as other dealers, he was able to seek new business on the assurance that he was supplying richer milk and cream.

Also, Charley did not use the base-surplus plan of payment worked out by the big dealers and the Pure Milk association. Under that plan milk sold in fluid condition brings a relatively high price, and the market surplus, prorated among all PMA members, is paid for at a much lower price. Charley had no surplus, being able to sell all he bought as fluid milk and cream, and he paid his producers approximately the top price fixed by the PMA and the big dealers.

Pays Farmers Too Much.

February was the first month in which the new AAA milk price fixing plan was in effect. On March 2, Charley paid off the farmers who had delivered milk to him during February at the rate of $1.51 a hundredweight [3.24 cents a quart]. Several days later he received a letter from Frank C. Baker, Chicago milk administrator, informing him that under the rules of the AAA plan for raising farm income, he had given his farmers too much money.

Although Charley had sold all the milk he bought from the farmers at fluid milk and cream prices, the AAA, through Mr. Baker, gave him permission to pay them for only 86 per cent of their product at the fluid milk and cream price, and the remaining 14 per cent at the much lower price for surplus milk.

The fluid price was $1.57 a hundredweight, slightly more than Charley had paid, and the surplus price was 89 cents. But together they averaged only $1.485 per hundredweight, and certain checkoffs reduced the actual payments to the farmers to $1.445 per hundredweight [3.1 cents per quart].

Charley couldn't see why he should pay his farmers for only 86 per cent of their product at fluid milk and cream prices, when he had sold 100 per cent of what they delivered to him at those prices. It looked to him like cheating.

Pool Gets Excess Profit.

To salve his conscience, however, he was informed that he wouldn't be allowed to keep the profits of what he regarded as chicanery. That was to be paid as an assessment into the pool administered by Mr. Baker, to be paid out again to other milk dealers who had bought more milk from farmers than they had been able to sell as fluid milk and cream, and had processed the surplus as butter or evaporated milk.

In addition to penalizing the ten farmers from whom he buys, for surplus which they didn't produce, Charley was also supposed to assess them a total of about $5 a month to pay the overhead of Mr. Baker's office, including the salaries of the statisticians who had figured out that Charley was giving the farmers too much money.

Charley was also supposed to charge his farmer producers a total of $15 a month for a "service fund" which Mr. Baker administers. Part of this money is for credit insurance. Since Charley has always paid more promptly than is the accepted custom in the industry, this money really will go out of the pockets of his farmers into the pockets of other farmers who had been less fortunate in picking the dealers to whom they sold.

A Duplication of Service.

Part of the "service fund" is designed to pay inspectors who would test the butter fat production of the farmers' herds. Since Charley's farmer-producers are members of a cow testing association through which they pay the Lake county farm agent to make the same tests, they will be paying for a duplicating service for which they had no use. Another proportion of the fund is to be used for advertising; which neither Charley nor his producers have ordered nor approved.

While the total $20 a month assessment on the ten farmers may not seem large, the same assessments are being levied on 18,000 farmers in the Chicago milkshed through some 400 dealers, of whom more than 100 operate the same modest type of milk business which Charley has.

Freight Train Conductor Killed in Fall Under Car

Edward McNabb, 60 years old, Franklin Park, conductor of a Soo line freight train, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he slipped while signaling to the engineer and fell under the wheels of one of the cars. The accident occurred on the Chicago Junction railway at 40th and Wood streets. He died last night in the Mercy hospital.

CHICAGO JEWS PAY HONOR TO RABBI WISE, 60

2,000 Attend Celebration of His Birthday.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than 2,000 persons last night greeted Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, noted New York Jewish leader, at a celebration of his 60th birthday. The affair was held in the Stevens hotel under auspices of the Chicago committee of the American Jewish congress, which was founded by Rabbi Wise. Several hundred persons were enrolled in the membership of the congress during the evening.

Dr. Wise, speaking on "My Battles," declared that during his lifetime New York has had only four city administrations which were not almost completely corrupt, and that in Mayor La Guardia "New York now has a mayor who is a mayor." He added that Mayor La Guardia's civic leadership as a liberal in political thought "is prophetic."

Describes Jewish Congress.

The American Jewish congress was described by Dr. Wise as a means of consolidating Jewish thought and unifying Jewish action in reference to national and international situations affecting the welfare of the Jewish people.

The contributions of Jewish leaders of the present day were recalled by Dr. Wise as the program of the congress was outlined. He named "the four greatest living Jews of the world." These, he said, are Albert Einstein, the physicts; Henri Bergson, the philosopher; Sigmund Freud, whom he described as "the Columbus of the human mind," and Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme court.

Tells His Own Purpose.

Dr. Wise declared that the guiding impulse of his own life was to be the servant of the Jewish cause, "to stimulate Jewish self-respect, self-reverence, and self-defense, and to move the Jews to lift their heads a little higher and to know that to be of the household of Israel is to be a thing of glory and not of shame."

"The passion for self-obliteration of the Jewish race has brought us to a low ebb," said Dr. Wise. "Let us achieve the noblest that men can achieve and we shall realize in concrete form the spirit of the Shekinah.

"I would rather see Israel dead tonight than governed by fear of Hitler. Democracy is human fellowship in political form. Our social order must be more than a vision and a dream. It must be founded on equity and justice for all classes."

Other speakers at the celebration were Prof. A. Eustace Haydon of the University of Chicago and Rabbi Solomon Goldman, spiritual leader of Temple Anshe Emet. Prof. Haydon described Dr. Wise as a "modern liberal."

Old fashioned liberals, he said, were those "who soothed their consciences with dreams to avoid the dragon of social inequality." The modern liberal is a person, said Prof. Haydon, who believes something ought to be done about corruption and injustice.

Rabbi Goldman described Dr. Wise as a living continuation of a people as contrasted with dead archeological remains of extinct nations. He declared the Jewish people have survived the ages because they have been "experimenting in the welfare of mankind in a laboratory called Israel."

URGES CUT IN SUBURB ELECTRIC RATES TODAY

A temporary electricity rate reduction of approximately 10 per cent for residential and commercial customers in the 6,000 square miles of territory served by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois about Chicago will be recommended to the Illinois commerce commission this morning.

Harry R. Booth, counsel for the commerce body, will make the recommendation. He will base his motion upon the results of an investigation and hearings conducted by the commission. When the inquiry is completed some months hence, the reduction will be made permanent and possibly greater if waranted by by the facts.

The saving for domestic and commercial users, the lawyer said, would be greatly in excess of $1,000,000. One report was it would be at least $1,300,000, and would be reflected by a decrease to that extent of the $13,000,000 paid annually by the two classes of customers.

The Public Service company in the hearings was charged with having made excessive profits. It was asserted that in 1932 the excessive profits totaled $2,200,000.

TWO GUNMEN ROB COUPLE.

PLAN NEW ORDINANCE TO PERMIT MAKING OF 'SUNSHINE' MILK

The Chicago board of health, meeting yesterday to approve regulations for adding vitamin D to Chicago's milk supply, was given a ruling by Corporation Counsel Sexton that the existing milk ordinance prohibits the adding of any substance to milk. A revised ordinance has been drafted and Ald. Terrell of the city council health committee declared it would be introduced at the next meeting of the council.

The "sunshine" milk, which has qualities preventing rickets and other bone and teeth deficiencies, is being sold under approval of the American Medical association in fifty other cities. Three methods are used to obtain the vitamin content: feeding the cows irradiated yeast, treating the milk with ultra violet rays under carbon arc lamps, or adding small amounts of cod liver oil concentrates.

NEWTON D. BAKER AND SEN. LEWIS ARGUE GERM SUIT

Aid Sanitary District in Sewage Case.

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and Senator James Hamilton Lewis yesterday appeared in Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley's court as counsel for the sanitary district, defendant in a suit brought by Activated Sludge, Inc., on charges of patent infringement in the present method of sewage purification.

A similar case was decided in favor of the sludge company against the city of Milwaukee by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals several weeks ago.

Difference in Cases.

At the outset of the hearing Judge Lindley remarked it would be presumptious for him to permit extensive arguments because of the ruling of the higher court in the Milwaukee case. Attorneys for the sanitary district assured him, however, there are some differences between the two cases.

All of yesterday was used by Lynn A. Williams, chief counsel for the sludge company. He insisted the case here is practically identical with the Milwaukee suit which was an action for an injunction to restrain the city from patent infringement, to all intents and purposes. Attorney Lynn argued the validity of the patents was upheld in the other case and that this question can not be raised now.

Process Uses Bacilli.

The patent process uses bacilli of a certain type to purify sewage. Most of the patent provisions relate to the mechanical equipment for treating the sewage. The patents were obtained in England and the United States by the late Walter Jones of Birmingham, England, and were leased to Activated Sludge, Inc.

The defense will attack the validity of the patents, will argue that a lessee cannot sue for an injunction, and that the drainage board can not be enjoined because it is a governing body. No proceedings can legally halt the sanitary district from carrying out the provisions of the $120,000,000 sewage disposal decreed by the Supreme court, and the patented method is necessary to its fulfilment, it will be contended.

Baker and Lewis Argue Today.

Mr. Baker and Senator Lewis will make the closing arguments today after a groundwork has been laid by the other sanitary district attorneys, Wallace R. Lane and Arthur C. Denison. The latter is a former federal judge and a member of the law firm headed by the former secretary of war.

Because the patents expire next year, the sanitary district will only have to pay royalties from 1922 up to that time if it loses the case. In this event a master-in-chancery will be appointed to determine the amount due.

CHICAGO LEADS THE NATION IN TRADE UPTURN

Survey Shows Steady Gain Beginning with Fair.

Chicago is not only well along the road to economic recovery, but is leading the rest of the United States in that respect by a good margin, according to a report compiled yesterday from statistics furnished by large Chicago corporations.

The figures were assembled by the Keep Chicago Ahead committee, an organization of business and civic leaders formed to publicize the city and A Century of Progress for 1934. Among the outstanding points discovered were:

1. Savings bank deposits are swelling rapidly.
2. Industrial employment is increasing.
3. There is an advance in commercial activity.
4. Department stores, which increased their business tremendously during the Fair last summer, are holding and increasing the gains in 1934.
5. The Chicago Surface lines are transporting 6,000,000 more passengers a month than they did a year ago.

Raising Fund of $500,000.

In order to spur the recovery movement the committee is raising a fund of $500,000 to promote the idea of the 193[illegible] Fair, the estimate being that the return to the city from this will range from 10[illegible] to 1, to 500 to 1.

Considered particularly significant in th[illegible] figures made public were those pertaining to banks. Clearings for the member banks of the Chicago Clearing House association were $4,447,964,784 for the five Fair months of 1933—a gain of $49,000,000. Up to March 22, 1934, the clearings had gained $197,000,000 over a year ago. The report continued:

"Debits to individual bank accounts registered an increase of $1,425,390,000 for the period July 1 to Nov. 15, 1933. This was an increase of 17 per cent. The average for the nation was 7 per cent."

Employment Shows Gain.

Employment figures also mirrored the return to prosperity. In January of 1933, there were 49 men and women employed in industry for every 100 who had been employed on the aver[illegible]e in 1925 to 1927. In the February just past, there were 63 employed, a gain of 14.

"Chicago department stores," the report continued, "showed gains ranging from 11 to 29 per cent for the five Fair months, as against the corresponding months of the preceding years. They held their gains in January, with a 23 per cent increase, and figures now being compiled will show another heavy gain for February."

Another significant indication of the trend is in the report of the Commonwealth Edison company. Its total of customers at the end of 1933 was 902,438, a net increase of 14,104 over 1932, and the first increase noted since 1929.

More Money to Spend.

This, the report points out, shows that people who had doubled up during the depression are returning to their separate homes and apartments. They have been employed and have more money to spend.

"All the above facts," the report concludes, "warrant a most optimistic feeling for the Fair of 1934. The Fair, with its concessionnaires and exhibitors, will employ about 25,000 persons. Hotels and restaurants and laundries will employ another 22,000 to 30,000.

"Other interests in Chicago will employ approximately 70,000 more. If we can increase the attendance at the Fair by additional millions of visitors, there will be an added several hundred millions of new dollars in Chicago for spending and saving."

Fair Comfort Stations Free; to Sell Ad Space

Comfort stations at the Fair this year will be free, as previously announced by officials. Yesterday it was learned the Fair is going to make some profit out of this service after all The walls, ceiling, and other space is to be sold to advertisers. The stations in 1933 grossed over $800,000 and cost in the neighborhood of $200,000 to operate. The Fair has made a tentative offer to an advertising concern to sell space in return for the operation of the stations.

GANDHI EX-DISCIPLE VISITS GHOST WRITER WITH NEW HUSBAND

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Nila Cram Cook, her six million gods and her new husband, Albert N. [Starlight on the Waters] Hutchins, descended today on the habitat of Leslie Fulenwider, eminent "ghost." There was a rumor that she was to become the running mate of Frances Heenan [Peaches] Browning.

Mahatma Gandhi's ex-disciple and her husband, former messboy on the steamer which Saturday brought her from India, successfully kept out of the public's eye.

Fulenwider, manager of Famous Features, Inc., who is credited with writing "Peaches" Browning's first person story when she was making front pages, was scarcely more communicative, but, however, admitted he was meeting the newlyweds late today.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE LOSES 2D TRY FOR FREEDOM

A second attempt to free Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, from her cell in the county jail, failed yesterday when Judge Irving L. Weaver of Sterling, sitting in the County court here, refused to release her on a petition filed under the insolvent debtor's act. Mrs. Blacklidge was jailed a week ago for failing to pay a $7,500 judgment to Mrs. Susanne Nottingham for alienating the affections of Mrs. Nottingham's policeman husband. Judge Weaver will decide this morning whether or not Mrs. Blacklidge may be entitled to her freedom under bond while her attorneys appeal her case to the Supreme court.

300 TO ATTEND BOOST CHICAGO LUNCHEON TODAY

Officials to Tell Fair's Business Benefits.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Three hundred Chicago business and civic leaders will attend a luncheon in the Palmer house today as another step in the campaign to keep the city ahead in economic recovery.

The campaign, started by Mayor Kelly, is under the direction of the Keep Chicago Ahead committee. It is the committee's purpose to encourage coöperation with the World's Fair of 1934 so that the impetus given to recovery in the middle west by the 1933 Fair may continue.

Today's luncheon is under the sponsorship of the association of commerce. City officials and Fair executives will tell the guests what the 1933 Fair did to improve business conditions and will show how the 1934 Fair can carry on this work.

Rufus Dawes to Speak.

The speakers will include Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, who returned yesterday from Washington where he conferred with President Roosevelt regarding government participation in the Fair, and Robert B. Upham, city controler.

Mr. Dawes will discuss the improvements in the 1934 Fair and give data from railroads and hotels showing the amount of business and tourist trade drawn to the Chicago area by the Exposition. Mr. Upham will read official city figures regarding increases in tax collection and retail business and improvement in municipal finances.

Mayor Kelly has given much of the credit for the rejuvenation of the city's finances under his administration to the Exposition.

Fix South Gate's Location.

Fair officials yesterday made a final decision on the location of the southern entrance to the grounds. Last year there was an admission gate at 39th street. This year the admission gate will be at 35th street. However, in deference to the wishes of several south side business associations the old 39th street gate will remain in its present location, although no tickets will be sold or collected there. Motorists and pedestrians may enter at that point and get their tickets at 35th street. There will be another ticket gate at 36th street on the west side of the grounds.

The west side of the drive from 35th to 39th street will be used by the Fair for garage space, warehouses and utilities. The east side of this stretch of the drive has been returned to the south park board with the understanding that a parking space will be furnished in the area made vacant by the removal of existing [illegible]uildings. Exposition officials say th[illegible] system will not only make the Fair more compact but will also clean up t[illegible] grounds by restricting necessary ut[illegible]y operations to a relatively small ar[illegible] not used by the public.

Contracts were signe[illegible] yesterday for the presentation of [illegible] animal fair at the Exposition. T[illegible] exhibit will cover 23,000 square fe[illegible] on the Midway beach, with a 65 f[illegible] smoldering volcano in the center. [illegible]ne thousand monkeys will frolic aro[illegible] the center cone, with other anima[illegible] in caverns. Lions, tigers, snakes, an[illegible]other jungle habitants will be shown.

Starting this week, W-G-N, affiliated with the Chicago Tribune, the leading independent station of the middlewest, doubles its power to reach new heights of broadcasting efficiency and a larger service area with its great programs. W-G-N, the independent station with programs of network quality, signalizes its tenth anniversary on the airwaves with the inauguration of its new 50,000-watt transmitter equipment. This doubles its former broadcast power.

New listeners in a wider service area and an increased intensity of coverage of the central five states are assured with the installation of the latest type of transmitter. The middle-western market which will be served embraces more than 20,000,000 people and most of them already are regular listeners.

W-G-N has pioneered many of radio's greatest programs of today. The custom of broadcasting news events from coast to coast and the unusual in feature programs broadcast independently of the national networks has made W-G-N an outstanding station since its inception.

W-G-N originates five programs for the two national networks—Orphan Annie, Singing Lady and Clara, Lu and Em for NBC, and The Romance of Helen Trent and Just Plain Bill for CBS. In addition W-G-N combines with the Michigan network to present The Lone Ranger and with WOR and WLW for the Stars on Parade program. Two other W-G-N shows, The Boy Reporter and Bob Becker's Program on Dogs, have been so successful that the sponsors have had these live talent productions on W-G-N recorded and rebroadcast by transcription on several other stations.

Great names of the entertainment world are featured daily on W-G-N and its service programs and educational features are unsurpassed.

On Thursday evening, March 29, the salute to the nation and the inauguration of the new transmitter equipment will be celebrated with an all star parade of talent before the W-G-N microphones. CLEANERS' AUDIT HELPS SQUIRES IN RACKET TRIAL

Defense Wins Battle to Show Losses.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The defense in the racket conspiracy trial won a victory yesterday when, over the bitter protests of the prosecution, Judge Philip J. Finnegan ruled that the jury might consider testimony to show how and why Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, fixed minimum prices after he became czar of the cleaners and dyers' institute.

The battery of prosecutors, led by Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber, fought in vain the introduction into evidence of an audit and survey of the profits and losses of 25 large cleaning and dyeing plants before Dr. Squires, one of 18 defendants in the trial, fixed minimum prices. The audit was made by Edward H. Schwartz, head of an accounting concern at 205 West Wacker drive.

Raber Fights Audit Evidence.

"Individuals have no right to fix prices, even though the price be reasonable," argued Prosecutor Raber, in opposing introduction of the audit. "The mere fixing of a price by a combination is a conspiracy in restraint of trade."

Defense Attorneys Floyd Thompson, Benedict Short, and James C. McShane argued for the admission of Schwartz's audit. They pointed to the present government price fixing system to support their position.

"The defense should not be barred from showing the intentions and motives of the defendants in their various acts," finally ruled Judge Finnegan.

Then amid a barrage of prosecution objections Schwartz outlined the result of his survey, which showed that for the five month period ending May 31, 1931, the 25 plants inspected had operated at a net loss of $40,000 on a basis of $1,000,000 worth of business. It was about this time that Dr. Squires fixed the minimum prices, evidence showed.

Prof. Millis on the Stand.

The testimony throughout the day was devoted to a defense of Dr. Squires and his associates in the cleaning and dyeing business. Witnesses testified that Dr. Squires did not seek the job as head of the industry, but that the job sought him.

Among the witnesses was Prof. Harry A. Millis, head of the economics department at the University of Chicago. He said he was one of the sponsors of Dr. Squires for director of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute. He said he had recommended Dr. Squires after a delegation of business men and civic leaders asked him to pick a man to stabilize the industry.

"After the decision to employ Dr. Squires," testified Prof. Millis, "I approached him and suggested that he take over the work. He told me he was too busy and unless there was a strong moral obligation involved he could not spare the time. I persuaded him to accept by telling him of the chaotic conditions that then existed in that trade and pointing out the moral obligation."

Labor Leaders Testify.

Among other defense wtnesses were John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor. They both testified to the good reputations of Dr. Squires and Ald. Oscar Nelson, another defendant. They said that they also asked Dr. Squires to assist in straightening out chaotic conditions in the cleaning and dyeing industry.

Dr. Squires is expected to take the witness stand in his own behalf today to close the cleaning and dyeing phase of the defense. The defendants identified with the linen supply industry will then present their case.

CONDUCT BETTER AT DARTMOUTH SINCE REPEAL

San Pedro, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Dr. Craven Laycock, 65 year old dean of Dartmouth college, arriving here today on the liner Talamanca, announced that repeal and the sale of beer and ale on the Dartmouth campus have improved social conditions greatly.

"Dartmouth men are learning to carry out the tradition that they may do whatever they like with liquor," he asserted, "so long as they carry it like gentlemen, do not disturb the peace nor offend others."

Dr. Laycock is touring Pacific coast alumni associations.

FLOWER SHOW GARDENS RISE ON NAVY PIER

BY PAUL POTTER.

Thousands of superior flowers, shrubs, and potted plants which have been growing in various sections of the central states under glass are being transported this week to Navy pier in Chicago. There they will be displayed in the eighth annual Garden and Flower show, which opens on April 7. Nearly three acres of gardens, parks, and floral displays will be exhibited. The show will close on April 15.

Hundreds of workmen and gardeners from Chicago parks, the Forest preserves, and from 141 amateur garden clubs of the state were at work on the north wing of the pier yesterday, building the basis of earth, evergreen backgrounds, and sod which will transform the entire wing into a land of flowers and gardens.

Most of the gardeners have been planning and planting their exhibits since last October, when the show plans were made under the direction of Mrs. O. W. Dynes of Hinsdale, president of the Garden Club of Illinois. Thousands of the plants were set out so that only the finest blossoms could be selected.

Send Away for Blooms.

The Freeport Garden club had prepared 500 iris plants and was growing them indoors to bloom in April instead of midsummer. The plan failed and it was necessary to send to North Carolina and California for iris to replace them. The Freeport gardeners are using French hybrid lilacs as a background for one of the unusual gardens to be seen by visitors at the flower show.

The entrance to the pier, just inside the doors, has been strikingly improved for what is expected to be the largest amateur flower show ever held in this country. It is a growing formal garden with hedges of balsam twelve feet high. There are stone benches on each side of the wide walk through which visitors pass into the show, and a pool 30 feet long, with fountains and water lilies.

Contest for Professionals.

The cut flowers, orchids, chrysanthemums, carnations, roses, lilies, sweet peas, and many other popular as well as rare flowers, are to be exhibited in a professional contest conducted by the florists. Special gardens also are to be shown by the National Association of Gardeners, north shore branch, and the North Shore Horticultural society. Gardens from the prominent conservatories of the north shore also are taking form. Included are showings by Mrs. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Warren Wright.

Allman Orders Action as Applicants Lag.

BY HAL FOUST.

The police yesterday, on orders of Commissioner Allman, intensified efforts to put 1934 plates on all automobiles. Capt. David Flynn of the traffic division estimated there were 700 arrests on the first day of this renewed enforcement drive.

Secretary of State Hughes reported 976,093 passenger cars and 110,611 trucks have been registered in Illinois for 1934, as compared with 626,784 passenger car and 83,829 truck licenses purchased before March 28, 1933. The total 1933 registration was 1,276,864 passenger cars and 186,186 trucks, indicating that there are still 300,771 passenger cars and 75,575 trucks using the streets and highways without 1934 licenses.

Allman Orders Arrests.

Commissioner Allman issued yesterday's order because in the last couple of weeks there has been a slack in the number of applications for licenses received by the secretary of state. The plates in the last few weeks have been selling at the rate of between 3,000 and 5,000 a day, as compared with the rush of between 10,000 and 12,000 a day when the arrests were initiated five or six weeks ago.

In Chicago the 1933 license is becoming scarce, worn only by a motorist here and there with a drag or a great deal of luck in escaping the police. J. J. Nash, chief of Secretary Hughes' license bureau, said that downstate is more delinquent than Chicago in buying new plates.

'33 Tags in Evidence.

A score of these 1933 numbers were noted yesterday in a drive between Evanston and the loop. One, Ill. 787-975, was also bearing an "I gotta drag" star and on the rear window of the car was a sign "Toman for Sheriff." Dr. George W. Blaha, a dentist, 2634 Lake View avenue, to whom the number was issued, said he has paid his 1934 tax, but neglected to change his plates.

Other 1933 numbers and the persons to whom they were issued are as follows:

PLAN NEW HARVARD PAPER AFTER SPLIT ON PRESENT ORGAN

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—[Special.]—A split between the liberal and conservative elements of the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily newspaper, was followed today by a move to establish an opposition daily publication to be known as the Harvard Herald.

The rift followed a controversy over the policy of the paper. The liberals supported a six page paper with general news and the conservatives a four page paper with only Harvard university news.

The argument reached a climax last week-end when at a meeting of the editorial staf of the Crimson, the conservative group won by a small margin.

Then followed a near riot in the Crimson building when undergraduates broke furniture and ruined much of the paper and apparatus.

Tonight it was reported several members of the Crimson, who had been supporting the liberal policy, would resign from the paper and sponsor an opposition publication. Among them were Joseph J. Thorndike Jr. of Peabody, Mass., Harvard senior and president of the Crimson; Russell G. Olsen of Chicago, Ill., junior chairman of the editorial board, and Joseph M. Boyd, a junior of Boston, Mass., a member of the editorial board.

POLICE HELPER IS HELD TO JURY FOR JOB PROMISES

James J. Tobin, 35 years old, for the last four years a janitor at the detective bureau, was held to the grand jury in $2,000 bonds on two charges of confidence game yesterday. Miss Mary Kennedy, 642 North Cicero avenue, testified before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court Tobin had taken $700 in diamonds and the furnishings of her summer cottage in return for a promise that he would get her a job as a school matron. The promise was never kept, she said. Clarence W. Chastine, 2142 Highland avenue, Berwyn, said he paid Tobin $500 to get him a position in the school janitors' union.

Gun Carrier Is Sentenced to a Year in Bridewell

James Spanos, 25 years old, 740 South Racine avenue, who was seized last July 22 after his automobile sideswiped a police car, was found guilty of carrying concealed weapons yesterday. He was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $200. Police testified that Spanos had thrown a revolver from his car just before he was arrested.

FEDERAL PURCHASE OF THE DRAINAGE CHANNELS.

After prolonged consideration the sanitary district trustees have prepared a bill to be introduced in congress providing for the purchase by the federal government of the main drainage channels and the Calumet-Sag branch. This was first proposed for the public works program but held not to be within the authority of the executive. The authority of congress to make the purchase is, of course, unquestionable, and both precedent and policy support such action. The function of drainage has now by federal action been reduced to the minimum and will presently disappear. The district has been ordered to provide other means of sewage disposal and both of these channels will be exclusively maintained as navigable thoroughfares entirely under the control of the federal government. Ownership should go with exclusive use. As property they would be virtually useless to the sanitary district. Both justice and policy call for their purchase by the federal government.

Congress has purchased other canals and should purchase these. They are a part of the national system of inland waterways, and as they were created and paid for by local taxpayers they should be paid for as property taken for a federal use.

A LETTER FROM MR. ICKES.

In the Voice of the People this morning will be found a letter from Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, in reply to a TRIBUNE editorial entitled "The Forgotten Coal Miner." The editorial said that an organization of miners and mine owners had protested to Mr. Ickes against the destructive effect on the coal industry of the Loup river power project in Nebraska. A hearing had been requested. A fortnight later the protestants had received no reply from the Public Works Administration.

The facts stated were correct, for the protest was dated Feb. 21 and the reply did not leave Washington until March 7. The inference which was drawn from the incident was not correct. The editorial said that the government seemed to be dodging a dilemma. Washington apparently feared to grant a hearing because that would create a precedent in such matters and the water power projects could not survive a rigorous analysis by engineers and accountants. Neither did the government care to refuse a hearing because that would have smacked of autocracy. Hence the government merely ignored the protest.

As Mr. Ickes has now made plain, and we are only too willing to acknowledge, the government's conduct was not pusillanimous. The government did flatly deny a hearing. In view of the great pressure of business Mr. Ickes' delay of two weeks in replying to the coal men was not of any significance.

With the unfortunate and regretted misinterpretation of the delay no longer confusing the issue, it is possible to examine the government's policy and conduct with greater objectivity. Mr. Ickes makes three points which may be dealt with in order.

1. The project, he says, was passed upon favorably by the Nebraska advisory board, the Public Works Administration, and the Mississippi valley committee. But the Nebraska advisory board could hardly be expected to oppose the expenditure of other people's money in Nebraska. The Public Works Administration's job is to find objects upon which to spend its $3,300,000,000 appropriation. The Mississippi valley committee might show a delicate regard for the rights of coal miners and federal taxpayers, but the probability is that it would not. In short, the project was not at any time passed upon by men primarily interested in preventing the waste and misuse of money. There is nothing in the record cited by Mr. Ickes to alter the judgment that the Loup river project, like the government's other water power schemes, will prove to be a financial flop, a waste of the taxpayers' money, and a job destroyer.

2. Mr. Ickes says the coal industry "slept on its rights." The phrase is meaningless unless it is assumed that miners and mine owners had been notified that their property and their jobs were in jeopardy. Of course no such notice, formal or informal, was given. The coal industry was scarcely aware of its jeopardy until after the government had contracted to build the dam. The American taxpayer finds it difficult to habituate himself to thinking that the government which he supports is also his most ruthless competitor. The reference to rights slept upon is a useful reminder to citizens generally that in these days of government by impulse they must regard themselves as continually on notice that the carpet is about to be pulled out from under them.

3. "Valid rights," says Mr. Ickes, "have accrued to the proponents of this project since the contract has been signed and it would be highly inequitable, since they are not in default in any respect, now to reopen a question which they have every right to regard as having been definitly settled." This should make interesting reading to people who invested their money in air transport companies. It would be instructive to compare the investment in the air lines whose contracts the government abrogated without a hearing to the investment, if any, of private money in the Loup river scheme. The conclusion seems justified that the government is scrupulous in observing its contracts whenever it prefers to be scrupulous.

CHAOS IN CHINA.

When the story of this age is brought into perspective by future historians the chapter on China may be more impressive than its events seem today. For after all, as we occasionally remind our readers, the people of China are about a quarter of the human race and what is happening to them is of more moment than our preoccupations elsewhere permit us to realize. Not that we can do much, if anything, about it; but we can at least be conscious of the vast phenomenon and speculate upon its nature and possible implications.

To be intelligibly informed in Chinese events is possible only for specialists. The situation and the forces at work in their depths are immensely complicated and the wide gap between our cultures, our ways of thinking and feeling, our standards and scales of value, make interpretation more dubious and difficult than the interpretation of events in any part of the occident. The application of western tests so confidently made, especially by American theorists, only results in error and disappointment. It is not helpful to the Chinese, however passionate its good intention. The vast ferment goes on and we can do little save watch its workings as they appear in observable events. The scene, at any rate, is one of the most remarkable in history; a tragic drama unfolding with no plot or none the occidental can follow with much understanding. We may generalize upon it, but analysis is hazardous and likely to be deceptive. A survey now and then is offered us and one that seems informed appears in a recent China Weekly Review. The writer quotes two statements by occidental observers which he asserts "epitomize the history of fifty years of decline and fall of the Chinese nation and are saddening comment on the blessings of the two decades of republican rule under militarist groups and political parties." One of these quotations points out that "since 1883 China has lost over 2,414,193 square miles of territory in eastern Asia—a disintegration more swift and fatal than that which overtook the Roman, Greek, Byzantine, and Egyptian empires." There still remain, he says, "something over 2,000,000 square miles of the erstwhile Flowery Kingdom to be carved up," but he thinks the appetite of Japan threatens its early extinction.

The same picture with the same question is taken from an editorial of the Shanghai Evening Post. "China at the present," said the Post, "is divided into an Indianized Sinkiang, a French Yunnan, a soviet Mongolia, a Japanese Manchuria and Jehol, communist areas in Kiangsi, Fukien, Hupeh, Hunan, Anhui, and other points too numerous to mention, together with tripartite Shanghai and probably half a dozen other things we've neglected to mention, such as, for example, that 'Republic of China' having headquarters at Nanking"; and we would venture to add, a Canton that seems in our perhaps erroneous opinion chronically separatist, and Peiping of dubious dependability. The whole seems to give some ground for the Post's conclusion that "about the only puzzle is how much China can be whittled down and still remain China."

In short, whatever the causes, a nation containing a quarter of the human race, with a cultural history of perhaps five thousand years, seems now in process of hopeless disintegration which must have repercussions as wide perhaps as the world. That a core of nationality will survive we cannot doubt, but the rest of the apple will not be distributed without involving the relations of the chief powers of the outside world.

AN OLD IDEA IN NEW CHEESE.

Paul Potter of THE TRIBUNE finds that the perplexed milk industry has hit upon a new way of handling its surplus problem. It seems to have emerged not from governmental codification and stabilizing, but from ingenuity and adventure. The Pure Milk association, bothered by its surplus production, has experimented with two new types of cheese. A French cheesemaker was found who thought he could produce in America two types new to the American table and, backed by the PMA as an organization of individuals and not as a ward of government, he seems to have been successful.

It is predicted for the two new types that they will find a ready market and that there will be a steady demand for them because of their appetizing qualities. There is a bit more of the old American habit in this determination to discover a new product, relieving an overproduction along other lines, than there was in the burocratic insistence that the industry be rescued by fixing prices and decreasing consumption by chasing the purchaser away.

Editorial of the Day

THE SILLY SILVER SHOW.

[The Cincinnati Enquirer.]

It is one of the defects of the national legislative system that the far west should be grossly overrepresented in the senate. That cannot be changed. It simply is a fact to be remembered. The recurrent agitation for government action to raise the price of silver is one of the most conspicuous and ridiculous results of that overrepresentation of the west. Eager to show benefits to their constituents, the silver senators repeatedly bellow for higher priced silver, or its free coinage—and always in the name of recovery.

The fact is that silver is not a significant factor in our economic system. Its production gives employment to a number of persons, just as the production of shoestrings gives employment to a number of persons. It has been used as money in times past, and historically it is associated with inflation of the currency. But it no longer can be reckoned an important element in our monetary system. Its coinage at a favorable price would produce some inflation—but no more in volume and no better in quality than is obtainable through bond issues.

However the sectional pressure of the west may tempt senators and some representatives to vote for a subsidy to silver interests, the President has a clear obligation to stop any scheme designed to embarrass the treasury for the special benefit of those interests. His decision to send James Harvey Rogers to China to study the silver question may be merely a device to delay action on silver beyond this session of congress. It may be merely giving a pleasant vacation to an able adviser who has worked long hours for no pay since last July.

If Rogers' trip helps to forestall the Dies bill and other silver schemes it will be worth the cost. If it winds up—as it very probably will—by proving that a further increase in the world price of silver would handicap China and India, then we shall have a new bulwark against a stampede of the silver senators. And that will be a good thing.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEY MAY PUT TEETH in the stock selling laws, They may file those teeth sharp and well; But they'll never bite through the grief that we knew, When the stocks that we've got went to hell.

NO! THE BUNNIES do not lay the Easter eggs! Absolutely not! I don't care whether you believe it or not or how unpopular this declaration is going to make me. The bunnies do not lay the Easter eggs. You may keep on lying to the children if you want to and think you're getting away with it. But I told a dear little child last Easter that the dear little bunnies laid the dear little Easter eggs and the dear little child said lispingly: "I sink you are thust thuck full oth proonth thuise." That ends that. And next Christmas I'm going to come right straight out and tell the truth about this Santa Claus thing.

"CATTLE AND LAMBS Hard Hit in Market; Hogs Advance."—Headline. Isn't that just like a hog? The meek eyed cows and the pretty little lambs are hard hit, but do the hogs stop to pick up the wounded and care for the afflicted? No, on the contrary, they advance. A hog is a hog, no matter what happens, and under all circumstances.

AN AIRMAN PRAYS.

God of the flaming spheres,
Lord of the sea and air,
Banish our haunting fears,
Heed Thou the airmen's prayer.

Pilgrims of trust are we,
Swung in the vast of night;
May we courageous be;
Bring us the morning light.

Strengthen our arms, we pray,
Grappling with vengeful space;
May we not fear the way,
Meeting Thee face to face.

God of the spangled sky,
Guide through the boundless air;
Hear Thou our pilgrim cry,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

OH, WHAT HORRIBLE ODOR is that? Be calm, dearie; it's almost time for the Easter parade, and what you smell are moth balls. They're taking them off the silk hats.

PERSONAL.

Bob Becker: I see you and Paul Potter are devising means to get rid of the rats in some of the old buildings on the Trib farm. Mr. Thomas Atkins, the w. k. Sealyham, says he will take over the job and guarantee there won't be a rat left within five miles after he gets through. He wishes a proper honorarium for his services of say one cent for the scalp of each rodent, an hour's work a day, and not more than three working days a week. Also two meals a day of chicken livers and dog biscuit. And he will catch his own chicken if necessary (or even if it isn't necessary). He also requests that food and entertainment, with a kind word and a glass of water, be given his owner and chauffeur. Address, in strict confidence, P 1117, Tribune.

THERE SHOULD BE SOMETHING DONE about this. The motor clubs, the police, and committees of safety frequently send out sundry sage admonitions to motorists. But shouldn't they go further back? So many motorists seem to be unable to read. Shouldn't they be taught, painful and laborious though it be, until they are able to read the word "STOP" and know that it means to stop, not to go into second or slow down a bit or entirely ignore? Now, then, let us have the first lesson. "STOP," a simple word consisting of four letters, S-T-O-P. Now, then, class, it's meaning? Goodness, you don't know! Why, it means to stop, cease, desist, refrain, halt, stay, or tarry. Study it carefully, class, and if a policeman gives you a ticket the next time you go past a STOP sign it will be your own fault.

No, They Haven't Changed Those Things in 2,000 Years.

THE WEATHER.
Unsettled tonight and Thursday, snow probable, not much change in temptation.

INFLATION may be all very well (oh, it may be; I wouldn't get wildly excited about it, but it may be all right), but how in the world are the likker shoppes going to increase the price of whiskies, brandies, rum, and such and still make it possible for us to buy any? Already thirsty looking men who go into the likker shoppes and are told the price of this or that frequently faint and, after they are revived, have to be led out sobbing. But now if the prices are inflated—oh, Hellup! Hellup! Hellup!

TRIBUTE.

(To Dr. Margaret J.)

If on my unguarded life the trap of circumstance
Should close its iron jaws, the while a ring
Of cold-eyed hunters mocked my agony
With not one heart compassionate enough to bring Calming assurance of unfaltering fealty,
I should await your coming still; knowing full well
Not rabble condemnation nor the mobs of hell
Could halt your flying feet, once you had word of me
Held fast within the dripping fangs of tragedy.
If I were guilty, I should know Gethsemane
In your unchanging adamantine loyalty.

SILICOSIS.

TWO great groups are very much interested in silicosis. One is the employers who are conducting industries in which there is exposure to dust. The other groups consist of the thousands of people who work in these industries. Lawyers and legislators make up another group—one that buzzes around the other two.

The industries that are especially interested are as follows: Pointing of stone and brick houses, sandblasting, foundry work, mills, castings, sand mining, sandstone workers, glass, mining, particularly underground work in quartz [and, in lesser measure, granite], coal mining, asbestos mining, and metal grinding and polishing.

The main interest is in exposure to silicates, a sand compound. However, under such names as anthracosis, siderosis, asbestiosis, and pneumonoconiosis, are embraced disorders due to exposures to various kinds of dust, some of which contain no silicon or silicates. Organic dusts such as mill dust, flour dust, and cotton dust are far less harmful. The dust from lime rock, limestone, and lime seems to be far less so.

At one time special stress was put on the number of dust particles in a cubic foot of air, the size of the particles, and the sharpness of their edge. These qualities, while still thought to be of some importance, are not considered as determining as they were once thought to be. However, we still stress the importance of small particles as against large ones.

Opinion now is toward the chemical qualities of dust. The theory is that it acts much as does lead. It does most of its harm when it goes into solution. Like lead, it is thrown out of solution and deposited in certain parts of the body. Later it is absorbed and secreted.

As is the case in lead poisoning, the progress of the disease, silicosis, does not stop at once when exposure to dust is stopped. It may go on during the period of subsequent absorption and excretion. The harm done in silicosis is done to the lungs. It causes the fibrous tissue of the lungs to thicken up. Breathing becomes rapid and difficult. In time, extra work is thrown on the heart as well as on the lungs. The heart beat, as well as the breathing, becomes labored. Eventually the digestion suffers. In many cases the ground work is laid for consumption and the pneumonias.

Mrs. H. M. writes: I have arthritis of the spine.
1. Is it dangerous?
2. Is it liable to cause lameness?
3. Can it be cured?

REPLY.
1. It does not endanger life particularly.
2. It has.
3. Cure is very uncertain and unsatisfactory.

VALUE OF EXERCISE.

R. G. writes: I shall be 80 next year. I came from England when I was 19 years of age and was with a prominent actor and dramatist ten years. I have since been yacht steward for many prominent men. I have never had a day's illness. Today I have a figure of a young man, all due to exercise, which I take three times a day. I also take a two mile walk. When I see much younger men walking about round-shouldered I think what a benefit it would be if they took a lesson from me.

MICA DUST IN AIR.

V. M. M. writes: I am a young man 21 years old. In the course of my work each day I breathe air that has a quantity of mica dust or particles in it. Is this injurious and, if so, what can be done about it? The machinery is equipped with suction devices, but these are not very effective, as a certain amount is held in the air.

REPLY.

TYPES OF COLITIS.

Mrs. L. H. writes: My husband has been told that he has colitis.
1. What does that mean?
2. Is there a cure for it?
3. Is this dangerous?

REPLY.
1. Theoretically, it means inflammation of the large intestine, the colon. There are several kinds of colitis and some of them are not inflammatory. Among them are mucous colitis, spastic colitis, amebic colitis, dysenteric colitis, tubercular colitis.
2 and 3. Depends on the kind.

PROPERTY OWNERSHIP.

Des Moines, Ia., March 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man and wife bought a home on which they make payments each month to an insurance company from whom they borrowed part of the money with which to build. This couple haven't any children. When the papers were made out covering the purchase of this property, the wife was not present and did not sign any of the papers. When the money was borrowed from the insurance company the wife was present and signed the necessary papers. 1. Where does the wife stand on this proposition? 2. Does she own any share in their home? 3. If not, what steps should she take to protect her rights? 4. And, in case of the death of either party, how could she proceed?

M. S. N.

1. As you have above stated.
2. Depends on whether her deed is so worded as to convey an interest to her. If no deed has yet been executed, her rights depend on the wording of the purchase contract.
3. The first step is to ascertain the facts.
4. See 3.

ARMY RULES.

Chicago, March 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know [1] what [article of war] A. W. 107 is, and also [2] what A. R. 615-360 [A. R. means army rule or article of war, I am not sure] section VIII. means. K. K. S.

1. It reads as follows: "Every soldier who in an existing or subsequent enlistment deserts the service of the United States or without proper authority absents himself from his organization, station, or duty more than one day, or who is confined for more than one day under sentence, or while awaiting trial and disposition of his case, if the trial results in conviction, or through disease or use of drugs or alcoholic liquor, or through disease or injury the result of his own misconduct, renders himself unable for more than one day to perform duty, shall be liable to serve, after his return to a full-duty status, for such period as shall, with the time he may have served prior to such desertion, unauthorized absence, confinement, or inability to perform duty, amount to the full term of that part of his enlistment period which he is required to serve with his organization before being furloughed to the army reserve."

2. If you can give us the context in which the expression occurs, we may be able to answer. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The ruling princes of India have just demanded adequate naval protection. Taking their stand on the ground of their treaties with the British crown, they have submitted a resolution urging a "small beginning" should immediately be made by the addition of four light cruisers and four large and two small torpedo boats to the royal Indian marine—an auxiliary force of sloops armed with 2 inch and 4.7 inch guns and torpedo tubes. The greater rulers of India are deeply perturbed by the latest report on the defense of India, which was drawn up by the government of India and submitted to those states which maintain armed forces.

The report, prepared with the assistance of the naval commander in chief in India, is unequivocal in its admission of India's new danger.

"It is desirable to draw attention," it says, "to one other danger to which India is exposed and which is liable to be overlooked. This is the possibility of attack from the sea. The fact that since the establishment of British rule India has been able to rely for the protection of her coasts upon what, throughout almost the whole period, has been the mightiest navy in the world, obscures the fact that she is now peculiarly vulnerable from this direction. It is therefore no exaggeration to say that adequate naval protection is essential to her existence."

A few months ago the weakness of India was demonstrated by naval maneuvers in the Bay of Bengal—the point an enemy from the east would head for. The defending force of royal naval cruisers and Indian sloops was completely outmaneuvered by the "invaders" who had Colombo, Madras, and Calcutta at their mercy and all the trade routes blockaded.

Several Indian princes and leading British Indian politicians were aboard the flagship. So deep an impression was made that recruiting for officers and men for the royal Indian marine has been advanced. Ten more Indian cadets are due to join eleven who are training at naval academies in England as gunnery and engineer officers. Two armed sloops are being built.

The Indian princes do not consider this adequate. They point to their treaties in which naval protection is guaranteed, but which, according to Britain's own report, no longer exists.

The British Indian is now said to be as frightened of the Japanese as the ruling princes. The point is made that were England embroiled in a European war, India would be exposed to invasion by a non-European power.

Members of the British "big navy group," who have given the Indian princes naval advice, have plugged for 12 fast cruisers as an ultimate defense force, with 24 torpedo boats. This would not replace the royal navy, but augment it. The princes ask that this force be directly under the admiralty, manned and officered by Britons, with a skeleton of Indian personnel to be increased gradually.

There is sufficient money. The 20 greater states of India are richer by far than a dozen small European states. During the war they made money and contributed to the imperial treasury sufficient money to have provided a dozen cruisers. British India's contribution to the royal navy is negligible but the ruling states pay a tribute [though not necessarily for the navy] varying from $200,000 to $1,000,000 a year.

The princes fear Japan so greatly that nearly all the states would be willing to treble their contribution, and make it definitly for naval defense.

FROM SECRETARY ICKES.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—I have read the editorial entitled "The Forgotten Coal Miner" in your issue of March 16 and I note your comment on my refusal to hold a public hearing on this project.

Since you are interested in this matter, I am enclosing a copy of my letter of March 7, last, to Mr. Michael F. Gallagher of Chicago, attorney for the National Job Saving and Investment Protection Bureau for the Coal Industry. On the face of the record, as disclosed by this letter, a decision to hold a hearing at the late date it was requested would have served notice generally that all an opponent to any project would have to do in order to harass and delay it would be to come in at any time after the matter had been finally determined and the contract signed and ask for a hearing.

If this hearing had been asked for within a reasonable time it would readily have been granted. I know of no instance where we have refused a hearing when requested within a reasonable time. If the coal people did not have their day in court it was because they slept on their rights and refrained from asking for a hearing until after the project had been approved and the contract actually signed. It would have been bad public policy to have reopened a question that had been carefully considered and of which the eleventh hour opponents must have had notice months before they filed any objection.

In your editorial you refer to the telegram of the National Job Saving and Investment Protective league asking for a hearing. Your comment is: "No reply had been received [to this telegram] nearly a fortnight later." This organization wired both to the President and to myself on Feb. 21. On March 7 I acknowledged these telegrams and enclosed with my acknowledgment a copy of my letter to Mr. Gallagher because that contained my reasons for denying the request for a hearing. I do not think that, considering the enormous number of communications from all parts of the country that reach this department, this was an unusual delay considering all the circumstances and particularly the fact that I was away from Washington from the afternoon of Feb. 23 to the morning of Feb. 28. This, as it happens, was the longest period that I have been away from my desk since I came to Washington. HAROLD L. ICKES.

Michael F. Gallagher, Esq.,
Gallagher, Rinaker, Wilkinson & Hall,
Chicago, Ill.
My dear Gallagher:

I have your letter of Feb. 27 asking for a hearing on behalf of your client, the National Job Saving and Investment Protection Bureau for the Coal Industry. Stacy Mosser also spoke to me about this matter when I was in Chicago and I told him that before giving an answer I would have to look up the record here upon my return. That I have done and upon the basis of that record I regret to advise you that I do not see how I could properly grant the hearing requested.

The Loup river public power project, our docket No. 665, is the project in opposition to which you wish to be heard. This project was approved on Nov. 15, 1933. Prior to that date no protest against it was received by the Nebraska advisory board or by the public works administration here. The record discloses that the first request for a public hearing was made on Jan. 3, 1934, more than six weeks after the allotment had been made.

Following this date a number of protests were filed with the public works administration by coal operators in the neighborhood of Columbus, Neb. These protests were carefully considered. As an additional check on the judgment of the public works administration the matter was submitted to the Mississippi valley committee for study and this committee reported that in its opinion further delay was not justified.

Accordingly the bond purchase contract was executed on Jan. 15, 1934. Subsequent to that date various requests for a hearing were received. The National Job Saving and Investment Protection Bureau for the Coal Industry was organized, which, on or about Feb. 21, asked for a hearing, following which you also requested such a hearing as counsel for that organization.

In view of the record, particularly the fact that the bond purchase contract was actually executed on Jan. 15, last, I would not be justified in reopening this matter and granting the hearing requested. Those opposed to this project had plenty of time within which to ask for a hearing. By their delay they cannot be permitted to hold up the progress of the public works program. Moreover, valid rights have accrued to the proponents of this project since the contract has been signed and it would be highly inequitable, since they are not in default in any respect, now to reopen a question which they have every right to regard as having been definitly settled.

HAROLD L. ICKES.

INCIDENT ON A BRIDGE.

Chicago, March 27.—If 1934 Chicago is to continue to tolerate wagons drawn by horses it can at least require them to minimize their obstruction of trafic—certainly not to add to it.

This morning at 10:30, crossing the Kinzie street bridge, a two horse team belonging to the Lasham Cartage company walked at a foot pace down the middle of the driveway so that automobiles coming up behind could not pass on either side. One automobile blew a short blast on its horn to call the attention of the driver to his obstruction, whereupon he not only did not pull over to the side but actually stopped on the bridge, wasting his backward employer's time as well as that of a number of motorists and trucks. K. L.

THE POSTOFFICE FURLOUGH.

Chicago, March 22.—The President announces that the postoffice is overstafed and that the alternative to the recent furlough order would have been the discharge of 15,000 men. Actually, this furlough order saves approximately as much in man hours as would be saved by discharging only 11,000 men. And yet, in order to accomplish this furloughing, it was necessary to reduce carrier deliveries on all routes by one a day and to postpone some vacations until the next fiscal year. C. R. STEELE.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

GERMANY VOTES BIG INCREASE IN "WAR" EXPENSES

Nazi Storm Troopers Get 100 Million Fund.

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—Large increases in military appropriations and a $100,000,000 grant to Nazi storm troopers feature the 1934 German budget, which was balanced today at 6,458,281,600 marks—about $2,584,000,000.

Another outstanding item authorizes the finance minister to spend 100,000,000 marks [about $40,000,000] in guarantees for the promotion of Germany's export trade and to use up to 35,000,000 marks [$14,000,000] for "overcoming difficulties in the German shipping industry."

Army and Navy Figures Up.

The storm troopers' subvention was generally interpreted as indicating that this outspoken National Socialist party instrument is now regarded as an integral part of the vast government apparatus.

This appropriation, army and navy expenditures, and the considerably higher aviation budget raised the total 1934 accounting nearly 900,000,000 marks [$360,000,000] over last year.

The army and navy figures increased from 670,000,000 marks [$268,000,000] in 1933 to 894,000,000 marks [$357,600,000] in the next fiscal year. For aviation 205,000,000 marks [$357,600,- is appropriated, compared to only 70,000,000 marks [$28,000,000] last year.

The 1933 total budget aggregated 5,569,000,000 marks [$2,227,600,000 at current quotations]—$355,400,000 less than the current appropriations.

Revenues are Listed.

General grants for field aviation total 122,190,000 marks, and 50,000,000 marks were provided the aviation ministry for protective measures against air attacks.

The military appropriations include 80,000,000 marks for the army and 108,000,000 for the navy. These figures were nonrecurrent and were not itemized.

A part of the storm troopers grant will be used for voluntary labor service. Police protection accounts for 190,000,000 marks.

Nonrecurring expenditures were listed as 600,068,950 marks.

Revenues were anticipated from these sources:

2,440,000,000 marks from property and transfer taxes.

2,930,000,000 marks from customs and consumption taxes.

FRENCH PREMIER PAVES WAY FOR SLASH IN BUDGET

PARIS, March 27.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue, in a private talk with French newspaper men today, warned against danger to the franc. He told them it is imperative that the franc be maintained at its present value but said: "There must be sacrifices by all; otherwise France must devalorize."

The premier made his talk to pave the way for coming government economies which, it was rumored, will include a diminution of the number of government employés by 60,000 and a trimming of 4,000,000,000 francs—approximately $264,000,000—from the national budget.

Husband Refused Alimony; Wife No Longer Has Job

The attempt of Herbert Preston, 5543 North Nagle avenue, to get alimony from his estranged wife for the support of their two children failed yesterday when it was discovered that Mrs. June Preston, the wife, had recently lost her Civil Works administration job. However, Preston was granted a divorce by Judge Walter La Buy on his cross bill filed by Attorney Norman Becker, charging desertion, and was given custody of June, 9 years old, and Lois, 8 years old.

NAZIS THREATEN TO BEGIN DUMPING GOODS ON WORLD

Leader Says Germany May Resort to Inflation.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 27.—"Germany is endeavoring to surmount the crisis without resorting to dumping its goods on foreign markets. Our import restrictions represent our last efforts in this direction. If they fail to help Germany's finances, and if Germany is unable to sell more goods abroad, it will resort to dumping as practiced by other states through export premiums, devaluation of currences and other measures."

"Dr. Hans Posse, secretary of state in the ministry of economics, made this statement today in an address to representatives of the foreign press. Posse, a man of great practical experience in state economics, stressed that Germany had restricted its imports temporarily "to safeguard currency and assure a fair distribution of reserves and raw materials among German manufacturers to avoid speculation."

Optimistic Over Future.

Fritz Reinhardt, secretary of state for the German finance ministry, in another address told of his optimism about the German situation. He said.

"By the end of July, 1934, Germany will have only 2,000,000 unemployed, and in the summer of 1936 at the latest, Germany will have at the most a few hundred thousand unemployed, compared to 6,000,000 in January, 1933."

Reinhardt recapitulated the measures which the government has enforced and plans to enforce to better the situation.

"We still have 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 women holding jobs," he said reproachfully. "Starting this year, we shall extend 250,000 marriage loans annually until the working girls of marriageable age are married off. This is not a temporary measure, but a definite realignment of German women for racial purposes."

Employment on Increase.

Franz Seldte, minister of labor, gave further details of Germany's national reconstruction program. He pointed out that 14,000,000 Germans are now working, compared with 11,500,000 holding jobs at the same time last year. He said the government is determined to avoid inflation, and all of its measures are taken with a view of avoiding this pitfall.

"Inflation or devaluation of the currency means the destruction of capital," he said, "and we are trying to rebuild capital and resurrect private activity by setting a governmental example."

GENERAL HALLER IS WELCOMED AT KENOSHA MEETING

Kenosha, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—Kenosha's welcome for Gen. Josef Haller, famed Polish war hero and good will emissary, tonight was likened to old time tributes to returning conquering heroes.

A National Guard cavalry troop escorted the general and his official staf into the community where they were met by an imposing array of uniformed officers and city officials.

Gen. Haller spoke in Polish at a massmeeting in St. Casimir's hall, and the citizens contributed several hundred dollars in free will offerings to his plea for funds for hospitalization for Polish war veterans.

In Milwaukee Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—Gen. Joseph Haller, Polish war hero, will be given an official welcome when he arrives here tomorrow for a week's stay under auspices of Milwaukee Polish speaking societies. Gen. Haller is to inaugurate a drive for funds for Polish veterans of the American expeditionary forces.

Gen. Haller will be escorted from Kenosha to Milwaukee by a delegation of deputy sherifs together with a motorcade of some dozen automobiles. The party is expected to arrive here about 10 a. m. and will proceed to the offices of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan for the official welcome. This will be followed by a visit to the residence of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and south side Catholic parishes.

FASCISTI DESERT MOSLEY; FORM THEIR OWN PARTY

LONDON, March 27.—Charging that Sir Oswald Mosley and his chief lieutenants in the British Union of Fascists have become so "high hat" as to be almost unapproachable, and that conditions at the union's headquarters are "worse than in the army," increasing numbers of Black Shirts are deserting and forming their own party.

The new organization is violently anti-Semitic and is controled by a number of former Mosleyites, many of whom recently held offices in the British Union of Fascists. There is good reason to believe that considerable financial support has also been withdrawn from Mosley's union.

The deserters complain that both voluntary and paid workers are treated with contempt by a section of the "Mosley high command." Whereas Mosley originally mixed freely with the rank and file, he is now almost inaccessible without fixing an appointment several days ahead. The new party says it intends to retain the Mosleyite badges, and the members still wear black shirts.

Pasadena, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—George Chalfant, 12, stood stoically as his 14 year old brother, Wilton, cut gashes in his arm with a pen knife and as a result of the boys' presence of mind surgeons at Emergency hospital here said George will recover from effects of a rattlesnake bite. The snake jumped at the younger boy from a rock on a slope near his head and sank its fangs in his right forearm. Both boys took turns in sucking poison from the wound. When George fainted Wilton carried him to a nearby house.

BYRD TO SPEND 8 MONTHS ALONE IN POLAR "NIGHT"

Will Lock Self in Shack to Observe Weather.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 27.—(AP)—[Via Mackay Radio.]—Undaunted by the prospect of intense cold, darkness, and the suddenly striking storms of the long antarctic "night," Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd prepared today to spend eight months alone at a winter advance base 123 miles south of Little America.

His refuge until the end of October will be a tiny portable shack not much larger than required for elbow room. There he will study antarctic meteorological phenomena by means of a battery of thermometers and smoke bombs.

"I hope that no one will make anything of what I am about to do," Admiral Byrd said just before he flew to the base on the Ross ice barrier in order to direct its establishment.

"Making No Sacrifice."

"I am doing it because I am anxious to do it and am making no sacrifice of any kind whatsoever. I am not a radio operator, so the radio will probably fail. This should not be cause for concern."

Stores required for the base lie on the southern trial marked across the crevasse broken barrier by the main southern party of the second Byrd antarctic expedition.

The shack itself has been sunk below the snow surface. In a little while snow and wind driven drifts will have obliterated all but the wireless antenna, the spinning anemometer cups, and the silver weather vane that marks it as the world's southernmost meteorological station.

Shack "Nearly Fireproof."

Admiral Byrd familiarized himself with the working of the weather instruments under the instruction of William C. Haines, expedition meteorologist. He intends to keep a complete record of the polar weather.

He has also learned a wireless code and something about a wireless set. He instructed officers in charge of the main base here that failure to establish communication with them, no matter for how long, must not tempt them into taking risks.

The shack, he said, is nearly fireproof and as warm as human ingenuity—within the limits of space and weight—could make it.

13 CUBAN FLYERS OFF TO COLOMBIA; MISSION SECRET

HAVANA, March 27.—(AP)—Considerable secrecy tonight surrounded the plans of 13 former Cuban army flyers and mechanics to organize an air corps in the republic of Colombia.

The group sailed for that country today, but declined to reveal any information of their project. Friends, however, claimed that the men would receive from $150 to $200 monthly, the salaries to be paid half in United States currency and half in Colombian money.

[Colombia already has a well trained army corps, equipped mostly with American planes.]

Will Fly Mail, Colombia Says.

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 27.—(AP)—Authoritative sources tonight said the Cuban flyers who are en route here to "form an air corps," according to Havana reports, really are being brought to Colombia for a mail service in the Putumayo region.

ITALIAN PLANES SENT HUNGARIAN, AUSTRIAN ARMIES

GRAZ, Austria, March 27.—(AP)—Fast, powerful Italian combat planes have been added to the air equipment of the Austrian and Hungarian armies, it was revealed today.

Austrian pilots have begun a course of training here for the handling of 750 horsepower Fiat biplanes, carrying two machine guns each, which can climb 12,000 feet in ten minutes. Twelve Fiats recently arrived at the nearby Thalerhof airfield. Three light bombers also are stationed there.

Italian crews brought the new planes here and are assisting in the training of the Austrian pilots. It was learned unofficially that 20 more Fiats are to be brought here shortly. Hungary also is building up its air force with Italian machines. It was authoritatively stated that "several squadrons" from Italy passed through here recently on their way to Hungary.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Dr. Leo Wolman, head of the NRA labor advisory board and outspoken labor sympathizer, was chosen by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to be the "neutral" member of the new board set up to arbitrate labor questions in the automobile industry.

Gen. Johnson also stipulated that Dr. Wolman call the first meeting of the three tomorrow in Detroit. The other members of the board are Nicholas Kelly, counsel for the Chrysler Motor Car corporation, representing the industry, and Richard Byrd, Pontiac, Mich., labor leader, representing the unions.

Dr. Wolman's appointment was taken here as giving labor a distinct edge in the committee of three ruling on automobile labor questions. Long a proponent of labor's rights, Dr. Wolman is head of the NRA labor advisory board and as such is the spokesman for labor in the recovery administration. He is also a member of Senator Robert Wagner's national labor board.

Whether the manufacturers had agreed to Dr. Wolman's selection could not be determined tonight. Since the appointive power rested wholly with Gen. Johnson, however, there can be no appeal from the choice.

ALASKAN STORM BLOCKS SOVIET RESCUE FLYERS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 27.—(AP)—Four aviators in two 9 passenger planes, flying to the rescue of 89 Russians marooned on the ice floes of the Arctic ocean, received reports late today of bad weather at Nome. They advised that they would land at Nulato and resume the hop to Nome as soon as conditions permit. They said they would take on more gasoline at Nulato.

The flyers took off for Nome from Fairbanks. The expedition plans to leave Nome soon for the ice floes of the arctic and attempt to save the 89 men marooned there since February and endangered by lack of food and shifting ice. The rescue flyers are Pilot M. T. Sletneff and Pilot F. A. Levanevsky, Russians, and Mechanics Clyde Armistead and Bill Lavery, Americans.

A wireless message was received at Nome from the marooned men giving their position, but it gave no details of their plight. They were about 350 miles northwest of Nome.

BRITAIN RECEIVES FRENCH SECURITY GUARANTEE PLAN

Ambassador Tells Just What Paris Wants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—Another step in the poker game being played by France and Great Britain on the question of disarmament and security was taken today when Andre Charles Corbin, French ambassador to London, called on Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and laid before him answers to British questions concerning the recent French note to Great Britain.

It is known that in this note the French insisted that if they agreed to any disarmament by themselves or rearmament by Germany, they must have their security guaranteed. The British immediately asked what they meant by "guaranteed" and what exactly they wanted.

Up to Cabinet Today.

Corbin's "elucidations," as it is preferred to call them, will be considered at a cabinet meeting tomorrow, but nothing definite is expected in the way of a decision or even of concrete proposals until after Easter.

The situation was summarized by a British diplomat today as follows:

"We are trying to find out what the French want. They are trying to find out what we will give. We, in turn, want to find out what the French will give in return for what we will give. Naturally, neither is willing to disclose his hand in advance. We do not want to give too much in the way of commitment. The French want all they can get and want to give as little in return as possible.

Little Hope for Speed.

"With the situation like that, an early solution is not likely. What we hope to save out of the situation is a convention covering some sort of limitation, supervision and control of armaments and to put an end to the present irregular and illegal competition, but it cannot be done quickly."

ALICE WYNEKOOP MAY GO TO PRISON IN AN AMBULANCE

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, scheduled to go to the women's prison at Dwight tomorrow, may make the trip by ambulance if Chief Bailiff James E. Gabriel decides to grant the request of her daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, he revealed yesterday. The young Dr. Wynekoop said the family would supply the ambulance.

Dr. Alice Wynekoop, who was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, was reported by Matron Mary Kennedy to be resting easily in the county jail hospital yesterday and to appear "complacent and calmly resigned to her fate."

Attorneys W. W. Smith and Milton Smith, counsel for Dr. Wynekoop, who is 64 years old and victim of a heart ailment known as hypertension, said they had sought to find a legal method by which they could prevent her removal to Dwight at this time, but that they had found no means so far.

The women's prison at Dwight, where all the women prisoners formerly kept at Joliet are now held, is a model institution, known throughout the country for its advanced system of management and its comfortable dwellings arranged along the so-called "cottage plan."

Launch New Brazilian Air Mail and Passenger Service

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 27.—(AP)—Pan-American Airways today initiated a new mail and passenger service between Rio de Janeiro and Para [Belem], Brazil, giving 2,500 miles of the northern coast twice weekly service. Meanwhile newspapers reported that the government would suspend subsidies of the Amazon and Matto Grosso lines, operated by Pan-American Airways and German interests, respectively, because of cuts in the budget.

Bobby's much better—
since he stopped having Colds

"HE used to lose a week from school a couple of times every winter, and that's pretty hard for a boy to make up. But we heard a celebrated doctor say on the radio that Mistol Drops used every day would prevent most colds—and now Bobby's at the head of his class!"

Colds, of course, are a germ infection, and the soft membranes of the nose and throat offer an ideal home for the germs to settle and multiply. If you can catch them at the spot where they start their work, you head them off before they have had time to grow and spread. You have dodged a cold.

That is exactly what Mistol Drops do for you. They go right to the spot where the cold germs first settle—right in the nose—and stop them from multiplying and getting into the system.

Many cold treatments are strong and harsh—too harsh for delicate membranes—but Mistol Drops are pleasant to use, healing, soothing and entirely harmless, even for children.

When your throat is hot and burning, when your nose is stopped up from a cold, Mistol Drops give quick relief.

To help prevent colds—to relieve them quickly when they start—the safe way and the easy way is to use Mistol Drops. Get a bottle today! Small size now reduced to 25 cents.

CIVIL WAR LOOMS IN FRANCE OVER MASONRY ISSUE

'Fascist' Bomb Destroys Cannes Lodge Building.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27.—While France's financial barometer—government bonds—continued to fall, the political thermometer registered several notches closer to the boiling point today.

Acts to Disarm Factions.

In the capital the government at last decided to take action to disarm the rival political groups of nationalist and anti-Fascist fronts, which threaten the country with civil war.

Premier Gaston Doumergue acted following recommendation by the parliamentary investigating committee. Yesterday it was informed by Deputy Gaston Bergery, generalissimo of one of the militant left wing organizations, that unless something is done quickly Paris is going to witness street fighting which would leave a large part of the capital in ruins.

The first steps taken by the government were not very impressive, but they encouraged the optimists who hope that more drastic measures are being prepared. The police searched a house in the suburb of Saint Ouen and found a fair store of rifles, carbines, revolvers, and ammunition.

Raid Second Hand Shop.

Another raiding party discovered in a second hand shop in Montmartre an arsenal of about 50 automatic pistols, as well as rifles and ammunition.

A picturesque incident which was supposed to have occurred March 14, was related today by the Neo-Socialist paper, Notre Temps. According to Notre Temps, the police arrested a high pressure salesman for a big arms concern, who appeared at a Paris boys' high school with a valise full of pistols and was selling them like hot cakes to students, most of whom belong to some Fascist or royalist organization.

Official concern over the armaments scare was further indicated by a conference between Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut and Minister of Justice Henry Cheron, who worked out a decree stiffening the restrictions on the sale of firearms.

Cryptic chalked signs discovered all over Paris Sunday also have stirred interest in connection with the civil war threat. They are being carefully and mysteriously renewed whenever they are effaced, according to the Echo de Paris, Nationalist newspaper. The Echo does not say they were placed there by communists as part of an organized participation for anticipated civil strife, but it plainly implies just that.

The chalked signs have one characteristic in common—three arrows pointing downward as though indicating an emplacement. Almost all were found on public buildings located on squares or cross streets.

Masonry Looms as Big Issue

Although the semi-official press attempts to hush up the Cannes bomb incident, well informed political observers consider it an indication of the greatest importance.

Masonry is perhaps the principal political issue in France today. Hardly any right parties admit that they are Fascist, and some vigorously support the republic, but all unite in attacking Masonry. The Masons meanwhile are taking the leading rôle in organizing resistance to the alleged Fascist menace.

The extreme right wing parties, like Action Francaise, concentrate all their fire on the Masons, almost neglecting the communists. They exploit the Masonic menace in somewhat the same way that Chancellor Adolf Hitler in Germany exploited the Red menace to get the power in Germany. As all militant Catholic groups naturally join in the campaign against the Masons, the struggle is assuming something of the character of an embryonic religious war as well as a civil war.

Until today, when dynamite was inaugurated, calumny was the principal ammunition in this battle. The Serge Stavisky $60,000,000 pawnshop scandal was called specifically a Masonic scandal, because a number of prominent Masons were especially involved. The Masons were naturally accused also of provoking the massacre of Feb. 6 and assassinating Judge Albert Prince, counselor of the Court of Appeals and key witness in the Stavisky case. They are pictured as a sinister, secret state above the state, and politicians are supposed to obey blindly the instructions from the lodges on the pain of various sanctions, up to and including assassination.

The foundation, if any, of these charges is doubtless in the historic association of Grand Orient Masonry with the revolutionary cause prior to the foundation of the Third Republic. Then the Masons, being republicans, naturally were more or less conspirators. Grand Orient Masonry always played an active rôle in politics, which is one of the reasons why British lodges, from which most of the American lodges draw their origin, refuse to have anything to do with it.

The most prominent members of the Radical Socialist party are Masons and many Socialist leaders are also. Doumergue himself said he was a Mason, but of the Scottish rite.

That the Grand Orient lodge is perturbed by the campaign against it is illustrated by the long communique which was officially issued to the press, contrary to all precedent, following a conclave of delegates of Masonic groups from all parts of France which was held in Paris a few days ago. In the communique the Grand Orient lodge announces its intention to expel all Masons whose names are even mentioned in connection with the Stavisky scandal, and to oblige all of its lodge members to sign an oath that they have never engaged in any shady transactions.

Another Masonic apologia, which appeared in a left newspaper recently, attempted to refute the popular superstition regarding Masonic warnings and sanctions. The author of this article, a high Mason, gave assurance that only moral sanctions were ever applied by Masons.

De Valera Gets Papers; Governor Absent.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 27.—W. W. McDowell, new American minister to the Irish Free State, presented his credentials today to President Eamon de Valera.

The ceremony broke diplomatic precedent in that Donal Buckley, governor general and personal representative of King George, was absent. Heretofore diplomatic custom has required foreign diplomats to present their credentials to the king or his representative.

Charge Breach of Manners.

Gov. Buckley's absence is in line with De Valera's declared policy of eliminating all traces of British sovereignty from Irish affairs but pro-British spokesmen hold that it constituted a breach of international good manners.

McDowell drove to the government building from the legation in Phoenix park, accompanied by high officials in the foreign department and the American legation. Mounted troops in Prussian-like uniforms of blue and gold, and with drawn swords, escorted the minister.

In presenting his letter from President Roosevelt to De Valera, McDowell expressed pleasure on his appointment to succeed Frederick A. Sterling.

Pays Tribute to Irish.

"I am proud to reside, even if only temporarily, in a land whose sons have won noteworthy distinction in every avenue of endeavor in my country," he said, "and at times have not hesitated to offer their lives in its defense."

De Valera, responding, alluded to McDowell's acknowledgment of a personal kindness received from an Irishman.

"This first generous action of yours has already won for you the good will of all Irish," said De Valera.

He added that "the bonds of blood and mutual sympathy are unbreakable, and give the surest guarantee that your task of strengthening the friendly relations between our two peoples will be easy and pleasant."

TELLS OF TRYING TO AVENGE LOSS OF LIFE SAVINGS

The story of a strange attempt to gain revenge for the loss of the life savings of herself and her husband was told in court yesterday by Mrs. Catherine Vorker to Judge Harold P. O'Conell.

Before the crash of 1929, she said, she and her husband were fairly well to do. They invested in stock of the Kellogg Boxboard company, she said, and the money was lost. Mrs. Vorker's revenge was to charge merchandise at State street stores to the account of Mrs. John L. Kellogg, 2952 Lake Shore drive, wife of the head of the company.

Then, realizing how futile this was, she said, she and her husband made complete restitution. Judge O'Connell, convinced that the woman had no criminal intent, gave her a nominal sentence of one day in jail and a fine of $1.

FRANCE FINDS TRAIL OF SPY RING LEADS TO STRATOSPHERE

PARIS, March 27. — (AP) — Stratospheric espionage was added to the curriculum of modern spying today. Investigations by Judge Andre Benon, presiding at the inquiry into the activities of an alleged international spy ring, indicated that certain members of the band sought the military aviation secrets of the stratosphere.

One member specialized in this sort of espionage, police said Judge Benon was informed, because of the prevailing belief among leading powers that the upper air may play an important rôle in future wars.

French police today firmly insisted that the ring sought information on the new French planes and perhaps those of some other nations, chiefly for the benefit of Russia.

"We're on a vacation in our own Home

. . . no more shoveling coal or hauling ashes. Gas heat is such a relief!"

Mr. and Mrs. Seehausen with their children, Charles, Marian, and Donald.

An interview with Mr. Charles Seehausen and family, 21 Linden Avenue, Crete, Illinois

LOOK at a family free from the coal shovel—free from soot, dust, dirt and furnace worries! No wonder they say it's like a vacation since they installed gas heat.

"Gas heat is such a relief," says Mr. Seehausen. "No more hauling ashes or poking fires. And the house stays clean from one month to the next, because there's no soot or dirt when you heat with gas."

"Gas heat is healthier, too. With our old heating unit the house was always too hot or too cool, and sharp fluctuations in temperature often gave the children colds. But gas gives uniform, even heat day and night."

Low rates . . . you invest nothing to try

Think of it—rates for heating with gas are now one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season. And—you can try gas heat without investing one cent! We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act now!

Don't delay! You will never regret accepting this liberal offer on gas heat. Call your local gas company for full information.

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

"Don't know of anything finer. Just perfect." Mrs. W. H. Coventry, 700 E. 90th Place, Chicago

"Gas heat is wonderful. I don't know what we could do without it. Our friends who visit us marvel at the uniformly warm temperature." A. S. Silverman, 11419 Indiana Ave., Chicago

"We consider gas heat a great household necessity and a big improvement over our old heating method in cleanliness, health, and convenience." Dr. W. M. Struzynski, 704 N. Chicago St., Joliet

Gas heat can be installed without allowing your house to cool off

NEITHER HOLIDAYS NOR HOURS OFF IN GAS SERVICE

Thanksgiving, Christmas, Fourth of July, holidays observed by everyone—they mean but one thing to the Gas Company. They are days of greater service demands.

And these demands are always met, always have been met, in 83 years of unfailing service to Chicago.

When you turn on your gas for cooking or heating or both, the efforts of more than four thousand experienced people are at your command. And the gas comes to you through some parts of 3,727 miles of distributing system which lie under the streets of Chicago.

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER!

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

HOLLAND BURIES QUEEN MOTHER AS NATION MOURNS

1,000,000 Pay Last Homage to Emma.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, March 27.—One million of the 8,000,000 Hollanders lined the streets of The Hague and Delft today to pay their last homage to Dowager Queen Emma. The body of the queen mother, who died a week ago at 75, was drawn by eight black plumed horses to the centuries' old church at Delft, where other members of the house of Orange and Nassau rest.

The whole of Holland is in mourning for a week. Even the Socialists bowed in memory of the queen, celebrating her as a great benefactress to her people.

First Royal Funeral Since 1890.

It was the nation's first royal funeral since the death of Emma's husband, King William III., in 1890, and Holland made it a point to give the queen mother an infinitely more splendid funeral than was bestowed upon William.

All the streets were lined with soldiers and policemen, with many thousands crowded behind them, while the royal cortége traveled from the palace to the "New Kjerk" in Delft. The cortége, more than a mile long, took three hours for the six miles from the palace to the church.

Emma's crown was placed on top of the black draped herse which was followed by five huge cars laden with flowers from all parts of the world. The wreaths of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, King George of England, King Leopold of Belgium, and former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany were in evidence. Prince Consort Henry, other royalty, and members of the government and close friends followed the herse.

Royalty Present.

Prince Charles of Belgium, Prince Eugen of Sweden, Prince Felix of Luxembourg, Duke Adolphus of Mecklenburg, Prince Waldeck, who is Emma's brother, and his three sons, and Princess Erbach, Emma's sister, were also in the procession.

Queen Wilhelmina and Crown Princess Juliana did not follow the herse, in accordance with court etiquet. They listened to the services in the palace, then drove to Delft to await the cortége at the church.

The service was held in the presence of the queen and the crown princess, royal guests, the diplomatic corps, members of the government and the world court. Court dignitaries carried the coffin to the royal vault.

The flags of all neighboring countries were at half mast.

Mrs. Nellie Busch Loeb, 71 years old, a daughter of Adolphus Busch, founder of the Anheuser-Busch breweries in St. Louis, died yesterday at her home in the Belmont hotel, 3156 Sheridan road, after a long illness of heart disease.

Mrs. Loeb, who had been a resident of Chicago since 1889, was thrice married. Her first husband was Harry Weber. Her second was Arthur J. Magnus, who died in 1906. Her third husband was Jacob W. Loeb, well-known Chicago lawyer who died in 1911. Mrs. Loeb was a sister of August A. Busch who was head of the Anheuser-Busch breweries at the time of his death recently.

Surviving Mrs. Loeb are two daughters, Mrs. F. L. Berg and Mrs. H. C. Flanigan, and a son, Edward Magnus. Another son, Adolph Busch Magnus, died in 1930. Until about eight years ago Mrs. Loeb resided in the Magnus mansion at 401 Fullerton avenue, a show place of the Chicago of the '90s.

Adolphe Dumont, director of the W-G-N concert orchestra, and widely known as a musical impresario, dropped dead of heart disease in the W-G-N studios in the Drake hotel yesterday as he was conducting a rehearsal of the orchestra.

Mr. Dumont was born in Paris, the son of a French prima donna and a Sorbonne professor, and began his career as an orchestra conductor in Paris at the age of 16 years.

After coming to this country he became first violinist for the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra, later for the Minneapolis Symphony and the Berlin Symphony. Then he became musical director for the Balaban & Katz theaters in Chicago.

Iowa City, Ia., March 26.—(AP)—Thomas Huston Macbride, president emeritus of the University of Iowa, was an outstanding figure in fields other than that of educational administration. He was a botanist of note and a historical writer of more than ordinary ability.

Although his supervision of the university as president from 1914 to 1917 was eminently successful, much of his fame was due to researches and publications later. His botanical work at the school's Lakeside laboratory at Okoboji was outstanding.

In 1878 he came to the University of Iowa as associate professor of modern sciences, and in 1904 he was made professor of botany. The last subject interested him the most, and he established himself as a national authority on fungi.

W-G-N TO OPEN ITS 50,000 WATT ERA TOMORROW

Special Broadcast on Its Tenth Birthday.

Final tests of W-G-N's new 50,000 watt transmitter will be made today preparatory to putting the new broadcasting equipment into regular service tomorrow night on the station's 10th anniversary. Chief Engineer Carl J. Meyers has completed the installation of the 50 kilowatt equipment in The Tribune radio station's transmitter plant at Elgin, and all that remains is a final test.

Celebrating a decade of public service and entertainment, W-G-N will salute the nation tomorrow night at 8 o'clock by placing the new transmitter in regular service and presenting an all star two hour broadcast. This two hour program will be presented from a specially constructed stage in the grand ballroom at the Drake hotel.

All of the outstanding artists of the staf of the station, stars of opera, stage, and screen will participate in the gala birthday show. A feature of the show will be the return of Jack Chapman and his orchestra, the first band to broadcast over W-G-N and the first orchestra put on the air by remote control. Open house will be held all evening in the studios in the Drake hotel. Admission to the broadcast in the ballroom will be by invitation.

The jump from 25,000 to 50,000 watts granted by the federal radio commission is in recognition of the station's record of continuous distinguished service since the early days of radio. The new transmitter will increase the signal strength wherever picked up approximately 40 per cent and will eliminate so-called listener "dead spots," thereby greatly augmenting the station's service area.

DILLINGER IS REPORTED SEEN IN CALIFORNIA

Brawley, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—If two men are right in their identification, authorities here said today John Dillinger notorious outlaw, may be heading back to Tucson, Ariz., to revenge his capture there with three henchmen last January.

After his arrest by the Tucson police, Dillinger promised to return and settle with those he termed "hick cops." He was taken to jail in Indiana but escaped. The three captured with him have been sentenced—two to death and one life imprisonment—for the slaying of an Ohio sherif.

His story corresponded closely with that recounted to San Bernardino authorities last night by a garageman of that city. The garage man identified one of two men riding in a large sedan as Dillinger. He said there were three automatic pistols on the seat of the car beside one of the men.

"Admits" He's Dillinger.

They had cut the telephone wires. The family was unable to get word to neighbors and the sherif until this morning. It is believed the robbers expected to find a hoard of money.

Miss Swift Elopes with Ex-Grid Star

Geraldine Becomes Bride of "Tommy" Taylor.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"MR. AND MRS. GUSTAVUS F. SWIFT of 1551 Astor street announce the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Albert Thomas Taylor of Chicago," was the telephoned announcement received yesterday that put every one in this department and all of society into a dither.

If it had been the engagement of the young couple that Mr. and Mrs. Swift were announcing it wouldn't have caused much surprise, for "Tommy" Taylor has been devoted to Miss Swift for six months and all their friends rather anticipated an engagement announcement eventually, but an elopement always is an exciting surprise and especially so when the bride belongs to such a prominent family as Geraldine Swift does.

Mr. Taylor, who has been living in Chicago for the last year, and his bride returned to Chicago from Joliet, where they were married early yesterday morning by Justice of the Peace Joseph Kleptic in his office in time to have luncheon with her parents at their home. Presumably the newlyweds were forgiven and the new son-in-law welcomed into the family, for Mr. Swift said when he heard of the elopement, "Well, he's a key man and I guess young people do differently now than they did in the nineties."

What he meant by the words "he's a key man" is that young Mr. Taylor won a Phi Beta Kappa key at Yale, so he is bound to be a responsible, exceptionally clever young man. He also was a member of Scroll and Key and was well known as a football, baseball, and basketball player during the years he was at Yale. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Taylor of St. Joseph, Mo. The elder Mr. Taylor is an officer of the Stratton Grain company and young Mr. Taylor is in the brokerage business in Chicago.

Mr. Swift is the president of the packing concern of Swift & Co. He and his wife introduced their eldest daughter to society at a reception at their home in the fall of 1930, and during the Christmas holiday season that winter Mr. and Mrs. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry gave a beautiful ball at the Blackstone for their debutante daughters, Geraldine Swift and Hortense Henry. Miss Henry now is Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley. The former Miss Swift received most of her education abroad.

Tell Engagement of Jessie Crane.

"Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Crane of Pasadena, formerly of Chicago and Winnetka, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Beach, to Talcott Griswold, son of Mrs. Howard Phillips of Winnetka," read another interesting announcement received yesterday, this one by mail, however.

Every one who knows Miss Crane is delighted that her marriage will bring her back to Chicago to live, for she has been missed greatly ever since her family moved west. She made her debut in December, 1929, with her sister, Virginia Claiborne, who was married two years later to David P. Williams Jr. of Philadelphia and Santa Barbara, and now is living in Ossining, N. Y.

No definite date has been set for the wedding but it is planned for June. Mr. Griswold returned not long ago from a month in Pasadena and his mother and stepfather still are out there and probably will remain until after the Crane-Griswold wedding.

Attendants for Robinson Wedding.

When Miss Anne Robinson, daughter of the Harry Ives Robinsons, becomes the bride of Frank Greene Osborne on Wednesday, April 18, at St. Chrysostom's church, she will be attended by her cousin, Mrs. Joseph A. Vance Jr. of Detroit, as matron of honor, and by Mrs. Charles F. Elmes, Miss Helen Dawes, Miss Ruth Seanor, and Miss Joy Fairman as bridesmaids.

Mr. Osborne, a son of Mrs. W. Irving Osborne, will have his brother, W. Irving Osborne Jr., for his best man, and another brother, Nathan Osborne, and the bride's brother, Gilbert Robinson, Robert Biggert, Thomas H. Eddy Jr., Cameron Eddy, R. Hampton Ripley, Edward F. Hamm, and Bernard L. Thompson of Kansas City will usher.

The wedding service will be read at 5:30 o'clock and a small reception will follow at the Robinsons' apartment, 229 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Meeker's Lecture to Benefit Kenmore.

Patriotism prompts the interest two hundred society folk are showing in a buffet supper and illustrated lecture this evening at the Casino. Kenmore, the national shrine at Fredericksburg, Va., which was once the colonial estate of Col. Fielding Lewis, is to benefit.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker is to give the lecture . . . her much acclaimed "House Hunting in Africa," heard recently at the Fortnightly. She is the regent of the Illinois friends of Kenmore and has for years given of her time and energy and money to help restore the homestead.

Mrs. Meeker will preface her "house hunting" lecture tonight with pictures and a short history of Kenmore. She may recall that Mrs. Fielding Marshall is descended from Col. Fielding Lewis, who was George Washington's brother-in-law, having married his pretty sister, Miss Betty Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Meeker are having twelve guests for dinner at the Casino before the lecture. Mrs. Joseph Medill

Warshawsky Paintings Also Deserve Attention.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two interesting exhibitions have just opened. The O'Brien galleries yesterday saw the hanging of a group of dry points by Warren Davis. There are twenty odd prints in the exhibit, all that were issued during the lifetime of the artist, and the posthumous plate published at the time of his death.

To complete the group are impressions from six plates found in his studio and published under the direction of the Davis estate. This is probably the only large group of Warren Davis etchings that have been or will be seen in one gallery for some time. It is an unusual opportunity to view brilliant work.

The other exhibition is of paintings of Paris and landscapes by A. G. Warshawsky in the Anderson galleries. This is a beautiful show. The paintings are as fine or finer than any Mr. Warshawsky has yet shown here, and he has shown some stunning ones. The color in these is magnificent, tender at times, and strong when strength carries a greater implication. The quality of paint, the effect of atmosphere, the vivid, alive feel to these pictures—these are what we go to Warshawsky for and he does not disappoint us.

The "Pont Neuf" is a particularly fine piece of work, a narrow canvas, upright, strikingly beautiful. The "Castle Rock, Finistere," is of waters and rocks, vibrant, persuasive, dominating, the blues of a pure tone that makes them irresistible.

"La Cite" is a lovely gray composition, a bridge in the background. "Cinema, Mont Rouge, Paris," is full of color, rich in atmosphere, alive with animation. Another tenderly limned canvas is "Poplars of Rouraine," a beautiful painting with much of a Monetlike quality.

The exhibitions will continue into April.

Tomorrow and Friday the Adelphi theater is giving "Egg" matinées. From 1:30 to 5:30 eggs will be accepted as admission and turned over by the management to the Rogers Park relief station for Easter distribution among the needy of the community.

A fine program has been arranged for these matinées. Three great pictures are on the bill—"Cavalcade," "Three Little Pigs," and "Krakatoa." All won recent awards from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Through the Looking Glass

Since we women have gone so completely gaga over paste rouges a new beauty problem has reared its aggravating little head. Us, we find it hard to get that cream rouge off. Being a hard working beauty shopper, we're always pale, and when we cleanse with cream and still find some color in the cheeks we know it isn't the bloom of health. It's rouge that one cream cleansing and sometimes even two didn't completely remove. Have you noticed this, too?

Leaving any makeup on overnight is one of our beauty phobias; we think that's how large pores are born. So we up and did some shopping for ourselves—and for you.

Some rouges stick closer than others, but we can rout any one of them now. We found, first of all, a good cleansing cream, white as snow and of scrumptious texture, that seems to flood every pore as soon as it's applied to the skin. That's the first step in the rouge chasing operation, but the woman whose cream this is goes along with us in the belief that cream sometimes isn't enough. To use after it and to eliminate any chances of clog poring with unremoved makeup, she suggests a lavender colored lotion that we wouldn't be without. Patted in with cotton, it completes the cleansing operation beyond a shadow of a doubt—and is beautifully refreshing into the bargain. We know you'll like both.

We like the way this beauty stylist goes at the basic problem of skin care—cleansing. She has the cream and lotion referred to above and a few richer creams that are well suited to the average Chicago woman's skin, with its omnipresent need of lubrication. But for oily skins she has a milky liquid cleanser that removes grime and makeup but doesn't add to the already troublesome burden of surplus oil. All oily skinned lassies should take a look at it.

Then, too, she has a mask which we'll tell you more about next week. It's a heavenly cream, redolent of strawberries, and a short session with it is guaranteed to make any poor working woman feel like an orchid. All of these products are in some Chicago shops. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Easter Parade Will Be Led by Navy Blue

Black to Rank Second in Review of Styles.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here's the color lineup for the Easter parade: Navy blue first place, with every possible color contrast imaginable in neckscarf, hat, gloves, or accessories. Printed dresses under navy blue coats show blue backgrounds with scarlet, or white or beige designs. Taffeta plaids and checks also swish around a lot of navy blue suits.

Some of the most unusual footwear is available in all shades of blue so that blue costumes can be smartly and correctly completed no matter what shade you decide to wear.

If black still holds your fashion interest, you'll no doubt be glad to know that this ever-smart black is second and in some French showings it came even before blue.

Black and white is classic but black with watery pink or blue is a new idea that will help you to be different. Try black with stripes and checks and breezy colorful plaids and black with pale tints of chartreuse green is absolutely fascinating. Black with silver gray is another combine that is hard to equal. With even a small amount of imagination, any energetic shopper can evolve a new and spicy contrast.

Honey beige comes in third, with all kinds of lovely slim suits, beautiful two and three piece costumes and coats hanging around all the best shops. Most of the new spring coats of this flattering shade are trimmed with rippling collars banded with fox fur in beige.

While you are shopping for the spring coat notice the striking new shades of dyes for fox fur. The furs will match navy blue, all shades of gray and brown, and the designers promise even greater variety of color later in the season.

Mrs. Roosevelt Buys Blue Ensembles for Her Easter Costumes

She arrived at the Pennsylvania station at 12:30 p. m. and took a taxi for the Fifth avenue shopping district. She returned to Washington on a 6:30 train.

She completed her Easter shopping in a Fifth avenue store. It was learned that the prevailing color of the Easter ensembles she will wear will be Eleanor blue. This is the same hue that she wore at the inaugural ball in Washington last year.

One of the ensembles was described as of navy blue pin-dotted wool, with a swagger coat edged with quilted scallops and lined with the same Eleanor blue crêpe as that of the silk blouse. The ensemble also includes a navy blue medium brim hat of fine baku, trimmed with an insert of belting ribbon of the same color and a handbag of woolen to match the suit.

The second ensembled is a light blue mossy crêpe, with feather print design of black, and a long yoked cape of black wool, lined with the same material as the dress. It also includes an underarm bag of initialed ringpig and a hat of black straw tricorn, with taffeta petals to match the dress.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THINKING over our recent holiday we find a pleasing pattern, a kind of symphonic theme in the manner in which summer finally bursts upon the visitor to the tropics. It begins, perhaps, with the yellow crocuses we saw blooming in a Tennessee dooryard from the windows of the southbound train. They were the first delicate promise of the summer to come, the prelude to the song of the tropics that in the lush green mountains and flowery valleys of Jamaica swelled into a diapason of summer.

Song of Summer.

AT St. Augustine, on the motor trip down the east coast of Florida, the southern theme began to be embroidered. The flaming hibiscus, the orange trees, the palmetto, and the open surreys with festive red ribbons tied to the Negro drivers' whips; the pelicans in Indian river, the palm trees, and the roadside trucks of oranges were part and parcel of the theme. And in Palm Beach such incidental phrases as dining under the trees at the Colony and lunching beside the blue pool at the Bath and Tennis club, with a heavenly view of the Atlantic beyond the beach cabanas, must be included. Miami was only a stopping point to catch the Havana airplane, with a half hour delay at the airport because Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was taking off for Porto Rico that morning and we saw her as, her arms filled with flowers, she chatted with the motorcycle escort that had been with the President on the occasion of the shooting that resulted in Mayor Cermak's death.

THE Cuban sunshine irradiated the great golden dome of the Capitolio at Havana, flecked the marble benches beneath the ceiba trees in the Prado and gilded the Malecon out which we drove along the sea to our hotel. Strangely enough, we found more summer at our hotel grounds than almost anywhere else in Cuba. The view from our windows looked across tiled roofs, mellowed into warm tints of orange and terra cotta, to the blue sea, but around the swimming pool there were royal palms and cocoanut palms and many tropical flowers with a view beyond the hedge of hibiscus of the blue Gulf of Mexico. We had orange juice and pan tostado and coffee in our bathing suits in the morning beside the pool, and only varied our lazy ways to motor out to the Havana Yacht club or the country club to which a kind friend had arranged for guest cards, or to go to Sloppy Joe's for a daiquiri cocktail and watch the crowds off the cruise boats.

IT IS a 7 hour flight from Havana to Kingston, Jamaica, with a 20 minute stop to refuel at Cienfuegos on the south shore of Cuba. The air clipper came down from the skies at the Kingston airport at 6 o'clock in the evening. Customs officials in sun helmets and white linen were waiting in the shed that serves as an airport customs house. . . . The city of Kingston had the effect of a series of water colors in the waning daylight. The pale cream stucco walls surmounted by iron grillings, the café au lait of the horses and mules going up and down the narrow streets, and the lavender and bright pink and yellow ruffled dresses of the native women all seemed to be done in wash colors. We turned into the graveled, hibiscus-hedged road leading to our hotel, and the two Jamaicans in spotless and starched white linen coats, standing sentinel-like at either side of the doorway, took our luggage. There was a pleasant clamor of English voices from the guests, drinking lime squashes and Scotch and soda on the wide verandas. The Jamaican Negroes, too, spoke the English of cultured folk, clear cut and with a broad "a," explainable, no doubt, by the fact that the planters who went out from England to start colonial plantations were men of breeding and education.

IN THE morning before departing for the motor trip to Montego Bay there was opportunity to look over the parklike grounds of the hotel and take a dip in the blue tiled pool down by the sea, surrounded by awninged chairs. The grounds were dotted with trellised arbors and little summer houses with—alas!—bridge tables inside. An old gardener worked in a garden where roses, geraniums, "painted lady" and English perennials were carefully tended, while bougainvillea, poinsettia grew luxuriantly all about. And in a nearby aviary brilliant Colombia macaws, troupials with their bright yellow bodies and shining black heads, green parrots and the dove gray Jamaican nightingales sang and chattered.

Good Morning!

Those two friendly enemies, McLaglen and Lowe, again occupy the spotlight in a boisterous farce comedy that still is much more refined than various of their preceding vehicles.

This time the boys are mighty deep sea divers employed in the business of salvage. Rival boats command their services for a time. Then the Pelican, subject to a last will and testament, becomes the property of a beauteous Miss Helen Young, who arrives bag and baggage to make the tub her home. . . .

Mr. Lowe, arriving to jeer over the Pelican's petticoat government, remains to vie with the Pelican's diver, McLaglen, for the new boss' favor. . . .

The lady does her best to make her two admirers equally happy—but when fire and kerosene meet, what chance has the innocent bystander?

The finale springs a surprise.

The naive, salty, primitive romancing of the husky marine Romeos is spiked with essence of melodrama and flavored with some exciting incident. Note fights atop a roller coaster and forty-six fathoms deep under the sea . . . !

McLaglen and Lowe honor this scenario with more thought acting than they usually bother about when turning out this sort of comedy. Alphonz Ethier as the Pelican's captain, and Minna Gombel as a waterfront blonde who ardently ropes her victims into taking out insurance are decided assets. Monsieur Ethier, you may recollect, makes one of the best of screen detectives. Poise and polish. We don't see nearly enough of him.

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge. Dinah can't be found. Tommy conducts a search for her and for facts to help clear her of suspicion. She paid a call on the Hubert Loughtons shortly past midnight, after leaving Dodo's party. She was in high spirits. Tommy calls on Christopher Loughton.

INSTALMENT XV.

A FRUITLESS SEARCH.

Tommy got what he wanted. The third secretary stiffened to rigidity and flushed a dull crimson under his fair, tanned skin. His hands clenched, and he rose, tall, very erect, and furious. His eyes, which were brown, in contrast to his pale, blond hair, flashed a glance in which fear fought with resentment.

"You'll have to explain that," Loughton muttered in a fierce tone. "In the first place, who are you? No—I remember. Your name is Rostetter. I suppose you're representing the press?"

"You suppose wrong. I was Miss Blake's partner at that dinner last night, and I'm out to find her before the police do. That's why I came to you."

"Why assume I know where Miss Blake is? I don't."

"At any rate, you have some information on the subject, and if you hold it back you're doing her irreparable harm. You must realize the construction that's being put on her continued absence, and that whatever her reasons for keeping hidden, she must come forward in her own interests."

The young attaché's face grew ashen, haggard. There were deep circles round the eyes, which Tommy interpreted as anxiety on his own account.

"If it's your own miserable reputation you're protecting," went on the accuser scathingly, "then let me tell you——"

"My interests? Good God!" the other burst out in an agony. "Haven't you the wit to grasp it's Dinah I'm thinking about? If I could explain what I saw, I wouldn't hesitate. It's the misinterpretation they'll put on it, the—the——" He checked himself, sweat breaking out on his forehead.

"Then you do know something about last night!" Tommy exclaimed in relief.

"Then you do know something about last night!" Tommy exclaimed in relief. "Never mind the interpretation—and I suppose I'd better apologize for the tone I adopted to get at the truth. Trust me, won't you? If you feel as I do about this business, why can't we tackle it together?"

In spite of the total change in Tommy's manner, it seemed doubtful if Loughton was going to speak. Face averted, he opened his lips twice before any sound emerged. At the third attempt he gave voice to a few disjointed statements.

"I ran into her—late last night. Purely by accident and—I lost her again. Where she went, I don't know. I wish to God I did!"

There was now not the slightest doubt as to his sincerity or the acuteness of his suffering. Oddly enough, he no longer seemed to Tommy a self-important prig, but a good looking, somewhat austere-featured young man who was intensely reserved and shy—probably the victim of strong repressions. If such a one fell from grace, he would fall hard, thinking which Tommy's heart perceptibly softened.

"Tell me the whole thing. When and where did this meeting take place?"

"It was about twenty minutes past 1 along the upper end of the Boulevard Raspail. I'd been for a long walk, and was on my way back. All at once I saw her, coming towards me, in an evening gown, with a little black wrap about her shoulders——"

"Was she coming slowly, or——?"

"Briskly—as though she were going to some definite place. I didn't stop to wonder what she was doing out in that direction. It was the first time I'd seen her for—weeks, and without thinking I caught hold of her arm and spoke her name. She didn't answer . . ."

"What—not a word?"

"No. She looked either at me or through me with a smile that was . . well, impish is the only way to describe it. I took it she didn't want to——" He paused, moistening his lips. "Then when I said something she pulled away, and as I caught at her again she ran like a hare, out into the middle of the street where there was a taxi-rank. When I followed she had completely disappeared."

"No, for I searched them all. The one driver on duty was dozing, so had noticed nothing. When I realized she must have darted across the street under cover of the rank, I spent an hour hunting up and down the whole neighborhood, then had to give up. I can't think who told you I had anything up my sleeve, but possibly you can appreciate why I held my tongue."

"It was your sister-in-law. But tell me this: What cross street lay nearest on the opposite side?"

"Has she any friends thereabouts?"

"Not one that I know of."

"Was she agitated in her manner?"

"On the contrary. I tell you she was happy—smiling, and now I think of it, humming to herself."

Tommy's eyes deepened with concentration. "Humming, was she? Did you recognize the tune?"

"As a matter of fact I did," Christopher admitted, surprised. "It was that blues they played so much about two years ago—"Miss Virginia" it's called. But what——?"

"Quick!" Tommy seized his arm. "I want you to come now and show me the spot where you lost her."

Meeting his glance, Christopher instantly opened a cupboard and took down his hat from a peg. As he did so the desk telephone rang.

It was the hall operator speaking. Tommy could catch every word: "Lady Joan Raefield, sir. Shall I put her through this time?"

"Tell her I've gone out," replied the attaché between set teeth.

The listener watched him closely. Joan Raefield, with beauty enough for two women and a quarter of a million in her own right, could have her pick of quite twenty eligibles. "This time" indicated that her choice had fallen on Christopher. That the latter was in vulgar phrase "not having any" scored a point in his favor and was, no doubt, a sore irritation to Mrs. Loughton's matchmaking designs.

They quitted the building and climbed into the two-seater. Both preserved a constrained silence till they had whizzed past the Concorde and reached the left bank. Then Tommy spoke.

"So you believe she recognized you?"

"I got that impression," admitted his companion uncertainly. "It happened so quickly, you know. She was there one second and gone the next."

"Forgive the question, but should you have expected her to cut you?"

"I can't say what I expected." The attaché paused painfully, and under his breath added: "If she did do it, she had a perfect right."

Courageous admission for one overweighted with pride. That Christopher Loughton's protective covering had even for one moment been ripped away argued great emotional stress. Tommy, never for long able to resist human suffering, had to tell himself sternly how just it was for this young man to shoulder some part of the penalty.

The Boulevard Raspail swept ahead, its broad expanse punctuated with grills beneath which the Metro thundered. Crossing the tramlines of Montparnasse, they sped past a few turnings. Then Christopher called, "Stop! It's here, on our left."

The narrow street into which they ventured was luridly entitled the Passage d'Enfers, and consisted of tiny villas, wedged like sardines. Each had its separate entrance and no concierge.

"I suppose we'd better do a house-to-house canvass," suggested Tommy, frowning at the bizarre row. "Shall we try?"

They encountered an odd assortment of persons, among them a bleareyed Irish sculptress who knew Dinah by sight, but had seen nothing of her recently, while the other inhabitants denied any knowledge of the girl. At two doors they hammered and rang without result. In short, it was rapidly borne in upon them that if Dinah sought cover in this street it was only to hurry through it to some farther destination.

They explored a wide area, meeting with no success. At last they sought a public telephone and rang up the flat in the Rue Val de Grace, but all they could learn from the frightened maid was that the police had been in twice to interrogate her, and that Mademoiselle Pemberton, having rushed back from Versailles, was out sending cables to America.

Doris Blake Answers

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl's mother say she ought to get a rich young man, and I make only $25 a week. The girl is willing to stick to me. Should I break off? BLACKIE."

The young lady is the one to make the decision, Blackie. She knows your circumstances and whether or not she will be content with them.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love runs around a lot with other fellows but, at the same time shows an interest in me. Shall I continue to go with her? M. I. R."

I should, if I were you, M. I. R. By being just a little more thoughtful and attentive than the others you will lessen competition.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Unmasked

Actor Attacks Privacy Vogue of Film Stars

Wheeler Says Notables Are Public Institutions.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—Although Bert Wheeler is noted as a movie comedian, he says: "I get serious thoughts every now and then, and one thing I have been thinking about is this superprivacy stuff some of the film stars are featuring themselves in.

"In my opinion, stars really belong to the public, like parks, monuments, and government buildings. Does that sound like a gag? If it does I'm sorry, because I'm not kidding. The more noted movie players have become institutions in American life, and if I walked up to an institution like a public library and it slammed its door in my face and stuck out its tongue at me I'd be mad. I believe the stars who indulge in the publicity dodging game and eternally complain about the crude, prying public do about the same thing.

"I think that to movie fans a movie star is like a swell watch, a good automobile, a marvelous scenic view; something they want to gaze at, find out more about, see what is inside them or behind them. Am I just giddy or does this make sense? I know a lot of high salaried people in pictures who entertain different ideas."

Mae West's doctor now forbids her to go through any noontime conferences with writers, directors, wardrobe designers, etc., leaving the billowy blonde practically isolated from routine studio contacts.

George Brent, who walked out at Warner's because he didn't like the rôle assigned him in "Mandalay," was suspended from the studio's salary roll, sued the studio and lost his suit, is now back at Warner's after five payless months behind him. He's on salary again and gets an assignment next week.

A special preview of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Viva Villa" showed a highly spectacular film with dash and vividness that delighted the audience but with historical exactitude so submerged for movie plot purposes that Mexican members of the audience shook their heads sadly. Nevertheless, due to performances by Wallace Beery as Villa; Leo Carrillo and Henry Walthall and a script packed full of excitement, the film looks as though it might become one of the box office bets of 1934.

Starlight.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Starlight," a block pieced of red, yellow, blue, and white, is a member of a large galaxy of well known star patterns. In connection with all "star" quilts worthy of notice it is interesting to see that geometric figures, such as diamonds, triangles, and squares, play a most prominent part. These are the simplest blocks, yet the most exacting and by far the most beautiful, to be made.

Sleeves of Spring Coats from Paris Done in Contrasting Fabrics and Hues

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The sober member of the spring ensemble this season is the dress. Coats are no longer serious, protecting garments, but frivolous, gay affairs that depart altogether from the traditional mode of the wrap. When the weather gets hot there will be coats, jackets, and capes made of such flimsy stuffs as nets and georgettes, and the coat for immediate wear uses a contrasting color and material on its sleeves. Vionnet started this no sleeve matching by putting black satin sleeves in a red wool coat, and the others have followed her lead.

The ensemble shown in our sketch follows the new rule of Paris styles for a dark dress and light coat and also the contrasting sleeve idea on the coat. It was designed by Robert Piguet, a talented young designer from one of the grand old houses of Paris. The coat is made of soft, light beige wool and is straight in line, without collar and without fastenings. The long straight sleeves are made of black satin and they are flanked with winglike draperies done with satin.

BY MARY MEADE.

Maybe you think you know the answer to the much raised question of "What's in an egg?" But don't be too sure until Easter is over! And if you're thinking in terms of protein and fat, sulphur and iron, you're in for a whale of a surprise! For this Easter, reports the bunny, instead of yolks and whites forever waltzing out of broken eggs, out, just as likely, will roll fat little teacakes or gelatin desserts!

The only requirement is that you first put them in! And if you're not up on just that sort of sleight of hand I'll draw you a picture. First:

EASTER EGG CAKES.

These are small numbers which the young set greets with great waving of forks if they're served up for dessert on Easter day. To make them wash large eggs and make a generous round hole in the rounded end of each shell, starting it with a large needle. Let the opening be about one-half inch across. Stir up the egg with the needle, then shake out the contents. Rinse and dry the shells, then oil lightly inside and out. Now, using a funnel of oiled paper, pour slowly into the egg shell any soft cake batter, filling it two-thirds full. Stand your filled egg shells upright in a small pan and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Let the Easter cakes cool for five minutes, then chip off the shells. Dip in frosting and dry. If time's not a big consideration and satisfaction is, then get busy with a pastry tube and do a bit of decorating with tinted frosting on these eggs before they go to the party.

But cakes aren't the only Easter foods to go egg minded. Any good corn starch pudding which turns out sufficiently stiff to mold will do right nicely inside an egg shell. Prepare the shells as we explained above, but instead of greasing let them stand full of water until ready to use. Then shake them out well and pour in the pudding, which should not be more than lukewarm. Stand them upright in a pan of salt or in an egg box and chill. Chip off the shell to serve. And here's a tip. If you wish, let these be small eggs. Allow three egg shells per serving (using the egg interiors for cakes, custards, etc.). Fill with chocolate pudding and chill. When the shells have been chipped away place three eggs in each dessert saucer and, with the help of a pastry tube, force sweetened whipped cream around them in a piled-up nest form. Great fun!

Or why not quivery and sparkling gelatin eggs? If it's for a dinner salad mold a tomato aspic within the shells, two eggs to a diner. Nest in a shredded lettuce bed and garnish with a dash of creamy mayonnaise.

Or for a last inspiration and a last course at dinner make up a recipe of flavored gelatin dessert—lemon, lemon-lime, raspberry, or you name it. Cool it to lukewarm and pour it into the egg shells. When firm chip off the shells as before, warming them slightly first if the gelatin seems a bit stubborn. Place one, two, or three in a sherbet glass, give it a nest with whipped cream, and slice over all a few English walnuts.

WEDDING

The wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Marjorie Starr Best, daughter of the A. Starr Bests, to Stuart C. Abbey, son of Mrs. Charles P. Abbey, was solemnized quietly at the home of the bride's parents on Hinman avenue in Evanston. Just the immediate families were present at the ceremony, which was read by the Rev. Hugh Elmer Brown of the Congregational church at 4:30 o'clock.

The wedding was as nearly all blue as it could be, for that is the favorite color of the bride. She herself wore a simple ankle length gown of aquamarine and carried white flowers and her only attendant, Miss Doris Sills, who is also on the staf at ~ryn Mawr, where the bride teaches geology, wore a similar gown in darker blue and carried blue hydrangeas. Mrs. Best was gowned in dark blue lace, and there were spring flowers everywhere in various shades of blue as well as blue candles before the improvised altar.

The bridegroom's mother wore a bei·e afternoon gown. Thorne Arthur of Evanston, who, like the bridegroom, is a young lawyer, stood up with Mr. Abbey. Mr. and Mrs. Abbey left immediately on a wedding trip and will be at home in Evanston on their return.

Milstein Again Proves Rank as Great Violinist

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"This is the last concert of the Tuesday series," said Conductor Stock at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, "so we will waive the rule against encores and ask Mr. Milstein to play a little Bach."

It was probably a wise decision, for Nathan Milstein had just finished playing the Glazounow Concerto and the audience showed no signs of letting the orchestra take up the final number, the Polka and Fugue from "Schwanda, the Bagpipe Player."

So Mr. Milstein came back to the front of the stage and lifted his bow again. The "little Bach" turned out to be an unaccompanied prelude and fugue, into which was packed more fire and excitement than there had been in any other unaccompanied violin performance within memory.

It is performances such as he gave yesterday and last week that are so firmly intrenching this artist in the front rank of violin soloists. He is one of the great ones. Technically he would be a marvel if there had not been so many other technical marvels in the last few years. At that, he is one of the best. But it is the impassioned sweep of his playing that carries his audiences along with him. He weaves excitement in with beautiful tone, and one's pulse beats faster at the hearing.

It was an afternoon full of thrills, anyway. Mr. Stock had conducted the Rachmaninoff Symphony in E minor in the first part of the program. There is considerable likelihood that this work wil divide first place with Franck's notable work as to being the most popular of all symphonies. It is certainly a magnificent piece of musical pageantry, as dramatic as a fine opera, and packed more tightly with good melody than most operas.

The lively, friendly "Russian and Ludmilla" overture by Glinka began the program. It was a fitting prelude for what followed.

The Stage

Mme. Maria Jeritza's engagement at the Grand Opera house in the new operetta, "Annina," which will begin Monday, April 9, is limited to two weeks. A tour has been arranged that will take this company to the Pacific coast.

The date of Manager Horace Sistare's establishment of a dramatic stock company in the Princess theater, announced for April 1, is now indefinite. "On or about April 8" is Sistare's intention, but negotiations with the stage hands' union have introduced an element of uncertainty into the plan.

"Big Hearted Herbert," a comedy now popular in New York, is scheduled for a Chicago engagement this spring. Eddie Dowling, its producer, is assembling a special company for this purpose. J. C. Nugent has the leading rôle in the New York cast. Anna Steese Richardson and Sophie Keer are the authors.

"Fortune Heights," a play by John Dos Passos, will be staged in the Chicago Woman's club theater next Friday night by the Workers' theater group. The performance will be repeted next Saturday afternoon and evening and next Sunday night. . . "The Father," one of Strindberg's major dramas, will be acted at International house on April 6 and 7 under the auspices of the Scandinavian club of the University of Chicago. Luther Greene, until recently manager of the Punch and Judy theater, will direct the production. C. C.

Latest Coiffure Modes Demand Exposure of the Nape of Neck

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

The one outstanding hairdressing rule of the moment is to show the nape of the neck. This means, of course, that the back of the head is the cynosure of eyes, that the back hairdressing must be just as lovely as the treatment of hair around the face and over brows. Also, it means that whatever curls your heart desires may be indulged in, so long as they rise above the nape, not on it or shoulder length.

You may pile curls tier upon tier right up to the crown in the back if you please. But in the smartest hair circles there is a design to this back head dressing. Not just thick "vegetable" rows of curls planted with painful regularity. There is a shape and line back there, or there must be, otherwise the head will look squarish and uninteresting. How much of this artistic arranging one can do for herself I don't know. If you are clever with your fingers you can do a good deal, but most women, I note, have to submit their tresses to professionals in order to get a smart back effect. If the simple hair arrangement in the back is chosen one can do a lot of personal managing. It's when you get into elaborate stuff that you get into deep water.

So my advice would be not to try for too ambitious a hair setting in the back unless one can get the best of professional services.

The Boy or Girl Who Refuses to Eat

"What have I ever done to deserve a child who refuses to eat, and is just skin and bones?" The mother who asks that question might be surprised to learn that she alone is to blame. She knows a lack of appetite is the sign of a clogged system, but does the wrong thing to remedy the condition. A violent cathartic that upsets the stomach pulls down a child like a spell of sickness. It often forms the laxative habit. A more sensible way of regulating children is explained in the column to the right:

It's a lucky girl whose mother knows how to regulate her children's bowels without some strong, evil-tasting cathartic that upsets the system and ruins their appetite! Whenever sluggishness coats the little tongue, makes the whites of the eyes a bilious yellow, or a child is headachy and fretful, just try pure California Syrup of Figs. The senna in this fruity laxative is so agreeable to take, so natural in action! Get real California Syrup of Figs at any drug store. The bottle should say 'California'.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

RAISING THE OPENER'S SUIT.

The minimum or single raise in the opener's suit, when the intervening adversary has passed, is a chance-giving bid which the opener must read as discouraging; if he still aspires to game after hearing it, he must then make a distinctly encouraging rebid, as the presumption is that the responding hand will only revert to the originally bid suit, thereby revealing nothing that had not already been shown by his first minimum raise.

When your partner bids one spade and you bid two spades, this is the positive information you are giving him:

1. I have four spades for you. If I have only three of them, they are headed by the ace or by two face cards, and I hold a fair hand.

2. My hand as a whole includes about a trick and a half in primary values; there is at least one clear primary trick, the half trick may be in secondary form. If I have a singleton I may have only one primary trick in the hand.

3. My distribution is not 4-3-3-3. My trumps can be used.

4. The safety of our combined hands is in a spade declaration.

The negative information conveyed is:

1. I have no suit in which to take out, otherwise I would bid it now and show my spade support later. Therefore, do not expect my hand to provide you with discards of your losers.

2. My hand does not justify a two no trump response.

3. I have told you that our safety is in spades; a contract of two spades should not be in doubt. If you rebid, that is an aggressive move and you must take the responsibility and guide the bidding. You can only expect me to take you back to spades in minimum terms whatever other bids you may make on this hand. I can see no future for the hand except in spades.

Here are some examples of minimum hands justifying the single raise; partner having bid on spade, respond with two spades on:

Sp. x x x x — Di. K x x
Hts. A x — Cl. x x x x

Sp. x x x x — Di. Q 10 x x
Hts. A x — Cl. J x x

Sp. K J x — Di. K x x x
Hts. K x x x — Cl. x x

Sp. A x x — Di. x x x x x
Hts. K x — Cl. x x x

Sp. x x x x — Di. K Q x
Hts. x — Cl. x x x x x

With Stronger Responding Hands.

The double raise—three spades over one spade—may not be used lightly, as you will understand from next week's articles. Consequently, you will at times have to bid two spades with a distinctly promising hand, such as—

Sp. x x x x — Di. A Q x
Hts. x x — Cl. K x x x

where the heart weakness rules out a two no trump response do not fear that a game will be lost because you did not make an unsound, gambling two no trump response. If your partner passes, you will generally find that there will be four tricks to lose or that you have to win two finesses to make four odd. But if he does rebid, do not leave him in doubt—take the bidding to four spades if he bids three in any suit but hearts, or if he bids two no trumps. If he bids three hearts I would advise three no trumps by you. You are likely to get a minor suit lead and gain a trick immediately This is, under these particular conditions, a stronger bid than four spades, and partner could try out spade slam prospects if he held—

Sp. A K J x x — Di. x x
Hts. A K x x — Cl. A x

or

Hts. A Q J x — Di. K x
Sp. A K Q x x — Cl. Q x

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Suppose you wanted to advise mothers of 5 year olds and you were a mother of a 5 year old yourself and besides had made an intensive study of 5 year olds under all conditions and understood the 5 year olds thoroughly —do you think you would be fitted for the job?

Or suppose the same were true of 8 year olds—do you think you would be able to advise?

My answer is that you would be only partly equipped unless you had older children—children in at least middle adolescence.

Do you know why I believe so? Because one needs knowledge of the whole range of childhood to advise wisely on one part of it. One needs perspective. If you're a mother it helps so much—and if you're an adviser it makes it possible for you to gauge when a mother needs to be told. "O, don't worry about that—he'll outgrow it," or when she needs to be warned, "Do something about that now—it's serious."

It's the former advice I want to talk about today.

There are some problems connected with your children that may worry you mightily and that you may strive and strive over without result.

Have faith and believe me when I tell you that the normal child, intelligently brought up and leading a wholesome life, will outgrow these things. Suddenly, without apparent cause, fear of the dark ceases. Aloneness is accepted with a relaxed pleasure. Responsibility develops. Parties are looked forward to. Maturity manifests itself. All this in due season.

Do your part you must. I don't believe in laissez faire. But then have faith.

A new, fully written leaflet called "The Five Year Old Turns a Corner," will be sent at your request on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bishop George Craig Stewart yesterday declared new righteousness codes are not needed today. The great lack, he explained, is that of spiritual energy for old fashioned righteousness. CHICAGO TEAM FIGHTS NEW YORK TONIGHT

Babe Herman Hits Home Run.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—The Cubs and White Sox added another chapter to their Chicago baseball story today, but not with happy results for the south siders. The Cubs, by virtue of a heavy blast against old Sam Jones in the first inning, assumed a lead that was never in danger, and eventually they polished off their nemesis by the score of 8 to 4. It made the Cubs' third straight victory over their home town rivals this spring, but the Sox still have a big edge because of a seven decisions out of eight with the National leaguers last year.

The frolic today might have been worthy of big league prices had Jones been something like a real pitcher in the first inning. After emerging from the shakeup with four runs against him, the old fellow worked two more innings on an allowance of two runs. Then Phil Gallivan, one of the Pale Hose pitching youths, was dragged forth and he stopped the Cubs in their tracks, barring a homer by Babe Herman and another run which was counted in the ninth on a couple of hits.

Bush's Road Bumpy.

Guy Bush, the workhorse of the Cub staf, used the White Sox as a vehicle in which to take his first nine inning journey of the year. The swarthy Mississippian didn't make the trip, however, without considerable annoyance. The Sox had one or more men on the bases in every inning except the last two. Bush's luck in escaping from a series of such tight spots is easily explained. He received dazzling support, especially from Bill Jurges, who on three occasions cut off what could have been base hits. Bush also was helped by the fact that he restricted noted Al Simmons to a scratch safety. Simmons failed three times with mates on the bases.

It may sound like a fairy story to persons who watched him last season, but lengthy Babe Herman actually was the big shot in the Cub attack. The Babe had a slice in each of the Cub scoring episodes. He came up with a single to account for half of the four runs scored in the first inning. He drew a pass that became a run in the third. In the fifth he hit a homer over the fence against Gallivan and later on singled to start the Cubs' final run of the party.

Bordagaray Rams Wall.

In addition to the defeat, the Sox were robbed of the services of Frenchy Bordagaray, the recent importation from the Sacramento club. The stocky rookie went tearing after a fly hit by Galan in the fourth inning and grabbed it just in front of the right field bleachers. As he captured the ball he toppled over and slid headlong into the concrete wall. The boys rushed out to put him together, but found he had suffered nothing worse than a skin scrape near the right temple. In true collegiate fashion, he protested against being removed, but Manager Lew Fonseca finally got him out of the game. Uhalt finished in center.

Jones fanned Galan to start the first inning, and the Cubs immediately unloaded a carload of trouble. Billy Herman singled to right. Cuyler's drive caromed off Jones' glove for a single, and a pass to Klein loaded the bases. Babe Herman aimed a single into right, scoring W. Herman and Cuyler, and planting Klein on third. Grimm did his bit by singling to left, Klein counting, and Babe Herman taking third. The Babe ran home on Jurges' force of Grimm. This would have developed into a double play if Hayes had not made a wild relay to Bonura.

Passes Help Cubs.

Jones' lack of control was the contributing factor in two runs scored by the Cubs in the third. Sad Sam apparently became overcautious with both Klein and Babe Herman. He walked the pair to open the inning. They advanced on Grimm's infield out and scored on Jurges' single to left. Jones then concluded his day's work by fanning Hartnett and getting Bush on a pop fly to Dykes.

The Sox made several threats

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 27.—The Chicago Blackhawks and the Montreal Maroons will continue the task of unraveling the enigma of the current Stanley Cup playoffs when they meet tomorrow night at the Forum in the first game of the semi-finals of the National Hocky league's world series.

The playoff games thus far have confounded the experts who watched the six teams competing through the duration of the regular schedule until they are now willing to tear up whatever handicapping sheets they might have compiled.

The Hawks and the Maroons are not the least of the reasons for the clockers' confusion, inasmuch as they either finished the season with startling results, as in the case of the Hawks, or outdid themselves in their opening Stanley cup engagements, as in the case of the Maroons.

Hard to Figure.

The Chicagoans, after a nearly profitless road tour, whipped the powerful Maple Leafs at Toronto and then brought them back to Chicago to close the season by repeating the punishment. The Maroons, on the other hand, battled the Rangers, present holders of the Stanley cup, to a 0 to 0 tie in the first game of their playoff series at Montreal, and then amazed the Rangers and several thousand New Yorkers by eliminating them Sunday night, 2 to 1.

The Hawks, winners of second place in the United States section of the league, were forced to open their series with the Canadiens at Montreal, but came off neatly with a 3 to 2 victory. The Frenchmen tied the score of the total goals for the two game series at Chicago Sunday night, but Mush March brought the Chicagoans victory with the winning goal after nearly eleven minutes of sudden death overtime play.

Teams Change Tactics.

All of the six teams which opened the playoffs—the Maple Leafs, Detroit Red Wings, Rangers, Hawks, Canadiens and Maroons—have contradicted their methods of the regular season in their Stanley cup competition to date.

The Red Wings, instead of using the tight tactics they had employed throughout the season, won their first two games against the Maple Leafs by adopting the Toronto team's rushing game. The Canadiens reversed their lines to such an extent that it was almost impossible to identify any of their regular forward lines. In their case, of course, injuries were somewhat responsible for the transformations, but the others have adopted the same system, with the possible exception of the Hawks, who have held more or less to their regular formations, although they, too, have reversed their style of play considerably.

The game between the Hawks and the Maroons tomorrow night is likely to become a matter of managerial strategy on the part of Tom Gorman of the Hawks and Eddie Gerard.

No Tip Off.

The record of the two teams in regular season games does not furnish the fans with any indication as to the possible outcome. The Hawks won the first game between the two at Chicago, 3 to 1; tied the Maroons at Montreal, 0 to 0; lost an overtime scoring spree here, 6 to 5; tied the Redshirts at Chicago, 2 to 2; whipped the Maroons at Chicago again, 4 to 2, and then succumbed here once more, 6 to 2.

The Hawks scored enough goals—seven—to win two ordinary games here, but could not match the Maroons' bombardment of 12 goals for the same two contests. Against the Gottselig-Couture-McFadyen and Romnes-March-Thompson lines, the Maroons will send one of the most valuable trios in the league in Jimmy Ward, Hooley Smith and Baldy Northcott. They have with them also one of the sensations of the year, Russ Blinco, who was under the wing of Lester Patrick of the Rangers until he farmed Blinco out to Windsor and forgot all about him until he turned up with the Maroons. Dave Kerr, the Maroons' erratic young goalie, who is playing brilliantly in the playoff series, is expected to match Chuck Gardiner

CHICAGOAN PUTS UP $27,000 FOR LOTTERY PRIZES

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 27.—Parke Mullinux, manager of the Panama Sweepstakes, had the $27,000 missing from the pool tonight, but refused to turn it over to Panama Jocky club officials, who were seeking a way to pay off holders of winning tickets in the lottery held Sunday on a $10,000 stake race.

Mullinux received the money by cable today from his Chicago partner, Loyal Sprague. He intimated he was seeking a better concession from the Jocky club before surrendering the money, which was to replace collections from 13,500 tickets Mullinux admits selling at $2 each. Mullinux claims the original collections were dissipated by commissions and operating expenses.

$12,500 Remains in Pool.

It was revealed tonight that only $12,500 remains in the pool to pay off $39,500 in prizes. John Stott, Canadian promoter and president of the sweepstakes company, who resigned his office today on a plea of ill health, said $41,000 was collected on the sale of tickets, exclusive of the $27,000 Mullinux has not turned in. Of this amount, $10,000 was awarded in purses for the race, $12,300 went to salesmen in commissions, and $6,200 covered general expense, including $4,000 in taxes to the Panama government.

Police rushed to the airport this morning on a tip that the sweepstakes officials were planning to flee the country. Shortly thereafter Mullinux is said to have received the money by cable with a message from Sprague urging him to settle. The government was ready tonight to enforce its agreement with the jocky club in which the club promised to make good payment of all prizes, under bond of $7,000 and a $25,000 mortgage on its racing plant.

Chicagoans Hold Tickets.

The 13,500 counterfoils of tickets sold by Mullinux in the United States were taken to Barranquilla, Colombia, and Jocky club officials sent a plane there to bring them to Panama City where they were put in the drawing although no money had been placed in the pool for them. Most of the winning tickets were held in the United States, two by Chicagoans.

POLICY [illegible]ME OPERATOR.

Loyal Sprague, reported in a dispatch from Panama City as the partner of Parke Mullinux in the Panama sweepstakes venture, is known among Chicago gamblers as the operator of a policy game in the Negro district of the south side. He was said by acquaintances to have acted as one

Matsuyama Beats Cochran, 400-108; Makes Run of 140

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Kinrey Matsuyama, the only one of the five contestants in the world's 18.2 balkline tournament, now in progress at the 131 South Wabash avenue Recreation room, never to have won an international title, let it be known last night that he will not be a sparring partner for his other four competitors. After having been decisively outpointed by Willie Hoppe in the opening game of the show Monday night, he hauled off last night with a barrage of plain and fancy billiards which ultimately upset Welker Cochran of San Francisco, an old hand at balkline, 400 to 108, in 18 innings.

The little Japanese may not carry with him any world crowns, but he brought along with him the United States three cushion championship, which he won recently, and last night extracted from his repertoire in that pastime a collection of shots which enabled him to mobilize the balls in the third inning for a run of 140, the high chain of the tournament thus far.

Hagenlacher Beats Morningstar.

In the afternoon game between Eric Hagenlacher of Germany and Ora C. Morningstar, the 60 year old veteran from San Diego, Cal., the former had little difficulty in running off with a 400 to 51 victory in thirteen innings. Morningstar will meet Cochran at 3 o'clock this afternoon, while Hoppe and Hagenlacher duel at 8 p. m. The tournament will run through April 6, with no matches being scheduled for Sunday.

Cochran won the bank last night, and went ahead in his half of the third inning, 12 to 1. It was then that Matsuyama went to work to take advantage of Welker's unsteady play. He assembled the balls largely in the lower left hand corner. Whenever they got out of control he sprinkled his play with three and four cushion shots which usually brought the two object balls within inches of each other for another nursing spree

Cochran, who has been running 200 and better in workouts for the tournament, didn't get going until the seventh inning, where he brought down a 36, which proved to be his best of the match. The Japanese star responded to this with a 65 in his portion of the seventh to go ahead, 277 to 69.

Runs 59 in Sixteenth.

Welker didn't collect more than six points until the fifteenth, where he scored 18 points. By that time Matsuyama had run up 315 points. It appeared that Kinrey would run the evening out in the sixteenth, where he scored 59. The run ended when his 60th stroke sent the cue ball completely around the red object ball, which was within inches of the lefthead corner. Cochran gleaned only four in the seventeenth, when the cue ball bounced off the red, which was tucked into a corner. Matsuyama failed to count in the seventeenth, but put an end to the business in the eighteenth with a 26, after Cochran got only three in his half of the frame.

Score by innings:

ROSS DEFEATS PACHO BEFORE 6,000 ON COAST

MOVIE CONTRACT RUMOR DENIED BY MISS HENIE

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Miss Sonja Henie of Norway, today spiked reports that she had accepted a motion picture contract and again denied that she was contemplating marriage.

Miss Henie will leave New York Saturday to appear in a carnival at Montreal on Monday. She intends to skate at Chicago and Minneapolis before returning to Norway at the end of next month.

Although Miss Henie is the prémier figure skater in the women's ranks today, she believes she can still further improve the spins and jumps that mark her program. With this idea in mind she is going to take back to Norway with her a pair of American skates that are lower than the ones she is using at present.

FLORIDA RACING BOARD BARS FOUR IN MUTUEL FRAUD

Miami, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Four men, including the former superintendent of the mutuel room at Tropical Park, were permanently barred from all Florida tracks as the Florida racing commission tonight closed a two day secret hearing of the details of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the horse race betting public of thousands of dollars.

The commission, in a statement given out by its secretary, Walter Donovan, exonerated officers and directors of the Gables Racing association, operators of the track, of "knowledge of, or participating in, any irregularities in connection with the charges."

Ex-Mutuels Manager Barred.

Those banned from Florida tracks were James J. Walsh, a Canadian, who was removed as mutuels manager last Thursday after a preliminary presentation of the charges to the track operators by the commission; George O. Fox, take-off man and sheet writer; Artie Bieler, an outside racing commissioner, and Leslie Britcher, who was in charge of the ticket room.

The alleged manipulation was through the switching of mutuel play sheets and the alleged operation of a "numbers" game. It was testified that one of the commission's auditors, H. H. Chilson, had, with the full knowledge of his superiors, gained the confidence of the plotters and disclosed the scheme.

The "sheet switching" scheme called for a transfer of the takeoff sheets at the mezzanine window—where Fox was stationed—so that the substituted tally of tickets sold on the race showed a large number more had been issued on the winning horse than were actually sold.

Pool Total Remains Same.

The surplus of tickets was made up by reducing the reported number of tickets issued on the losing horses. While this plan shortened the odds and the price paid on the winning horse, the pool total remained the same and the auditor checking only on the total number of tickets would pass the faked sheet. The tickets obtained by the confederates by this plan would be cashed by others to avoid suspicion.

The "numbers" plan was based on the lottery in which the payoff is made on the figures obtained after a computation of the prices paid on $2 tickets for win, place, and show horses in two or more selected races, Donovan said.

GOLDEN GLOVES' SEVENTH ANNUAL INTERCITY DUEL

It's Problem to Pick Best 32 Boxers.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The world's greatest boxing tournament reaches a climax in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when the warriors of Chicago and New York, chosen from a field of 14,000 boys, come to blows in the seventh annual intercity Golden Gloves contest.

In 1928 the nation's two largest cities fought to a draw in Chicago's Coliseum. Since then Chicago has been victorious on three occasions, while New York has won twice.

However, the home team never has been defeated, and if for no other reason the New Yorkers must be made the favorites to win this 1934 renewal. Leaders of the New York forces make no secret of the fact they expect to overwhelm the plucky band of Chicagoans.

No Chicago Predictions.

Spokesmen for the Chicago team will make no such rash predictions. They realize they are here minus the services of six Chicagoland champions who hail from Detroit and Cleveland and who are not eligible to compete against New York this year. They also know that the last time Chicago invaded New York the Chicagoans were whipped 12 to 4.

But ask any of the Chicago officials and they will tell you the 1934 Chicago team is immeasurably stronger than the 1932 outfit. They also will inform you that it includes as many real stars as any Chicago team that has fought New York.

The New York Golden Gloves public evidently believes it will be a highly interesting evening's entertainment. Madison Square Garden has been sold out for almost a week. The crowd, which will include most of New York's notables, will number slightly more than 19,000. The gate receipts will total something like $43,000.

Some of the tickets have landed in the hands of the scalpers who were selling the $3.30 variety to eager and frantic customers tonight for $11. They demanded $7 for a $2 seat and $5 for a $1 admission ticket.

The members of the rival boxing squads were allowed to take things easy today. The athletes were honed to a point where they appeared to be ready for the fight of their lives.

It wasn't such an easy day, however, for the officials of the two teams which represent THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News. They were confronted with the task of picking the 16 boys who will represent each city. Each squad numbers more than 30 and in the final drills the boys in all divisions have fought so desperately for the right to perform before the Garden crowd that the coaches hardly know which way to turn.

Early tonight it appeared that the pairings for the 16 bouts will be as follows:

CHICAGO.	NEW YORK.
FLYWEIGHT.
Johnny Brown	Richard Librandi
BANTAMWEIGHTS.
Tommy Barry	Dave Crawford
Roy Harris	Armino Rodia
FEATHERWEIGHTS.
Andy Scrivani	Louie Campa
Izzy Goldstein	Frank Romano
LIGHTWEIGHTS.
Phil Kenneally	Frank Williams
Aaron Wade	Pat Robinson
WELTERWEIGHTS.

Fred Caserio	Gus Lesnervich
LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS.
Ario Soldati	Phil Sommese
Tony Zale	Mello Bettina
HEAVYWEIGHTS.
Otis Thomas	Bob Pastor
Max Marek	Paul Pross

With their training at an end, the Chicago boys were not allowed to grow restless tonight. Soon after the dinner hour they were hustled away to Radio City for a movie show. They were back in bed at 10 o'clock.

Weigh in Today.

There will be some light road work for several members of the squad tomorrow morning. Both teams are to weigh in at the New York Daily News building at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

For the Chicagoans a big, hearty meal will be awaiting them after they step off the scales. They will journey to the Garden about 45 minutes before the first boys are to enter the ring at 8:30 o'clock.

Junior Title Would Be at Stake.

Barney Ross may defend his junior welterweight boxing championship against Dominick Manceni of Pittsburgh, Pa., at Louisville, Ky., Derby eve, May 4. Ross is to leave Los Angeles today after engaging in a series of battles in California the last few weeks. He is due to arrive at the La Salle street station Saturday morning for a short rest prior to going to Fort Worth, Tex., for a 140 pound title engagement against Tony Herrera on April 20.

Mique Malloy, Arcadia Gardens boxing promoter, is considering a transfer of the return tussle between Karl Ogren and Solly Dukelsky, 160 pounders, set for April 6, to White City and move up the date to next Wednesday. . . . The Central A. A. U. has sanctioned an amateur card of the bouts at Congressional hall, 3140 Indiana avenue, tomorrow. . . . The next boxing card at Louisville is set for April 6. . . . The amateur show scheduled for Friday at 24th Ward club has been canceled. . . . Harry Dublinsky goes to Philadelphia Saturday for a match with Harry Carleton Monday.

Thirteen matches are scheduled. Red McEntigert of St. Philip is to clash with Ennio Arboit at 165 pounds. Angelo Di Benedetto meets Jack Hughes of Joliet. They are bantamweights.

GREEK QUINTETS TO HOLD BASKET TOURNEY SUNDAY

Ten Chicago Greek teams, representing every section of the city, will clash Sunday at Loyola university gymnasium in the fourth annual Hellenic Invitational Basketball tournament. Quintets from Milwaukee, Wis., South Bend and Gary, Ind., and Rockford have also entered the competition.

The greatest sectional representation in Chicago will be from the west side where Apollo of G. A. P. A., Sigma Epsilon Phi, Pindaros, Pindaros Cubs, and St. Demetre have entered teams. St. Andrews, Lambda Delta, and Lord Byron will be the north side entries while the south side quintets are Ypsilanti of the Sons of Pericles and Ahepa. The Sons of Plato, an Oak Park team, has also entered the tournament.

The tournament which rates Greek basketball teams in the central states was won last year by the Centaurs after a close battle with Ypsilanti. The defending champions have disbanded, and followers of Greek basketball look to the Ypsilanti five to win the tournament this year. St. Andrews, third place winner last year, is another Chicago team expected to make a strong bid for the title Sunday.

Baer's Manager, Trainer Clash Over Max's Work

Lake Tahoe, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Dissension broke out in Max Baer's training camp today as the big Californian went through his second day of roughing it in the mountain country in preparation for his bout with Primo Carnera on June 14.

Hoffman told Cantwell he though he was allowing Baer too much rein. Cantwell disagreed and the pair put on early morning row that provided the liveliest part of the day's program.

Bass Fisher Nets 35,000 in 24 Years

BY BOB BECKER.

Who is the champion black bass fisherman in the United States? Is winning that title based upon the number a fellow can catch per hour or the number caught over a period of years?

These questions were tossed on our desk last week, when Fort Worth, Texas, made modest [?] claim that it has the champion black bass fisherman of the world. The claim is based on the fact that since 1910 a man has caught 35,000 bass. [Whether or not he threw back most of them we do not know. But we would like some figures on that point, the most important angle of the whole story.]

Probably the most interesting points about this Texas fisherman's claim are the methods and lures he uses to foil the fish.

First, this Texas expert says he has spent a lot of his time figuring which was the more efficient—the bait casting rod or the fly casting rod. After using each exclusively for a period of three years he arrived at the conclusion that they are about equal in fish getting quantities. He adds that a fisherman should know both methods of fishing and have both fly and bait rods with him at all times.

On that point we agree, because we have insisted for years that no fisherman can get the most out of his sport until he knows and uses both fly and bait rods. As a matter of fact, a fisherman doesn't really know the maximum of fun in fishing until he totes both short and long rods on trips and uses them alternately when water conditions and weather demand.

7th Intercity Golden Glove Bouts Tonight

Chief judge—William Kenney, Boston.
Judges—L. M. Bloom, Cleveland; O. R. Benjamin, Detroit; Dr. J. A. Riley, Kansas City; Frank Percival, Philadelphia, and Francis J. Flynn, Baltimore.

The officials will meet with the coaches of the two teams at noon tomorrow for a final discussion of the rules which are to govern the bouts.

Graves Unable to Fight.

The only injured member of the Chicago team is Keith Graves. His shoulder was so sore today as a result of a pulled tendon that Coach Johnny Behr and the team's physician, Dr. William Rothman, would not listen to his pleas to be allowed to fight Joe Ferrone, the New York 147 pound champion.

Instead Fred Tyus, who like Graves hails from Peoria, Ill., will fill the engagement against Ferrone. Bob La Monte, the Catholic Youth organization 147 pound champion, will face Andre Jessurum, the New York runner up.

LAMBERT WILL OPPOSE RULE CHANGES AT MEET

Lafayette, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—Ward Lambert, coach of Purdues' Big Ten basketball champions, left today for Atlanta, Ga., to attend the meeting of the National Basketball Coaches' association Friday and Saturday. Lambert has been named one of the association's representatives on the rules committee.

Lambert said he doubted whether any of the rules changes proposed would be enacted. He declared that personally he did not favor either raising the baskets or increasing the value of the field goal.

No Heat, No Ring, No Lights—So No Wrestling Show

The professional wrestling show, scheduled at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway, last night was canceled yesterday afternoon by Promoter John Krone when he found there would be no heat or lights, and no ring setup. The promoter said this constituted a violation of an injunction issued by Judge William J. Lindsay on March 20 against the lessee of the building, the Uptown Amusement corporation, restraining it from interfering with the operation of the show and that he would press contempt of court charges.

When Krone found that there was no electrician present to operate the lights and that the seats and ring had not been erected at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon he attempted unsuccessfully to reach Thomas J. Shaughnessy, president of the corporation, and other officials. The custodian, C. C. Conway, was the only one present.

The corporation contended that Krone's lease was illegal because it had not been ratified by the board of directors.

Minnesota, Wisconsin Join on Fish Laws

St. Paul, Minn., March 27.—(AP)—Tentative fishing regulations governing the waters of the Mississippi where it borders upon Wisconsin and Minnesota were agreed upon today by conservation officials of the two states.

The conservation commissions of the two states will meet at La Crosse, Wis., in April or May to draw up final regulations.

Heading the Wisconsin group was Ralph Immel of Madison, Wisconsin adjutant general and acting director of conservation. Others present were L. M. Hobbins of Madison, member of the Wisconsin commission; H. W. McKenzie of Madison, superintendent of conservation enforcement, and C. F. Cullar of La Crosse, chief of the federal bureau of fisheries in charge of the entire upper Mississippi valley area.

Foley Presides at Meeting.

One of the important actions of the conference was the agreement to prohibit all spearing of game fish on the Mississippi where it borders Minnesota and Wisconsin.

It was tentatively agreed by the officials of the two states that up to five lines would be permitted to be used in the river for fishing, although the Minnesota state law permits only one line.

List Proposed Regulations.

Under a legislative law the commission is granted power to make uniform regulations as needed on bordering waters. The tentative regulations drawn up, subject to final approval, included the following seasons and bag limits:

Large and small mouth bass—June 20 to next succeeding Dec. 1; six each day, ten inches long.
White bass—June 20 to next succeeding Dec. 1; six each day, seven inches long.
Croppies—June 20 to next succeeding Dec. 1; fifteen each day, seven inches long.
Sunfish and rock bass—June 20 to next succeeding Dec. 1; twenty-five of either kind per day, five inches long.
Pike—May 15 to next succeeding Feb. 1; eight each day, thirteen inches long.
Pickerel—May 15 to next succeeding Feb. 1; ten each day, sixteen inches long.
Perch—May 15 to next succeeding Feb. 1; no bag limit, no size limit.
Sturgeon—All forms of sturgeon fishing prohibited.

The regulations will apply only to the Mississippi river from the southern border of Minnesota to where the river leaves the Wisconsin-Minnesota border at Prescott.

Regulations will be drawn later covering fishing in the St. Croix river.

Son of Secretary Ickes Wins College Mat Title

Chicagoans Get Places Among A.B.C. Leaders

Peoria, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—Pete Butler of Chicago, who captured the two-man event championship, paired with Bill Klecz, at Chicago's last tournament in 1929, took fourth place in the all-events division of the American Bowling congress tournament late today with a count of 1,905. Butler contributed a total of 677 while the Rome Motor Sales team was ascending to third place in the five man event last night and added a 599 doubles count and 639 singles today.

Fred Fillies and Harry Suralski, Chicago, moved into fourth place in the doubles event with a total of 1,262. The Chicagoans both rolled the same totals, 631. F. Baranski and W. Flesch, Des Plaines, took sixth berth in the doubles on a 1,252 total.

Scoring games of 964, 948, and 1,003, Parkview Gambrinus No. 1, Chicago, soared into sixth place in the five men event on the late night shift with a total of 2,915.

Sig Hansen, teammate of Butler, scored 674 to top the singles rolling on the matinée card, just missing a berth among the high ten leaders. Hansen connected with games of 201, 247, 226.

As a manufacturer and a cigar smoker I know that:

All the king's horses and all the king's men can't put cigar QUALITY together for less than 10c

Quality is the root of all real enjoyment in a cigar. There is no substitute! To slight a single step in the manufacture of a cigar is as disastrous as omitting the keystone from a bridge.

Without quality in the tobaccos, in the blending and in the making there is no real enjoyment. El Producto has held its high place by placing quality above all else. The sparkle of the finest Havana combines with marvelous mildness in the exclusive, uncopyable El Producto blend.

Magnificent workmanship rolls a cigar that has no equal in holding its fire and burning evenly. Smoke El Producto! Real enjoyment awaits you. Many shapes and sizes, 10c to 25c.

PIRATES WIN, 8-6.

Riverside, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Old John Picus Quinn, hero of many a major league diamond battle, faltered badly in the ninth inning today while hurling for the Hollywood Sheiks and the Pittsburgh Pirates scored five runs to win the exhibition game, 8 to 6.

Pecking away freely at the offerings of Larry French in the early frames, the Sheiks had a 6-4 lead starting the final frame. A couple of hits, a base on balls, Thevenow's pinch double driving in two runs to tie the score and Jenson's single sending across two more, turned the tables suddenly.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Clarence Pickrel, young right hander, blanked the New York Yankees with only five hits today as the Boston Braves slugged out a 6 to 0 decision. The shutout was the first for the Yanks since Lefty Grove kept them from crossing the plate last Aug. 18.

Working the entire game, Pickrel fanned five Yankees and gave only two bases on balls. Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Ben Chapman, Tony Lazzeri, and Red Rolfe were the only Yanks to connect safely, each getting a single.

New Orleans, La., March 27.—(AP)—The Senators got off to a three run lead in the first game of their series with the Cleveland Indians here today, but there their scoring stopped. Lee and Hudlin blanked the league champions for the remainder of the game, which Cleveland won, 5 to 3.

Hal Trosky, first base rookie, got two hits and knocked in three runs for Cleveland. Eddie Moore, ex-major leaguer, was borrowed from New Orleans to play second for the tribe, and the word went around that Manager Walter Johnson might buy him. Score:

against Bush in the first three innings, but had to wait until the fourth to experience the thrill of breaking into the run column, when they picked up a pair on two passes and two hits. Pasek singled to deep short with one out, and Gallivan, successor to Jones, walked. Swanson slammed a hit into center to score Pasek and send Gallivan to third. Bush then threw a wild pitch past Hartnett and Gallivan counted. Uhalt flied to center, Bonura walked, and the inning ended with Simmons grounding to Galan.

Simmons Looks at Strike.

Some of the Sox had a bit of fun with Bush in the sixth, one scoring. Al Simmons was not in on this sport. After two were out, Uhalt drilled a two bagger along the right field line. After a wild pitch had moved Uhalt to third, Bonura slammed one of similar length along the left field line and Uhalt scored. Simmons permitted a third strike to float past to end the inning. The Sox registered again in the seventh on a double by Appling and single by Dykes.

Babe Herman waited until the ninth to stage his fourth journey of the day around the bases. He bounced a single past Bonura and scored when Grimm doubled against the right field screen. Jurges closed the inning with a grounder into Bonura's hands. The Sox went through their half of the ninth without a hit.

The last of the Pacific coast portion of their spring duels between the Sox and Cubs will be staged tomorrow. Dick Ward, the ex-Angel, will pitch for the Cubs and stay in there as long as he proves able to take care of himself. Fonseca, the Sox boss, is so sorely pressed for pitching talent that he does not know who will start, but he'll probably take a chance on Whitlow Wyatt, whom the Cubs regard as a tough nut when he has control.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 27.

Friend Stewart: Well, Stewart, since Arch is in New York for the Golden Gloves intercity bouts I thought I better tell you where I am and why I'm in Savannah on my way back to Fort Lauderdale instead of on my return journey to Chicago.

Directly and indirectly it all simmers down to my expense account. In the first place all my receipts for money spent in covering the Carnera-Loughran fight, including rental of car for 10 days and expenses at Hialeah, are back in Florida. And you know what a fat chance I'd have of ever getting an expense account through the auditing department without those receipts.

But even if Arch could get it through somehow there are other complications. My wallet is pretty thin, due to circumstances over which I have no control, principally greyhounds and thoroughbreds, including Somebody in the Florida Derby, and he turned out to be nobody. So after paying my hotel bill at the Bonair-Vanderbilt during the Augusta National Golf club invitation tourney, I frisked myself and found I had enough jingle to take me back to Florida. On the other hand if I went north the cash would take me only as far as Evansville, Ind., with allowance for moderate food nourishment en route.

So what to do? When I started my two weeks' vacation about Feb. 1 I properly was on my own time, so I purchased a round trip ticket to Florida in order to be reasonably sure of getting back, having had previous experience with financial vicissitudes in the sunny south. Well, that was fine. Then came work for Arch at the fight, Derby, and finally Augusta until I hardly knew when I was on office time and when on my own time.

Now, supposing I had gone to Evansville, Ind., which was as far as my available cash would take me, would I have been on my own time or office time? If the former I'd have had to wait there until Dorothy Stone mailed my April 1 pay check, a wait of four or five days. If on office time I'd need an advance order on the cashier from Arch and he's in New York, so it would have meant four or five days anyway. And I leave it to you, Stewart, who would want to be in Evansville, Ind., without money for four or five days on any one's time?

So don't you think I did the right thing? I hope Arch will think so, too, because I want him to appreciate how hard I've worked for him this winter and really I do need a little rest after tramping over that rolling course at Augusta. You might think from the stories that I was only at the 9th, 18th and 19th holes, but that isn't so.

I really moved over the links to get those vivid descriptions until my dogs fretted something terrible. Why, every night I had to pay the valet to clean my white shoes and I can't put that on expense account either because the auditing department would say: "You wear shoes when you're not on office time, don't you?" and there's no answer to that. Laundry, however, wasn't as high as if I'd taken along boiled or soft silk shirts and a dinner coat which the guests wore evenings. Arch didn't tell me it was that kind of a hotel. Well, newspaper men and golf pros didn't wear dinner coats, at least most of them didn't, so I got along all right, although at times one felt a bit humiliated.

I don't know just how long I'll be at Fort Lauderdale. While my return ticket is O. K., one can't tell what bills the family has incurred while I've been away. But soon as I can get my financial problems straightened out satisfactorily will be hurrying home because I want to get rested up after all the hard work down here before talking to Arch about going to the Kentucky Derby, May 5. Hope everything is going fine and that we take those New Yorkers in the Golden Gloves. Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

WINGS PLAY LEAFS

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—(AP)—Needing one more victory to win the National Hocky league championship and a berth in the Stanley cup finals, Detroit's Red Wings tonight were confident they will beat the Toronto Maple Leafs tomorrow night when the teams meet in the fourth game of their title series.

The Leafs, minus their star defense man, King Clancy, fought furiously for a 3 to 1 victory Monday to remain in the playoffs after dropping two straight games at Toronto, and are just as determined to win tomorrow to put them on even terms with the United States division champions.

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit had no alibis for what he termed a "temporary setback," but said his squad, hit by the injury jinx during the Toronto games, would be gambling everything for a victory which would mean Detroit's first undisputed league championship.

Meanwhile, Detroit hocky enthusiasts formed long lines at Olympia in efforts to get tickets, and another capacity house is assured for the contest. During one of the heaviest storms in years Monday night and early today, more than 100 fans stood in line 11 hours to be certain of seeing the game which may end the series.

Irwin Howe Dies After Long Illness

Irwin M. Howe, veteran baseball statistician, who designed the box score blank now in use universally, died late Monday night at the Michael Reese hospital after an illness of three months. He was stricken last December with a kidney ailment and two operations were performed. He appeared on the road to recovery when pneumonia developed.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Howe home, 4704 Main street, Downers Grove, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Butterfield Park. In addition to his widow, two daughters, Alice and Margaret, and a son, Fred, survive.

Howe was born on a farm in southern Minnesota on June 21, 1866. His family later moved to the western part of the state, and at the age of 22 Howe departed for Chicago to enter the printing business. He remained in the printing business for 20 years, but drifted into baseball, and began distributing baseball records to newspapers throughout the country.

He soon became official American league statistician. His averages began to appear in newspapers, and he established offices in the Ashland Block building at Clark and Randolph streets. With the aid of several assistants he specialized in supplying baseball figures weekly to newspapers particularly in the central states and southwest.

Howe served as secretary of the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America for several years.

Expect Record Crowd for Hawk, Maroon Final

Another capacity crowd for the second game of the semi-final Stanley cup series between the Blackhawks and the Montreal Maroons at the Chicago Stadium Sunday night was indicated yesterday, with a majority of the high priced seats already sold. The crowd is likely to exceed the 17,600 who set a season record last Sunday, when the Hawks defeated the Canadiens in the first round final. Tickets were placed on sale at the Stadium following that game, with more than $5,400 worth being purchased.

LONDON, March 27.—The British government proposes to clamp down a ban of silence in England on all foreign lotteries.

Drastic alterations in the present law are proposed in the government's betting and lotteries bill, the text of which was issued tonight. Large scale lotteries have not been permitted in Great Britain, and dealings in foreign sweepstakes still are illegal.

Not only the sale and distribution of tickets, but also any printed reference to the existence of sweepstakes, an announcement of a draw taking place, or the publication of lists of prize winners would become a criminal offense.

The government's chief aim is to prevent a widespread trafic in Irish sweepstake tickets, millions of dollars of which invariably are held in Great Britain. It is believed here that the ban might mean the end of the Irish sweepstakes within a limited period of years.

The bill further proposes that greyhound racing, which has become popular in England, be placed under the control of local authorities and that the use of pari-mutuels on dog tracks should be legalized. It limits betting on any sporting tracks to 104 days yearly.

NEW YORK TURF MEN PLEAD FOR PARI-MUTUELS

Claim Fate of Industry Depends on Law.

Albany, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—Racing leaders told the legislature today that racing in New York state, home of seven tracks, will "languish and die" unless betting is legalized.

Their appeal for abandonment of the state's 28 year old anti-betting laws produced a blunt retort from the Rev. O. R. Miller, superintendent of the New York State Civic league.

Industry at Stake.

A legislative hearing was held on three major racing measures: The Dunnigan bill to divide control of racing between the jocky club and a new racing commission; the Crawford-Breitenbach bill, to repeal the Hughes anti-betting laws of 1906, and the Twomey resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting.

"Unless something is done immediately about betting, the sport will languish and die," declared Robert Cumming, spokesman for the jocky club. "A great industry will be destroyed."

Favors Three Bills.

Cumming said he favored the three bills as designed to maintain "a high standard of racing."

Spokesmen for harness and trotting racing interests asked to have the proposed new commission's jurisdiction extended to cover these sports. The Saratosa Springs Chamber of Commerce and various Long Iland groups presented petitions for legalized betting.

DRAW UP SCHEDULE.

Although the dates were not announced it was believed the season would open either April 21 or 23 at Jamaica and run until Nov. 1 at Empire City, giving the state a full schedule of racing at Jamaica, Belmont Park, Aqueduct, Empire City, and Saratoga.

The meeting, called by Joseph E. Widener, vice chairman of the Jocky club, followed yesterday's unexpected developments when the Jocky club effected a compromise with Senator John J. Dunnigan by which the former will retain most of its present powers if the bill sponsored by Dunnigan is passed by the legislature.

Black Target Wins Miami Feature Race

Miami, Fla., March 27.—[Special.]—After a long rest Black Target, one of the few horses in the stable owned by Albert Abel, returned to the track this afternoon and triumphed in the fourth race, feature of the day's program at Tropical Park. It was Black Target's first start since he left Hialeah Park Feb. 15.

Abel, who owns, trains and rides the horses in his stable, shot Black Target into the lead in the final stages of the race and won by two lengths from Trafic Judge. Style Corner finished third. Black Target covered the six furlongs in 1:11 and paid $7.70 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Abel, who recently won a race astride his horse, Tremolo, once rode for H. P. Whitney. He rushed Black Target into the lead at the break, but Style Corner went to the front. At the far turn Abel sent Black Target into a long lead and won easily.

CEYLON WINS FEATURE.

Houston, Tex., March 27.—[Special.]—Ceylon, owned by L. M. Pike, won the mile feature race at the Epsom Downs course today. The 3 year old colt closed rapidly in the stretch to win by a half length from Forceful. Fast Move, the favorite, finished third. Ceylon ran the eight furlongs in 1:42 2-5 over a slow track. He paid $13.30.

5 N. U. SWIMMERS LEAVE TONIGHT FOR OHIO STATE

Five Northwestern university swimmers will leave tonight for Columbus, O., where they will compete in the national intercollegiate swimming events to be held in the Ohio State pool Friday and Saturday.

The Wildcat swimmers who will defend their national title won at Yale last spring are Art Highland and Bill Rollinger, free style; Don Horne, breast stroke; Bernard Hahn, back stroke, and James Wilkie, fancy diving.

Four of the five were point winners in last year's meet. Horne is the national champion in the 200 yard breast stroke. Highland placed second in the 100 yard swim, while Wilkie and Hahn placed in their specialties. Rollinger is the only sophomore in the group.

HEERMAN AND FREITAG BOWL AT DETROIT APRIL 27

Bill Heerman and Herb Freitag, who will represent Chicago in the national bowling eliminations, will face the leading bowlers of the country April 27, 28, and 29 at Detroit. Both Heerman and Freitag are members of the Moulding-Brownell team of the Classic league.

They will bowl against eighteen other district winners at Detroit. Each evening ten games will be rolled across twenty alleys. The winner of this competition will be paired with Joe Miller of Buffalo, present champion, in a match for the 1934 individual championship.

In the 126 games that decided the two Chicago winners Heerman averaged 210.34 and Freitag, 211.87.

Aurora Racing Goes to Fox Valley Club

The old Exposition Park Jocky club which has operated the Exposition Park race track at Aurora since 1923 passed out of existence yesterday, to be succeeded by the Fox Valley Jocky club, an entirely new management which has severed connections with the various amusement and fair enterprises which were a part of Exposition park. Details of the five year lease under which complete control of racing passes to the Fox Valley Jocky club were consummated yesterday and work has started on improvements for the opening of the Illinois season at Aurora on May 1.

Robert S. Eddy Jr. of New Orleans is president and general manager of the Fox Valley Jocky club. He also is general manager of Jefferson Park in New Orleans, Fairmount Park at Collinsville, Ill., and Bainbridge Park in Cleveland. Leo Dandurand of Montreal is vice president and Joseph Cattarinich of Montreal, secretary treasurer. Directors are A. M. Hirsh, Frank Thielen, E. J. Baker, George H. Andresen, E. Ray Wells, and Dr. D. E. Rogers.

The Cattarinich-Eddy management took over the operation of the Aurora race course a week before the 1933 season opened and intended to operate it as the Exposition Park Jocky club. This organization also controled enterprises distinct from racing, however, which made the original financial setup impossible and when Exposition Park went into receivership the new association dealing only with racing was organized.

The new lease guarantees racing at Aurora for at least five seasons. Many of the stables are in process of rebuilding and before the meeting opens there will be accommodations at the track for 997 horses. Under a contract with the Exposition Park receivers enough extra stables will be available in the Central States fair buildings outside the track to accommodate 300 more horses.

New York, March 27.—While second grade and speculative bonds felt the pressure of liquidation in company with stocks today, federal issues advanced on the stock exchange.

Dealings in "governments" increased moderately to a total of $1,125,000 compared with $898,800 on Monday and, except for two issues of treasury 3⅜s, net gains of from 1-32d to 7-32ds were registered.

Treasury 4s of 1944-'54 Best Gainers.

Treasury 4s of 1944 to 1954 showed the largest advance and closed at the best price of the day at 106 13-32ds. Treasury 3¾s of 1946 to 1956 scored a net rise of 6-32ds. The two issues to lose ground were the 3⅜s of 1943 to 1947, which were off 2-32ds and the 3⅜s of 1940 to 1943 which dropped 3-32ds.

Domestic corporation bonds were generally weak, although few large declines were made. Foreign issues presented an irregular performance with German government 5½s and 7s up 1¼ and 2¾ points respectively from their recent lows. Other German issues were unable to match the rally of the Young plan and Dawes bonds and closed with losses ranging up to 3¼ and 2½ points in the German Electric 6½s of 1940 and 6s of 1948 respectively.

Low Priced Rails Weak.

Railroad issues were weak as a rule, particularly the low priced bonds. An outstanding exception, however, was provided by bonds of the Denver and Rio Grande Western, which, after early weakness, rallied sharply on news of the plan for readjustment involving payment of half the interest that was due Feb. 1 and for full payment of the April 1 coupons on the 5s of 1978.

Utilities felt the pressure of recent regulatory proposals but were not much worse off than the general list of corporation bonds. Industrial issues proved most resistant to the movement, but lost some ground on the average.

HOLC BONDS.

Chicago, Aurora and Elgin.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me any information you may have on Chicago, Aurora and Elgin. The road I know, is in receivership, but I can get no information about it from the broker or the bank.—R. L. R.

Answer: Chicago, Aurora and Elgin Railroad company is controled by Chicago, Aurora and Elgin corporation, formerly controled by Insull interests. It operates 104 miles of track conducting an interurban passenger service to communities west of Chicago.

Heavy losses and contraction of current resources resulted in receivership on July 21, 1932.

During 1933 the number of passengers carried increased 6.4 per cent over 1932, but, due to reduced rates, passenger revenues dropped 4.15 per cent for the year. The cut in rates did result in a 10 per cent increase in passenger revenues, but that was not sufficient to offset the low levels of trafic prior to the cut.

The company has not earned its operating costs since 1930. Operating revenues in 1933 totaled $1,538,000, against $1,671,000 in 1932, and $2,176,000 in 1931. Net loss for 1933 was $657,000, against loss of $645,000 in 1932, loss of $325,000 for 1931, and $19,000 for 1930.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, including $46,000 cash, totaled $232,000 and current liabilities, excluding those prior to the date of the receivership, were $383,000. In addition, accrued interest on bonds to Dec. 31, 1933, was $1,074,000 and accounts payable prior to receivership were $384,000.

Funded debt totals $8,196,000 and there is $940,000 owing to the parent company.

Profit and loss deficit is $20,780,000. The bonds, all issues, are purely speculative.

Investors' Guide: Will you please be kind enough to advise me if Scotten Dillon company paid dividends in 1933? If so, how much?—J. E.

WRIGLEY WILL PAY WORKERS IN LAYOFF PERIODS

Creates Million Fund Under Novel Plan.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stockholders of the William Wrigley Jr. company yesterday voted to set aside one million dollars out of surplus to launch a novel plan of "employment assurance" devised by the management.

PHILIP K. WRIGLEY

So brand new is the scheme that it has not yet been worked out in detail but it was launched before being completed in order that stockholders might approve it at their annual meeting.

Each employé who has been with the firm for six months or more will get an employment contract assuring him pay during layoff periods. Workers in the lower pay brackets will get as high as 80 per cent of their pay during layoffs. In the higher paid groups wages during idle periods will run down to 60 per cent of the base pay.

Periods of Pay Vary.

Length of time during which laid off workers will receive pay will vary between 16 and 28 weeks, depending upon the length of service. All employés receiving $6,000 or less per year will be covered by the job assurance plan. About 2,000 workers will be affected, about half of them in Chicago and the others scattered throughout the world. Clerical stafs are included.

Philip K. Wrigley, president of the company, who invented the job assurance scheme, is the son of the late William Wrigley, who built up this 63 million dollar company out of gum-chewers' pennies.

"A little over a year ago," Mr. Wrigley said, "we raised wages and reduced working hours. Our factory wage minimums are $22 for men and $18 for women, compared with the $15 minimum called for under the code.

"In talking with workers in our factories, however, I discovered that their chief worry is not the amount of their pay or the length of their day but the specter of sudden loss of work.

Plan Labor Requirements.

"After much study we decided that we could undertake a plan whereby our labor requirements could be planned ahead just as our advertising and our building leases are planned, thereby flattening out to some extent the peaks and valleys of employment.

"This is not a hard times stop gap. It is a definite step toward better handling of employment problems. We are not claiming to set a precedent for other companies to follow, for we're not meddling in others' affairs, but it seems to fit our case nicely."

The Wrigley plan, he said, was not unemployment insurance. No contributions would be exacted from employés. Cost of paying workers during layoffs will be paid out of current operations, but the million dollar fund appropriated yesterday by stockholders will be set up as a guaranty for the fulfilment of the plan.

"It is logical that the guaranty fund should come from surplus," said Mr. Wrigley. "Surplus belongs to the stockholders. It is their assurance that they will get something whether or not business happens to be good. The stockholders will share some of this assurance with the workers."

Sell Stock to Junior Officers.

Stockholders yesterday also approved a plan whereby 35,000 shares of treasury stock were set aside for sale at not less than book value to junior officers who are not directors of the company.

President Wrigley informed them that all the directors of their company were substantial stockholders, that the company had no stock options outstanding, and that it had no bonus arrangements.

All officers were reëlected and the directors voted six monthly dividends of 25 cents per share each, payable the first of each month from May 1 to Oct. 1.

The Wrigley company, according to its annual statement published several weeks ago, made net profit of $7,528,000 last year. Earned surplus at the close of 1933 was $34,599,000.

Stores Here Show Unusual Gain in Sales

A contra-seasonal gain was recorded during February by department store sales in the seventh federal reserve district, in comparison with sales for January, according to the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Moreover, business maintained itself high above the volume of February, 1933.

Aggregate sales in the cities of the district for February surpassed those of January by 4 per cent, in contrast with a decline in the 1924-'33 average between the two months. The margin over aggregate sales in February last year was 33.7 per cent.

Detroit's showing was the most impressive. Trade of department stores was 14 per cent in excess of January and 66 per cent above February, 1933, principally because of banking disturbances a year ago.

Better Business in Chicago.

Business in Chicago exceeded that of January by 2 per cent and that of February, 1933, by 24 per cent. Department store sales in Milwaukee were about the same as in January and 26.4 per cent ahead of the year before; in Indianapolis, 7 per cent less than in January, but 19.3 per cent in excess of February, 1933, and in the group of smaller cities 4 per cent higher than in February and 38.2 per cent higher than in February of last year.

A seasonal expansion occurred during February in stocks, which maintained a substantial margin over the preceding year. The rate of stock turnover was also slightly higher. With the exception of the smaller cities, collection conditions for department stores improved noticeably over 1933.

Aggregate dollar volume of sales made by reporting retail shoe dealers and shoe divisions of department stores was slightly higher than in January, in contrast with a decline in the 1926-'33 average, although sales of a majority of firms decreased. Sales were 19 per cent above February last year.

House Furnishings Gain.

Sales of furniture and house furnishings gained during February in contrast with a decline in the 1927-'33 average. The margin over sales of the corresponding period of the preceding year was 53 per cent, the highest since last May.

In the wholesale trade sales of groceries were 4 per cent, dry goods 7¼, and drugs 9 below January, while sales of hardware gained 2½ per cent and electrical supplies were about unchanged.

Net sales of all five branches of the wholesale trade held far above February, 1933. Groceries showed a margin of 20.1 per cent, hardware 75.5, dry goods 62.5, drugs 30.4, and electrical supplies 67.7. Collections improved.

Chain Store Sales Increase.

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Total February sales of chain stores in the second federal reserve district were almost 12 per cent higher than a year ago, the New York Federal Reserve bank stated today.

Sales of grocery chains advanced further above a year previous than in any month since September, 1930, reports to the bank indicated, and average daily sales of shoe chains showed the most favorable year to year comparison in nearly four years. Sales of the 10 cent variety and candy stores also were higher. Sales of reporting drug chains showed a slight decline.

CUNEO PRESS, INC., SHARE NET LAST YEAR DOUBLE 1932

Cuneo Press, Inc., reported yesterday for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, net income of $787,404, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $3.75 a share on the outstanding common stock. In 1932 net income amounted to $466,994, or $1.85 a share on common.

"The substantial increase in profits over 1932 was due primarily to the consolidation of departments and other measures of economy, and to a larger volume of miscellaneous sales," said John F. Cuneo, president. "Sales in our principal contracts were somewhat smaller than in 1932."

Provision for depreciation and repairs amounted to $827,480, a reserve for possible extraordinary losses $141,142, and federal taxes $136,500. Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $2,946,441, against current liabilities of $919,803.

ILLINOIS WILL SELL NOTES TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—The state today announced plans to sell $5,000,000 of six per cent revenue notes as part of the $30,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue. Bids will be received April 9 at the office of John C. Martin, state treasurer.

Since $10,000,000 in revenue notes were previously sold, the state is now making use of half of the $30,000,000 issue, authorized by the first special session last fall.

The revenue notes are to be retired by a bond issue, if approved at a November referendum. Otherwise, the state must levy a property tax.

China May Go on Gold Basis; Use U. S. Loan

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 27.—China's national economic council yesterday adopted a proposal setting aside 40 per cent of the proceeds of the cotton and wheat loan negotiated with the United States last year for readjusting the national currency and finances and improving the monetary system.

While the council did not mention the actual resolution, it was learned that it is proposed to use the fund as an initial step toward ultimate adoption of the gold standard in accordance with instructions adopted recently by the central political council. Peng Hsueh-pei, who proposed the resolution, recommended the use of 40 per cent of the proceeds of the American loan as collateral to enable the central bank to issue immediately gold bank notes which could be used as legal tender for ordinary commercial transactions.

Fix Value for Gold Notes.

In accordance with the tentative proposal the gold notes would have a face value of one-fourth of China's customs gold unit, which is now worth somewhat less than the American dollar. The arrangement also provides for the central bank to issue gold notes in exchange for gold bullion or gold articles without a fee.

The bank's gold specie reserve against the gold note issue will be 40 per cent, and when the appropriate time arrives all income expenditures of the government will be expressed in gold currency, thus definitly paving the way for adoption of the gold standard currency.

When the national government's legislative department ratified the London silver agreement on March 11 it adopted an amendment whereby China reserved the right to adopt the gold standard in the event that the price of silver reached an excessively high status, causing the fall of commodity prices and resulting in an influx of foreign goods which would endanger China's national economy.

Fear Speculation in Silver.

Dr. Ma Yin-chu, chairman of the legislative economic committee, declared that China didn't intend to be victimized by artificial manipulation or speculation in silver by foreign countries, hence China refused to bind herself not to demonetize silver or sell silver by melting down dollars.

The national government yesterday officially sealed and legalized the foregoing silver action, including the reservations. A recommendation was also made but has not yet been approved increasing the export tax upon silver from 2½ to 5 per cent.

U. S. IMPORTS MILLION GALLONS OF SPIRITS, WINES IN FEBRUARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—United States' imports of liquors and wines totaled 1,070,104 gallons in February. Twenty-two countries participated in the import trade of the United States in whisky during February, the commerce department announced today. The United Kingdom and Canada together accounted for 90 per cent of the 410,730 gallons received from abroad. Miquelon and St. Pierre iland were third, accounting for nearly 20,000 gallons. The Irish Free State followed with 5,079 gallons, Cuba 4,173, Bermudas 3,748, France 2,310, and Belgium 1,861 gallons.

Twenty countries shared in American brandy imports of 72,646 gallons in February, with France supplying approximately 90 per cent. Miquelon and St. Pierre, Greece, and Palestine supplied the next largest quantities. The approximate 17,000 gallons of gin imported during February originated in 11 foreign countries, with the United Kingdom and Holland accounting for 95 per cent.

Thirty-three countries supplied other spirits, cordials, etc., during February. France accounted for 45 per cent of the 81,445 gallons received. Cuba was the second largest supplier, with 20 per cent.

France supplied 80 per cent of the 45,683 gallons of champagne and sparkling wines imported in February. Of 17 other countries participating in this trade, the only ones of any importance were Miquelon and St. Pierre, the United Kingdom, and Italy.

Although imports of still wine into the United States in February came from every quarter of the world except Africa, originating in 29 different countries, over 80 per cent of the 442,600 gallons received was accounted for by four sources, France, Italy, Germ . and Spain. The United Kingdom and Portugal sent 15,182 and 18,079 gallons, respectively; 15,000 gallons were received from Japan, and 8,000 gallons from Palestine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The foreign exchanges weakened slightly against the dollar today. Sterling lost ¼ cent to $5.10 and the franc was off ½ point to 6:58 cents. Dutch guilders, which had recovered on Monday from their extreme weakness of last week, fell 3 points to 67.30 cents. Belgas were off 1 point to 23.32 cents and Swiss francs were off 2 points at 32.28 cents. Canadian dollars declined to 99.90⅝ cents.

Further gold imports of $5,508,800 were reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, bringing the total reported receipts of gold from abroad since Feb. 1, to $638,591,900 and the net gain in the monetary gold stocks in the period through imports and earmarking transactions to $598,754,400. Of the receipts reported today $2,603,700 came from India, $2,422,100 from England and $483,000, which was additional for Monday, from Holland.

Additional large amounts of gold reached port on the steamships Olympic, Champlain, and Scythia, but were not cleared through the assay office in time to be included in the daily report. The Olympic is bringing $10,000,000 and the Champlain $1,850,000. Further imports of about $3,000,000 are due Thursday on the Bremen, while the President Roosevelt is expected to land $5,000,000 on Friday.

Gold declined 1½ pence to 136 shillings 3½ pence [$34.76] in London, at which price £164,000 [$836,605] was bought by hoarders.

NASH MOTORS OFFERS 10% INCREASE IN PAY TO STRIKING WORKERS

Kenosha, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—An offer of a 10 per cent increase in pay for striking employés of the Nash Motors company was reiterated here this afternoon by Earl H. McCarty, president, in a letter sent to all employés. He also said that "any points of the settlement in the President's announcement that were not already covered in previous negotiations, will be complied with by this company."

McCarty scored the American Federation of Labor, alleging it misled the Kenosha auto workers.

"It is unfortunate that the local leaders of the A. F. of L. called our employés out on strike and informed them that within a short time after the strikes in our plants started that the automobile workers in Detroit would also be out on strike," he said. "The President's agreement did not cover the matter of wages, but a 10 per cent increase has been offered to our Racine workers, and that is the increase Detroit workers are receiving."

This strike has not only meant a loss to the company and a loss of wages to employés, but on account of occurring at the beginning of the selling season, will mean more irregular employment throughout the balance of the year and, therefore, less wages."

Negotiations for settling the strike shifted to Kenosha. Union officials were awaiting the arrival tomorrow of two key men in the negotiations. They are Ralph Johnson, Washington, designated by Gen. Hugh Johnson as the federal mediator, and William Collins, Detroit, A. F. of L. organizer.

Girls Run and So Do Hose as 'Fire' Breaks

When Frank D. Chase, Civil Works administrator for Illinois, moved his headquarters staf of 3,000 CWA workers to an old warehouse at 1319 South Michigan avenue recently, elaborate arrangements had to be made to protect the lives of these workers against fire. Wider stairways were built, outside fire escapes were installed and frequent fire drills ordered.

A few days ago fire bells clanged a real alarm late in the afternoon while 600 women and girls were still working. At each of the four fire escape exits an official, as usual, warned the feminine employés to take off their shoes in order to avoid catching their high heels between the steel slats of the fire escape steps. The gals complied, carrying their shoes in their hands.

When the last employé was out it was discovered the alarm was a dud, caused by accidental crossing of the signal wires. Back climbed the six hundred, hands covered with black paint and hose smeared and torn. The fire escapes had just been painted.

Twelve sows allotted to Fred C. Stevens of Mercer county, Illinois, under the corn-hog reduction plan of the agriculture administration farrowed 156 pigs recently, twice their average production. The porcine world evidently is not taking the Wallace mandate seriously. Mr. Stevens will have the job of executing a lot of little pigs and using them for fertilizer in order to live up to his agreement with the secretary to keep the hog population down. A contrary animal is the hog.

One railroad running out of Chicago serves whisky to its liquor-minded dining car customers in small individual bottles. "If we served whisky out of a large bottle," an official of this road said, "the waiters might cheat a little in the size of the drinks to customers, getting themselves and their porter friends 'oiled' on what they were able to hold out." This same official said his road had found repeal had helped its dining car business somewhat.

Persons whose unbounded faith in President Roosevelt is such that they feel no other leader could carry the country out of its present difficulties, can now hedge against any mishap to the chief executive.

La Salle street has recently been circularized by an insurance firm which offers to insure his continuing in office. The offer states:

"We will pay a total loss in the event of Franklin D. Roosevelt ceasing to be President of the United States of America on or before twelve months from the date of this policy. The prevailing rate is $50 per $1,000 of insurance, with a minimum amount of $10,000."

N. Y. BANKS SUED FOR 50 MILLION RUSSIAN LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Five of the largest New York banks were sued for $50,000,000 today. The charge is that they artfully concealed the bankrupt condition of Russia in 1916 and sold certificates of participation in a $50,000,000 credit to the imperial government. The plaintif is Wolfram Hill, owner of two $1,000 certificates. His suit was brought in federal court.

The defendants are J. P. Morgan & Co., Lee Higginson & Co., the National City bank, the Guaranty Trust company, and Kidder, Peabody & Co. In a prospectus issued Nov. 29, 1916, Mr. Hill charges Lee Higginson & Co. said:

Actually, says Mr. Hill, in June, 1916, Russia's gold reserve was so depleted that it represented only 24 per cent of the paper money in circulation, which was constantly increasing. When the certificates were issued, he charges it would have required half of the nation's entire revenue to pay 6 per cent interest on its indebtedness.

WESTERN UNION TURNS '32 LOSS TO PROFIT IN '33

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The annual report of the Western Union Telegraph company for 1933 shows cash at the year end amounting to $8,929,833, an increase of $3,006,392, and the elimination of $1,500,000 in notes payable which were outstanding the year before. Current assets increased $3,832,415 to $18,442,932, while current liabilities declined $1,300,328 to $11,422,023.

Operating revenues in 1933 aggregated $82,308,607, comparing with $83,013,712 in 1932, although in the early months of last year the telegraph business had declined to the lowest level of the depression. Net income was $4,364,882 against net loss of $842,595 in 1932.

"The improvement in general business is reflected in the reversal of the trend of telegraph revenues, which during the last half of 1933 exceeded those of the corresponding period of the preceding year by about 8 per cent, against a decrease of about 9 per cent for the first half," Newcomb Carlton, chairman, and R. B. White, president, say in their report.

Wages and Vacations Restored.

"Although the economy program has been successfully pursued and operating expenses further reduced by about $4,800,000, without sacrifice of efficiency, the wage deduction of 10 per cent, in effect since Aug. 1, 1932, was terminated July 1, 1933, and $4,000,000 was thus added to the annual pay of our employés. Vacations with pay were partially restored effective Jan. 1, 1934.

"The burden of taxation continues, and taxes in 1933 absorbed over 27 per cent of Western Union net earnings before interest. A new levy, the federal capital stock tax, was introduced. The federal message tax, payable by consumers, has had a distinctly deterrent influence on telegraphing, by raising rates approximately 5 per cent, besides which the company is obliged to collect the tax. Telegraphing was handled for the government at considerably less than cost of operation.

The company had 33,181 stockholders at the end of 1933, of whom 31,970 held 100 shares or less and 27,348 held 25 shares or less. The total number decreased by 3,600.

Quicken Cable Service.

To meet the increasing demand for faster communication service between Europe and America, the company has developed and applied equipment whereby cable circuits may be extended directly to landline points, thus eliminating manual repetition at the cable circuit terminals at New York and London.

Income accounts compare as follows:

Other income for 1933 included a special dividend of $1,162,545 received from the American District Telegraph company [N. J.]. The $1,500,000 first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds of North Western Telegraph company, due Jan. 1, 1934, guaranteed as to principal and interest by Western Union, were extended for 10 years, and the Western Union company acquired $1,338,000 of these bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Creation of a $2,400,000 fund to assist officers and employés of the National City bank who suffered reverses in the stock market crash in 1929, was suggested by Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the board, according to testimony offered in Supreme court today.

A year later, witnesses said, the unpaid indebtedness was sold to the National City company, an affiliate, at an alleged loss to the bank of $1,557,910. This sale also was authorized by Mr. Mitchell, testimony indicated.

The history of the $2,400,000 fund is being traced in the trial of a suit brought by Mrs. Celia Gallinin on behalf of herself and other stockholders against directors and former directors of the National City bank, who allegedly cost the bank $70,000,000 through mismanagement. The plaintif asks the defendants be required to reimburse the bank for the alleged losses.

Find 350,000 Return to Jobs in February

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The American Federation of Labor estimated today on the basis of trade union reports that over 350,000 men and women returned to work in industry during February, and that during the first half of March employment continued to gain at about the February rate.

The federation's figures showed 11,688,000 out of work in industry in January as compared with 11,374,000 in February.

"These figures," it said, "are significant in two ways: First, they show that industrial employment has not increased rapidly enough to absorb those laid off by the civil works administration. During February, 920,000 were dropped by the CWA and industrial employment increased by 350,000. Second, the employment figures show the first gain in the month of February since depression began. Each previous February since 1929 unemployment has increased.

Gain in Manufactures.

"This year the gain was almost entirely in manufacturing industries, where 360,000 went back to work. There were slight gains also in wholesale trade [10,000] and hotels [10,000] and in some other industries but 50,000 were laid off in building. In manufacturing the heavy or producers goods industries showed considerable employment gains.

"The fact that men are going back to work in these industries, where unemployment has been particularly serious, is significant; iron and steel, machinery, lumber, building materials, automobiles, railroad car shops. Consumer goods industries also reported substantial employment gains; cotton goods, clothing, shoes, rubber tires, cigars, and cigarets.

"Trade union unemployment figures show that these gains are continuing in March, both in 'heavy' and consumer industries. These gains indicate that accumulated buying power is taking effect.

Workers' Income Rises Slightly.

"The record of workers' income gains for February, however, is not so bright. Pay rolls in industry as a whole increased by about $100,000,000, but this gain was almost entirely offset by a decline of $80,000,000 in CWA pay rolls during the month. The total gain in workers' buying power in dollars was only 1 per cent, and since cost of living increased 3 per cent during the month, workers' total effective buying power actually declined.

"Workers' individual wages increased slightly due probably to an increase in full time work but here, too, the gain was offset by the rise in living costs; weekly income gained 2 per cent, living costs, 3 per cent.

"According to our estimates, workers' total buying power in February was $2,520,000,000, of which $186,000,000 was from government work and $2,534,000,000 from industry. This compares with $2,495,500,000 in January and $1,855,000,000 in February, last year. Those without work in industry numbered 11,374,000 in February; at the end of the month, 3,516,000 still had work in CWA, PWA, and CCC, and 7,858,000 were entirely without jobs."

PALMER ASSERTS U. S. HAD BANKS WRITE UP BONDS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration, asserted before a house banking subcommittee today that the government instructed national banks "not to tell the truth" about their bond values.

Appearing in support of the McLeod bill to pay off in full depositors in closed national banks, Palmer took issue with testimony by J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, that it would be "hazardous" to assume a governmental responsibility for such a payment. O'Connor said that if such an assumption were to be followed it "would establish a precedent" that would lead to all business in which the government had a hand.

Palmer said the government had insisted the banks carry adequate reserves in the federal reserve system. The reserve funds, he added, were invested among other places in the New York Stock exchange.

"When the smash came and values faded away, the government told the banks they should not tell the truth and that the bonds be carried at cost regardless of the market," Palmer said. "The statements of condition were not statements of condition—they were mere reprints."

O'Connor said $1,815,000,000 would be needed to meet the deposit liability of closed national and federal reserve member banks. He estimated that under the proposed payoff plan, nearly one-half of the amount to be distributed would go to only 4 per cent of the total depositors.

"It would put little in circulation for the purchase of commodities," he said. "There also is a serious question whether taxation can be resorted to for the benefit of a small group of depositors in the class to be benefited."

68,000 STEEL WORKERS GIVEN 10% PAY BOOST

Five Concerns Act, More May Follow.

Wage increases benefiting nearly 68,000 workers in the steel industry were announced yesterday by five leading steel companies. Pay boosts were also announced by firms in other industries, including the Corn Products Refining company.

The steel companies reporting straight 10 per cent boosts in hourly pay are the National Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, with 20,000 employés, the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, with about 17,000 workers; the Wheeling Steel company, Portsmouth, O., with 12,000 workers, and the American Rolling Mills company, Middletown, O., with 10,000 employés.

Inland to Make 10 Per Cent Boost.

The fifth company was the Inland Steel company, the main plant of which is at Indiana Harbor. P. D. Block, president, announced that the wage adjustment by his concern would not be a horizontal increase but would average 10 per cent. He said it would benefit 9,000 employés.

While no unofficial agreement exists among local steel companies it is expected the other concerns here will follow Inland's lead, as the latter is the largest independent producer in this area.

"Workers' purchasing power has not expanded in proportion to the increased cost of living and we are hopeful this action will correct the situation with our own workers," Mr. Block said.

Working Hours Unchanged.

The increases are made without any reduction in hours of work. It is expected that other companies in the industry will fall into line in the next day or so. The increases announced are effective April 1.

At the offices of the Illinois Steel company, U. S. Steel subsidiary, it was stated that any announcement will be made by the offices of the parent company in New York.

The Corn Products company increase also amounts to 10 per cent for all factory workers and will benefit between 2,200 and 2,400 workers in the company's four plants. Of the total from 1,300 to 1,500 are employed in the company's Argo, Ill., plant and another 300 at the Pekin, Ill., plant. The boost has already been put in effect, stockholders were told at the annual meeting in Jersey City, N. J.

In Salem, O., the Mullins Manufacturing company announced a straight 10 per cent raise for its 1,600 factory workers, effective April 1.

Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel, said "as far as our company is concerned increased economies in production and much improved operating schedules make this increase possible."

U. S. Steel Is Silent.

New York, March 27.—(AP)—There were expectations in some quarters today that the United States Steel corporation might have something to say about wage revisions following the usual weekly meeting of the finance committee today, but at the office of the corporation it was indicated that no statement was contemplated, at least for the present.

Steel trade quarters estimated that a 10 per cent boost in wages for hourly piece work and tonnage workers would raise the cost of producing steel about $1.30 a ton, on the basis of average operations of around 40 per cent of capacity. In the event of a substantially higher rate of operations the production cost would be correspondingly reduced, it was pointed out. Current operations are estimated at close to 47 per cent of capacity.

Some estimates said that with an operating rate of around 40 per cent of ingot capacity, the wage costs for hourly, piecework and tonnage employés in the steel industry approximated under present wage scales $30,000,000 a month or $360,000,000 a year. A 10 per cent increase, it was figured, would raise the industry's costs between $36,000,000 and $45,000,000 a year, depending on the number of workers affected by the revision.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON WALL STREET; STOCKS DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Gloom thick enough to be sliced with a knife settled on the Wall street speculative community today following President Roosevelt's demand for a securities exchange control act "with teeth in it." The stock market was flooded with selling orders at the opening and prices went down $1 to $4 a share in every direction. The press of business set the ticker behind as much as five minutes.

Spotty recoveries were made in later dealings, but speculative sentiment remained bearish and some of the leaders remained under weight of liquidation throughout the session. Many wild rumors found circulation in the blue mood of the day, one of them being that the "board" would be closed "for a while" in protest against the trend of things at Washington. Several exchange memberships were thrown overboard at sharply reduced prices.

Membership Prices Fall.

Early in the day three memberships were sold at $100,000, $85,000, and $83,000. The last preceding transfer was made at $112,000. Later in the day a seat was sold at $100,000 a $17,000 recovery from the low price.

The low price of the depression was $68,000 in May, 1932. All-time high prices for stock exchange seats came in 1929, before the membership was increased, when a seat cost one buyer $625,000.

A fresh blast against public utilities by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York did not help the power and light shares to any noticeable extent, and the rails encountered some selling on advance estimates indicating a slight decrease in carloadings for the week.

Finally there was a pronounced disposition to believe that "settlement" of the motor strike had not clarified anything fundamental in the labor disputes besetting industry and that further trouble is possible before this burning question is out of the way. All told the street has not found so many things to grow pessimistic over, in a long time.

Trade Volume Expands.

Although the market turned quiet after the first rush of selling, early trading served to swell the day's turnover to around 1,603,610 shares or a quarter of a million above that of yesterday.

Price movements were fairly uniform in groups. The start recorded such wide declines as 4½ points in United States Smelting, 3½ in Chrysler, 3 in Steel, 3 in American Can, 2½ in Southern Pacific, 1½ in General Motors, and 2½ in Celanese.

Some of the leaders, like American Telephone and General Motors, drifted lower, but after the turn of the day support was forthcoming for some of the outstanding victims, and many of the worst of early losses were somewhat reduced.

Can made up a point of its opening loss, Steel was off less than 2 points at the finish, and United States Smelting had recovered to 118¼, off 2¼ on the day. Most of the metals snapped back sharply.

EXCHANGES MAKE FINAL PLEAS FOR LESS U. S. RULE

Congress to Get Measure with Few Changes.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—The allied stock exchanges of the country made their final stand today in committee in opposition to the revised Fletcher-Rayburn Stock exchange bill.

Speaking for the New York Stock exchange and exchanges in other leading cities of the country, Richard Whitney, president of the New York market, suggested the amendment of every controversial section in the proposed law. If approved by the committee, the result would be a practically new bill. All indications, however, are that the redrafted bill will go to the floors of congress with few, if any, important changes.

Action of the senate committee will not be unanimous and the probabilities are that a minority report will go to the senate in which further modifications will be recommended.

Senator Glass announced he was opposed to any proposition which would give the Federal Reserve board the decision in matters involving marginal transactions. He also looks with disfavor on the proposal to vest other administrative functions in the federal trade commission. The answer, in the opinion of Senator Glass, is a tax on transactions involving stock sales covering a period of less than 60 days. Senator Glass indicated that he will suggest such a proposition to the committee before the vote on reporting the bill is taken.

Derides Reserve Knowledge.

"What reason have you to think the federal reserve board knows anything at all about the stock market?" Senator Glass asked Roland Redmond, counsel of the New York exchange, who was explaining the suggested amendments to the committee.

"Senator," Mr. Redmond replied, "after reading the revised bill which the federal reserve board approves I doubt if they know very much about the exchange."

"In my opinion not one of the eight members of the board members know anything about it," Glass replied. "The federal reserve board was set up to respond to the requirements of credit and not to control credit."

"Do you think the federal trade commission should have control?" Mr. Redmond asked:

"I do not think they know any more about it than the federal reserve board," Senator Glass replied.

"For my part," interrupted Senator Gore, "I want the bill written so that the responsibility that follows will be on the shoulders of the exchanges and not on congress."

Holds Little Hope for Tax.

Senator Glass said that while he would probably suggest the substitution of a stock transaction tax bill for the pending measure, he had no delusions as to what will happen. It will not be approved by the committee. The senator said he knew that because when he suggested it four years ago it went to the committee on finance, where it died.

When the committee convened this morning for its last open hearing there was a feeling that the bill as now written is substantially the measure that will be enacted. The President's letter to Senator Fletcher and Representative Rayburn, chairman of the committees having jurisdiction, was taken as a fairly sure indication that any further changes in the bill will be of a minor nature.

BROKER STOCK PROTEST MEETING IS POSTPONED

The "protest" meeting of brokerage house employés which was scheduled to have been held yesterday in the Board of Trade building, to advertise their opposition to the Fletcher-Rayburn stock control bill, was called off late in the day. Canceling of the meeting here followed similar action in New York where it was reported such a big crowd was expected that additional facilities were needed.

The Chicago meeting was to have been held in room 300 of the Board of Trade building. Arrangements for the gathering were made by the La Salle Street Cashiers' association. Another meeting will be scheduled in the near future, Edward Nelson, president of the association, said last night.

Reports that the meeting here and in New York were called off for fear of communist activities were scouted here.

BALDWIN CHIEF ASSAILS DRASTIC CONTROL LAWS

Free Capital Flow Is Vital, He Says.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Drastic regulatory legislation such as the securities act of 1933 and the proposed national stock exchange act of 1934 was criticized last night by George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, as an instrument which would throttle the flow of private capital into industry and provide handicaps under which private enterprise could not live.

Mr. Houston, who has been appointed by Gen. Johnson to head the durable goods industries committee, spoke at a dinner given by the Economic club of Chicago at the Palmer house. Rufus C. Dawes, the other speaker, discussed briefly the 1934 Century of Progress.

Program an Anomaly.

Mr. Houston found an anomalous situation in the fact that the government is sponsoring regulatory measures with respect to the flow of securities while at the same time it is attempting to pump capital into industry. The speaker said that one essential to recovery was a revival in the durable industries, which have been hard hit by the depression.

"Unless we are prepared to abandon capitalism and adopt a social order in which facilities of production and distribution are owned or controled and financed by the state, the accumulation of private savings and their flow into investment in durable goods must be continued," Mr. Houston asserted.

"This can be accomplished, however, only under conditions that will give reasonable expectation of security of principal and such rate of exchange as will encourage men to take the hazard of investment."

Mr. Houston gave a number of conditions which, in his opinion, must be established before private enterprise will again resume normal activity.

Cites Five Vital Needs.

1. The government should coöperate with the national forces of recovery, primarily through the removal of legislative barriers now existing in the flow of private capital into private enterprise.

2. The organization of the proposed intermediate credit banks for industry, such banks to make loans up to five year maturities.

3. A governmental policy of encouragement to private enterprise, with an assurance of freedom of opportunity to earn in the future a reasonable return upon invested capital.

4. Relief from radical changes in existing methods of doing business constantly thrust upon the country by a small minority in the guise of reforms which are not wanted nor needed.

5. Continuation of amicable relations between employer and employés based upon good will and mutual confidence and respect.

Mr. Houston said that while consumption goods have been produced in only slightly diminished quantity, the output of durable goods has almost ceased, which is responsible for a large amount of the unemployment in the country.

Formation of Distillers Credit Bureau Discussed

Under the chairmanship of Joseph Triner of the Triner Sales company a meeting was held last night in the Hotel Sherman to discuss formation of a distillers' group in the Chicago Association of Credit Men for the exchange of credit information. Business has been on a cash basis since repeal, but the need of a credit organization is now being felt, it was said.

'STREET' IS AROUSED BY PRESIDENT'S STAND ON STOCK REGULATION

President Roosevelt's request to congress to pass legislation with "teeth in it" for control of stock and commodity exchanges aroused indignation in La Salle street yesterday.

Comment of Orville E. Babcock, partner of Babcock, Rushton & Co., was typical. He said:

"I feel that passage of a strict law for control of stock exchanges will result in a severe contraction of business. Under such a situation we very likely would be compelled to reduce the number of our employés by half.

"I cannot see why the entire business of handling securities should be punished for the misdeeds of a few."

Margin requirements under the proposed law will make it impossible for most large houses to carry on, it was said. Elimination of speculative activity in the markets, it was held, would help destroy the liquidity of all securities, which in the long run would react against the small investor.

Feeling was general that in the event the stock exchange control is passed there will be a general unloading of securities, which would depress prices and serve to offset business gains.

La Salle street houses received some encouragement from Henry C. Lytton, 88 year old head of the Hub, who addressed letters to Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Congressman Fred C. Britten. Mr. Lytton said passage of the legislation will not help business, but on the contrary may retard it.

"We would all regret most poignantly if the President should make a mistake now—a mistake which might be averted by delaying this proposed stock exchange reform bill to another session of congress," he said.

LOCAL GROUP TO PROTEST WAGNER BILL AT CAPITOL

Representatives of many of Chicago's largest industries, acting with officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will visit Washington early next week to protest against the Wagner labor bill. Senator David I. Walsh, chairman of the senate committee on education and labor, has agreed to give them a hearing.

Statements sent to the local association by commercial interests and organizations from Buffalo and Philadelphia to Denver indicate a common opposition to the Wagner bill that will find expression through delegations in Washington.

D. & R. G. W. to Pay Half of Mortgage Bond Interest

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Directors of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad today offered holders of the general mortgage 5 per cent bonds half of the interest which was due Feb. 1, last, in cash and requested that they withhold presentation of coupons due Aug. 1, 1934, and Feb. 1, 1935, until Dec. 1, 1935. The Rio Grande will pay interest due April 1 on the refunding and improvement mortgage bonds of 1978 and the Rio Grande Western first consolidated bonds of 1949, it was officially stated.

Delay in consideration of the sugar bills at Washington and the failure of the spot market to show improvement were responsible for renewed liquidation and trade selling in the future market. WORK TO START TODAY ON 8 FLOOR DAVIS STORE UNIT

Building Cost $300,000; Remodel Another.

BY AL CHASE.

Work will be started today on an eight story Wabash avenue addition to the Davis company's State street department store following allocation of contracts by the concern yesterday. Wreckers will begin clearing the site this morning preparatory to actual construction.

The new building, designed by Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, will cost $300,000. The general contract was awarded to the R. C. Wieboldt company and the structural steel contract to the Hansell-Elcock company.

Replaces Smaller Unit.

The new structure, to care for the expanding business of the Davis company, will be 45x190, at 330 South Wabash avenue. It will replace an old four story structure.

Adjoining this on the north, at Nos. 324 and 328, a three and four story building is to be remodeled at the same time the eight story annex is built. The upper floors of both units will be used by the Davis company for warehouse purposes, while the first floor stores are to be rented.

Subway to Connect Buildings.

A subway will connect the present State street store with the Wabash avenue units and a conveyor belt will be used as a freight escalator for ng retail stock from the warehouse across the alley to the State street shopping floors.

The plans provide that the first floor of the Wabash avenue units be indented thirty feet on the alley side, so that several heavy trucks can unload merchandise without interfering with trafic.

The Wabash avenue elevation of the eight story unit will be of modern design of brick, with Indiana limestone trim, and aluminum sprandrels. Foundations will rest on caissons.

Make 6 Story Block a "Taxpayer."

Conversion of the old six story American Commerce building, at the southwest corner of Wabash and Adams, for many years occupied by Lyon & Healy, into a theoretical one story "taxpayer," was announced yesterday by A. M. Dean of Hooker & Slosson, renting managers for the owner, the estate of Mark Cummings.

Instead of tearing down the five upper stories, however, the building will be converted into a one story structure, so far as tenants are concerned, by removal of all occupants of the upper five floors and cutting off water, light, heat, and elevator service to that part of the building.

It is understood that the upper floor occupancy had shrunk to the point where the rentals paid by the few remaining firms failed to offset the cost of operating the elevator and supplying heat.

CANADIAN ROAD HAS '33 DEFICIT OF $58,955,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27.—Despite curtailment of railway services and wholesale reductions in staf, a deficit of $58,955,000 was reported to parliament today on 1933 operations of the publicly owned Canadian National railway system.

A revenue drop of $12,000,000 was met by a $12,000,000 curtailment in operating expenses to effect even as good a showing as is apparent from the deficit figure which is an improvement of about $1,000,000 over 1932. President S. J. Hungerford reports the depth of railway depression to have been reached in mid-year with betterment in the second half. Through pooling train services a curtailment of 1,327,972 passenger train mails was effected last year. The system operated last year 9,557,496 less passenger train miles than in 1929.

The report was referred to the parliamentary railway committee to thresh over with Railway Minister Manion's previous predictions of considerable impending betterment.

FEDERAL JUGGLING OF GOLD PRICE FAILS TO HELP GRAIN MARKETS

National recovery plans based on manipulation of the price of gold apparently have had little effect on the grain markets during the last few months.

May wheat at the low level yesterday sold at 84¾ cents, the lowest since Jan. 9, while May corn touched 48¼ cents, the lowest since Dec. 21. At the time the two grains made their previous low levels the treasury department was quoting newly mined domestic gold at $34.06 per ounce, compared with the prevailing price of $35 per ounce. May oats yesterday sold down to 32⅝ cents, the lowest since Oct. 20, when gold was quoted at $29.13 per ounce.

Grain traders allege part of the failure of the grain markets to respond to recovery efforts is due to lack of speculative interest and curtailing of outside operations as the result of the highly complex political, economic, and monetary situation.

Late in January, when it became apparent congress would approve the bill which resulted in the price of gold being established at $35 per ounce, May wheat sold up to 93⅝ cents, May corn to 54 cents, and May oats to 39½ cents. Since that time there has been a gradual but extremely erratic decline.

REVIVE PROGRAM FOR NATIONAL SECURITY GROUP

Negotiations have been revived, it was learned last night, for formulating a definite program on which security dealers throughout the country may get together to oppose legislation which threatens their business.

It is understood a meeting is being arranged of leading members of stock exchanges throughout the country to discuss the matter. T. R. Benson, president of the Chicago Association of Stock Exchange Firms, who was the leading figure last fall in attempting to form a national association of security dealers, said last night that he had no comment to make at present on the question.

Previous negotiations for forming such an organization fell through when New York brokers displayed only a luke warm attitude toward the plan. The absence of coördination among dealers throughout the country, however, has handicapped opposition to the Fletcher-Rayburn exchange bill. It is now believed that New York brokers are more friendly to the suggestion that they band together with other cities in fighting the legislation.

ROCK ISLAND'S FREIGHT RISES FOR 15TH WEEK

The Rock Island reported yesterday that for the fifteenth consecutive week its car loadings for week's period exceeded those for the corresponding week a year ago. For the week ended March 24 the road reported loadings totaling 19,658 compared with 17,597 in the like week of 1933.

Cars handled by the Wabash totaled 13,247 compared with 13,397 in the preceding week and with 10,770 in the corresponding week of 1933.

MARCH BUTTER DECLINES $120 A CAR; EGGS WEAKEN

Active liquidation in March butter caused a decline of ⅝c per pound, or $120 per carlot on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, November eased ¼c, and June closed unchanged. Eggs were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Potatoes were unchanged.

Eggs weakened in sympathy with other markets. Selling in Octobers was brisk at the start, but favorable news later resulted in the market firming slightly. The movement into storage fell 20,000 cases short of last year. The weekly figures showed principal storage centers hold 300,000 cases less eggs than last year.

Liquidation started in April potatoes, but covering held the market to an unchanged close after a firm opening. Sales: Butter, 103 cars; eggs, 59 cars; potatoes, 12 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 76 cars; eggs, 8 cars. Prices:

COTTON PRICES DECLINE; SHORT INTEREST LARGER

Cotton was under pressure yesterday because of fears of government regulation of stocks and commodity markets. There were indications of a moderate increase in the short interest, already regarded as large.

There were rains in the central and eastern belt, with temperatures below normal, especially in south Texas, where the crop is getting an unfavorable start. Exports, though slightly higher, are somewhat under last year's.

Prices had a range of around 20 points and the close was at intermediate figures. Net losses in Chicago were 10 to 13 points and in other markets 9 to 13 points. Spots in New York dropped 15 points to a basis of 12.05 cents, New Orleans 5 to 12.00, Houston and Galveston 10, the former being 12.05 cents and the latter 12.10 cents: Prices:

SILVER FUTURES

Prospects that speculation in commodities would be restricted under the provisions of new legislation pending in congress more than offset all other factors in silver yesterday and the close was about the bottom with net losses of .30 to .42c. A bill to have the government buy 2,000,000,000 ounces silver at the market and use it for payment of the soldiers' bonus was introduced into the senate, but failed to have any effect. Total sales were 75 lots or 3,875,000 ounces. March closed at 45.45c. April 45.55c; May, 45.65c; July, 46.05c; September, 46.30@46.40c, and December, 46.90c.

GRAINS BREAK; TRADERS FEAR SPECULATION BAN

Roosevelt's Views Lead to Increased Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

President Roosevelt's stand in favor of the proposed bills to restrict speculation in commodities and stocks started general liquidation in grains yesterday which carried wheat and corn down around 2 cents from Monday's finish. May wheat broke to 84¾ cents, the lowest level since Jan. 9, while May corn touched 48¼ cents, a new low since Dec. 21. May oats broke 1 cent and sold at 32⅝ cents, the lowest price since Oct. 20.

Many stop loss orders were uncovered in all grains on the way down, with support coming largely from shorts and from commission houses on resting orders. While there were numerous rallies, they were not impressive and were due to sympathy with cotton, which firmed up on favorable developments affecting the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill, which was being argued in the senate.

Wheat Off More Than Cent.

Wheat finished with net losses of 1¼ to 1⅜ cents, with May 85⅝ to 86½ cents and July at ⅛ cent discount. Corn lost 1¼ to 1⅝ cents, oats were off ¾ to 1⅛ cents, rye declined 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents, and barley 1⅜ to 2⅛ cents for the day.

Durum cash wheat at Duluth, which is selling at a big premium compared with bread wheat, dropped 2 to 4 cents for the day. However, this was Winnipeg was off only ⅝ cent and Liverpool lost ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Scarcely any comment other than on the proposed curtailment of speculation was heard in the grain trade yesterday and routine news was ignored. The recent storm failed to provide any moisture of consequence in the dry areas of Kansas or in the American northwest.

Crop experts at a meeting in North Dakota expressed extremely gloomy views for the 1934 crop owing to the unprecedented lack of moisture in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

No Export Demand for Corn.

Despite the drastic decline in corn futures there was no evidence of any export demand, according to Chicago handlers. Recently it was claimed a decline of around 2 cents would result in business. The country apparently took fright at the proposed inimitical exchange legislation and sold 130,000 bushels of corn to arrive despite the fact the price was much below what could have been borrowed from the government were the grain sealed in farm cribs.

Trade sentiment during the day was extremely pessimistic as to the future of the grain markets. The exchanges will start to operate under the national code requirements on margins next Saturday, but as a majority of commission houses have been calling 10 per cent or more of the market price it is not expected there will be any liquidation of consequence.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—Coffee was lower today on belated trade and European selling in an empty market. Locals and commission houses bought. Santos opened unchanged and closed 19 to 25 points lower. Sales, 11,000 bags. No. 7 opened unchanged and closed 19 to 21 points lower. Sales, 1,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos—May, 10.50c; July, 10.65c; September, 10.98c; December, 11.07c. Rio prices follow:

To the Holders of General Mortgage Five Per Cent Bonds of

The Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad Company

Due August 1, 1955

The unprecedented decline in railroad revenues during the long period of the depression has seriously impaired the ability of this company to provide necessary funds for efficient operation and adequate maintenance during the coming year, and currently, fully to meet its fixed charges. In view of this condition the board of directors, at a meeting held January 27, 1934, decided to withhold, for the time being, payment of interest due February 1, 1934, on the General Mortgage Bonds.

In view of the prospects of an early completion of the Dotsero Cut-off and the shortening of the Company's line between Denver and Salt Lake City by 175 miles, as well as the marked upward trend which has appeared in the Company's traffic during the past few months, the Board of Directors, at a meeting held on March 23, 1934, decided that it would be advisable and in the interest of holders of General Mortgage Bonds to propose a plan for avoiding a default under the mortgage securing these bonds. The plan provides that these bondholders shall receive immediate payment of one-half of the February 1, 1934, coupon and shall withhold, until December 31, 1935, presentation of the balance of this coupon and the full amount of the coupons maturing August 1, 1934, and February 1, 1935.

PLAN

1. The company will place in a special deposit subject to requisition by City Bank Farmers Trust Company, a sum sufficient to pay 50 per cent of the face amount of the interest coupon on the General Mortgage Bonds of the Company due February 1, 1934.
2. Bondholders will assent to the plan by presenting to the City Bank Farmers Trust Company the three coupons due, respectively, February 1, 1934, August 1, 1934, and February 1, 1935, detached from the General Mortgage Bonds, for endorsement of the payment of one-half of the face amount of the February 1, 1934, coupon, and for stamping each of such coupons with an appropriate legend indicating the acceptance of this plan and otherwise as may be required by law, or the rules of the New York Stock Exchange. The Railroad Company will pay all expenses in connection with this plan.
3. The City Bank Farmers Trust Company will pay to each depositor of such three coupons, from the money so deposited by the Company, one-half of the face amount of the February 1, 1934, coupon and endorse the payment thereof and stamp such coupons as above provided, and return said coupons so stamped to the depositor.
4. Whenever the Company determines that sufficient of the bondholders have accepted the plan to make the same effective, it will declare the plan operative by serving notice thereof on the City Bank Farmers Trust Company and causing notice thereof to be published, and thereupon presentation of each of such coupons stamped as aforesaid shall be deferred until December 31, 1935.
5. In the event the plan is not declared operative by December 31, 1935, or receivers or trustees for the Company are appointed, or the Company shall declare the plan abandoned, in the same manner provided for declaring the plan operative the bondholders and the coupons presented for stamping as above provided shall cease to be subject to the plan, any endorsement to the contrary notwithstanding.

With the acceptance of this plan, and the continuation of the present trend of traffic, it should be possible for the Company to meet its obligations throughout the current year and avoid the consequences of a present reorganization, which might be detrimental to holders of General Mortgage Bonds.

Your Board of Directors believe this plan to be in the interest of all holders of General Mortgage Bonds and strongly urges each holder to detach and immediately present the three coupons maturing February 1 1934, August 1, 1934, and February 1, 1935, to where they will receive immediate payment of one-half of February 1, 1934, coupon, and the coupons will be stamped in accordance with the plan and returned to them for affixing to their bonds.

CITY BANK FARMERS TRUST COMPANY

HOG PRICES SAG; VEAL CUTS INTO PORK MARKET

Easter Lamb Top $12.50; Cattle Strong.

The hog market softened quickly yesterday after a brief show of strength at the opening, with later trading largely on a weak to 10 cents lower price basis. Declines in stocks and commodity markets were contributing causes to the reactionary trend of hogs, as were the heavier receipts.

A scattering of selected light butchers were closely sorted at the $4.60 top price, equaling the high mark of Monday's session, but the majority of the top grades of 175 to 250 pound averages cashed at $4.40 to $4.55. Most of the heavier hogs weighing 275 to 400 pounds sold at $4 to $4.35. One lot of butchers averaging 450 pounds brought $3.60. The general average for the day at $4.35 was unchanged.

The larger share of old crop butchers of good quality in the run held the average costs of droves steady. The quality of the new crop hogs continues very poor.

Veal Curtails Pork Sales.

Reports from the wholesale pork trade have been rather discouraging. Dealers in fresh pork say that the competition from veal is stiffer this year than it ordinarily is just prior to Easter. Calf receipts this month show an increase of about 60 per cent compared with the same period in March, 1933. A government report quoted dressed veal calves yesterday at 6 to 11 cents per pound, as against 5 to 10 cents on the same day last year. Pork loins yesterday were listed at 11 to 13½ cents, compared to 7 to 10 cents last year.

Several consignments of new crop spring lambs arrived from nearby states yesterday and sold from $11.00 to $12.50 for the Easter trade. They were of medium to good quality, about two to three months old and weighed from 36 to 64 pounds each, the strongest weights at the top of the list.

Old crop "fed" lambs comprised the bulk of the receipts on the market and prices were generally steady.

Cattle Regain Losses.

Smaller receipts of cattle stimulated action in beef steers and some of the Monday loss was replaced. Good grades of killing steers were strong to 25 cents higher. Choice long yearlings averaging 1,088 pounds at $7.65 equaled the previous high mark of the year and stood $1.15 above the top price on the corresponding day in 1933. The range of cattle prices is wider than at this time last year. The bulk of beef steers cashed within a range of $5.35 to $7.25 yesterday, whereas a year ago they were selling mostly from $4.55 to $5.65. With the exception of calves, other live stock shared the recovery. Butcher stock ruled strong to 25 cents higher, some instances uncovering even more gain in beef cows. Calves were weak to 25 cents lower.

LARD SPOTS AND FUTURES DROP AS HOLDERS UNLOAD

Liquidation of lard futures by timid holders due to the lower prices of hogs, grains, and cotton resulted in a close at net losses of 15 cents to 17½ cents yesterday. Cash lots were 12½ cents lower, with regular and loose $6.15 and leaf $6.12½. Liverpool lard was 3d to 6d lower on near futures and 3d higher on September.

Exports of lard on Monday were 973,700 pounds and of bacon 1,535 pounds. Bellies for future delivery were 5 cents to 7½ cents lower, except on September, which remained unchanged. Cash bellies were steady at $8. Fresh pork loins were 10½ cents to 13 cents.
